

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1891.

SECRETARY'S REPORT, No. 2.

CAMBRIDGE.

PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS.

1896.

CLASS BABY.

MISS MARY CUNNINGHAM BISHOP.

P
Univ
H

HARVARD COLLEGE.

Presented with the compliments of

ARTHUR J. GARCEAU,

Secretary of Class of '91.

SECRETARY'S REPORT, No. 2.

348880
5. 4. 38.

BOSTON :

PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS.

1895.

CLASS BABY.

MISS MARY CUNNINGHAM BISHOP.

P
Univ
H

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1891.

SECRETARY'S REPORT, No. 2.

348880
5. 4. 38.

BOSTON :
PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS.
1895.

2 14-591

CLASS COMMITTEE.

ARTHUR JAMES CUMNOCK.

JAMES PARRISH LEE.

MINOT OSGOOD SIMONS, TREASURER.

CLASS SECRETARY.

ARTHUR J. GARCEAU.

TO THE CLASS OF 'NINETY-ONE.

GREETING :

I take great pleasure in presenting this the Second Report of the Class. If it is late in making its appearance, the fault is not mine but that of the many laggards who have kept me waiting for their accounts. It is almost impossible to get complete returns, as it is a long time since the last report, and the men are scattered about the globe. However, I feel positive that nearly all have received my circular, as only the following were returned to me: Wm. J. Fick, Duncan McDermid, Neal B. Thomas, and Charles A. Whiting. In several cases where I have not heard from the men, I have filled in their blanks from my personal knowledge of them and from suggestions of others. And here I should like to ask of you to send me information, at any time, of any member of the Class, for my budget of news in the "Harvard Graduates' Magazine." Some have done this, and I especially thank Oliver for many fine accounts. Any permanent change of address should be sent to me, and I shall be pleased to give any information pertaining to the Class.

In looking over the report, about the only change over others is that I have combined special students, temporary members, and those who graduated with '90; the names will be found in italics throughout the report. I have dropped only those men who have not answered my circular and who have been identified with the Class of '90. Some of these, in a personal letter to me, have expressed this desire. If any of the others wish to be regarded as members of '91, they may write and I will reinstate them. One other member who graduated with '93 has, by special request, been also dropped.

Any one who has been identified with the Class, and whose name does not appear in the index, will please communicate with me, and I shall be pleased to attend to the matter.

I call your special attention to the Treasurer's statement. As will be seen, the Class Fund is by no means as large as it should be, and as we are yearly eating into the principal, it cannot last long. A Class Fund should be such that the interest alone should meet the demands of the Treasurer. I cannot urge too strongly that delinquent subscribers should pay their dues ; and I should like to make it a strong point that new subscriptions are always gratefully received, and thankfully acknowledged.

Through the kindness of J. C. Bishop, I have the pictures of the Class Baby and her cradle (?). It will be agreeably remembered that at the Triennial the cradle was presented to Bishop, and was duly christened in a most appropriate fashion, every one present assisting. It gives me great pleasure to give you Miss Bishop's picture. May she live long and prosper !

I have made arrangements with the Quincy House to have our next Triennial dinner there in 1897. I tried hard to get into Young's and Parker's, but everything is engaged there by the older classes for years ahead ; and now that the Tremont House has been torn down, we are restricted in our choice. However, the Quincy has always been good, and we might as well stay there. I have also secured the use of Room No. 15, Holworthy, where we shall meet on next Commencement Day, unless you hear something to the contrary.

Errors there must be in a report like this, but I think you will overlook them when you consider that I have tried to present it to you in a very short time after receiving the material, and also that it is now four years, nearly, since the last.

I have tried to eliminate all personal feelings or friendly comment of every kind regarding my secretaryship. I think I have answered all congratulatory notes, and if I have missed any one, I say now, as I have said to the others, that "their kind of a letter was the pay for this kind of a job," and I thank them, and all of you, for your good wishes.

I close by expressing a desire that this report will meet your hearty approval, that you are satisfied with your new Secretary, and that you will all be at the next dinner to say so.

Sincerely yours,

ARTHUR J. GARCEAU.

RECORD OF THE CLASS OF 1891.

—

An asterisk (*) is used to denote deceased members. Unless otherwise designated the post-graduate degrees are from Harvard.

Seabury Wells Allen	† Morris Loveman Black
William Howard Allen, M. D. 1895.	Otis Fisher Black
William Amory, 2d	† Charles Arthur Blake
††† Gustav Bernhard Anderson, A. B.	† George Wesley Blanchard
(Augustana Coll.) 1889.	John Adams Blanchard, LL. B. 1895.
Robert Whitman Atkinson	Charles Crosby Blaney, LL. B. 1895.
Alfred S. Austrian	Border Bowman
John Alton Avery	Sewall Carroll Brackett, LL. B. (B. U.)
Edward Albon Bailey	1893.
Harvey Humphrey Baker, A. M. 1894;	†† Schuyler Colfax Brewster, A. B.
LL. B. 1894.	(Univ. of Kansas) 1890.
Herman Trost Baldwin, M. D. 1895.	Arthur Hendricks Brooks
James Dixon Roman Baldwin	Lawrence Brooks
Francis Reginald Bangs, LL. B. 1894.	Carroll Neidé Brown
Robert Shaw Barlow, A. M. 1894;	Frederick Wires Brown, LL. B. 1894.
LL. B. 1894.	†† William Garrott Brown, A. M. 1892.
Joseph Henry Barnes, Jr., LL. B. 1894.	Arthur Lewis Bumpus, S. T. B. 1894.
††† Morgan Barnes	†† Charles Bell Burke, LL. B.
Amos Noyes Barron	(Vanderbilt Univ.) 1889.
Thomas Barron	†† Robert James Burkitt, A. B.
John Foster Bass, LL. B. 1894.	(Dalhousie Univ.) 1889.
††† Walter Greenwood Beach, A. M.	†† Edward Burnham Burling, A. B.
1892; A. B. (Marietta Coll.) 1888.	(Iowa Coll.) 1890.
Charles Harrison Bean	†† James Perkins Burling, A. B.
†††† Adolf Augustus Berle, A. M.	(Iowa Coll.) 1889; D. B. (Chicago
1891; D. B. (Oberlin Coll.) 1887;	Theo. Sem.) 1893.
D. D. (Yankton) 1894.	Frederick Wright Burlingham, A. M.
Edward Sidney Berry, LL. B. 1894.	LL. B. 1894.
††† Henry Franklin Berry	Arthur Ellington Burr, LL. B. 1894.
Samuel Lawrence Bigelow, S. B.	George Daniel Bussey
(M. I. T.) 1895.	†† Francis Gordon Caffey, A. M.
Heber Reginald Bishop, Jr.	(Howard Coll.) 1887.
James Cunningham Bishop	William Morgan Cannon

† Joined the Class Sophomore Year.

†† Joined the Class Junior Year. ††† Joined the Class Senior Year.

†††† Members of the Graduate Department who took the degree of A. B. with the Class.

- ††† William Van Allen Catron, A. M.
 1894; A. B. (Univ. of Missouri)
 1890.
 †††† David Allen Center, S. B.
 (Mass. Inst. of Tech.) 1888.
 ††† Thomas Chalmers, A. B. (Eureka
Coll.) 1889; Ph. D. (Hiram Coll.)
 1892.
 ††† George Augustus Chamberlain † Theodore Chamberlin, M. D. (Coll.
P. & S. of N. Y.) 1895.
 †††† Willis Arden Chamberlin, A. B.
 (Denison Univ.) 1890; A. M.
 (idem) 1894.
 Frank Dyer Chester
 George Herbert Chittenden
 ††† Frederick Redman Clow, A. M.
 1892; A. B. (Carleton Coll.)
 1889.
 ††† Frederick William Coburn
 Ernest Amory Codman
 Maurice Jefferson Cody
 William Bryce Cohen
 † Jerome Wahlrath Coombs
 Herbert Copeland
 Henry Wick Corning
 Franklin Coues
 † Edmund Otis Cox
 Stephen Van Rensselaer Crosby
 Harry Irving Cummings, LL. B. 1895.
 John Cummings, A. M. 1892; Ph. D.
 (Univ. of Chicago) 1894.
 Arthur James Cumnock
 † Thomas Hatfield Currie, A. M. 1893.
 Howard Gardiner Cushing
 Frederick Lewis Dabney
 Charles Balfour Darling, M. D. 1894.
 Horace Andrew Davis, A. M. and LL.
 B. 1894.
 Robert Howe Davis, * 1894.
 †††† Thompson Trueman Davis, A. M.
 1892; A. B. (Mt. Allison Coll.)
 1874.
 Dudley Stuart Dean
 Francis Parkman Denny, M. D. 1895.
- Philip Yardley De Normandie
 Charles Reighley Detrick
 ††† Howard Williams Dickinson, A. B.
 (Marietta Coll.) 1888; A. M.
 (idem) 1892.
 John Lockwood Dodge
 Perley Doe
 ††† William Ephraim Daniel Downes
 Augustus William Dudley, A. M. 1893;
 M. D. 1895.
 John Duff, LL. B. 1894.
 † William Colby Eaton
 ††† Frank Elmer-Edwards, B. D.
 ††† Edwin Emerson, A. B. (Cornell
Univ.) 1890.
 Ralph Lincoln Emerson
 Torrey Everett, LL. B. (Columbia)
 1892.
 William Joslyn Farquhar
 James Ralph Finlay
 George Stanley Fiske, LL. B. 1895.
 Edward Fuller Eitzhugh
 † Frederick Glead Fleetwood
 Wyman Kneeland Flint
 James Everett Frame
 Adolph Richard Frank
 Robert Maynard Franklin, LL. B.
 1894.
 ††† Richard Patrick Freeman, Jr.
 Edward Fulton, A. B. (Dalhousie
Univ.) 1889.
 Arthur J. Garceau
 Frank Honoré Gerrodette
 ††† Charles Ferris Gettemy, A. B.
 (Knox Coll.) 1890; A. M. (idem).
 Henry Robert Gledhill, M. D. (Colum- bia) 1894.
 George Tarleton Goldthwaite
 Benjamin Apthorp Gould, Jr., A. M., LL. B. 1894.
 Louis Morris Greer
 William Lamson Griffin
 Thomas Edmund Guerin
 Robert Sever Hale, A. M. 1892; M. E.
 (Cornell) 1893.

† Joined the Class Sophomore Year.

††† Joined the Class Senior Year.

†††† Members of the Graduate Department who took the degree of A. B. with the Class.

- | | | |
|--|---------|---|
| Robert Beverly Hale, | * 1895. | Harry McCormick Kelly |
| Angelo Hall | | ††† George Frederic Kettell, Ph. B. |
| John Otis Hall, Jr. | | (Wesleyan Univ.) 1889. |
| Alexander Brown Halliday, A. M. (Columbia) 1893; LL. B. (idem) 1894. | | Tarrant Putnam King |
| ††† Henry Hale Harris, A. M. 1892. | | Alfred David Kohn |
| Robert Henry Harris | | George Nichols Lamb |
| ††† William Fenwick Harris, A. M. | | John Watson Lawrence, * 1895. |
| 1892. | | † Angelo Lee |
| Philip Julian Harrison | | † James Parrish Lee |
| ††† Horatus Bonar Hastings | | † Thomas Sim Lee |
| Alfred Samuel Hayes, LL. B. 1894. | | Joseph Leiter |
| Arthur Everett Healey, LL. B. 1893. | | Edmund Francis Leland |
| John Brooks Henderson, Jr. | | Horace De Young Lentz |
| Wilbur Franklin Henderson | | ††† Frederick Liddeke, A. B. (Univ. of Kansas) 1890. |
| ††† Omer Fenimore Hershey, LL. B. | | Nicholas Longworth |
| (Maryland) 1892. | | James Arnold Lowell, LL. B. 1894. |
| ††† William Hill, A. B. (Univ. of Kansas) 1890. | | Matthew Luce, Jr. |
| Frank Henry Hitchcock, LL. B. (Columbian) 1894; LL. M. (idem) | | Edwin Solomon Mack, A. M. and LL. |
| 1895. | | B. 1893. |
| Arthur Clark Holt | | James Phillip McAdams |
| †† Wilfred Lawrence Hoopes, S. B. | | †† Edward Davidson McCollom, A. M. |
| (Univ. of Penn.) 1884; B. D. | | 1892. |
| 1894. | | Hugh McCulloch, Jr. |
| Charles Sidney Hopkinson | | ††† Duncan McDermid |
| William Guild Howard, A. M. 1892. | | Arthur Nye McGeoch, LL. B. 1894. |
| John Mead Howells | | †† Charles Haddon McIntyre, A. B. |
| Daniel Lawrence Hunt, M. D. 1894. | | (Acadia Coll.) 1889; LL. B. |
| Fred Albion Huntress | | 1894. |
| †† James Ralph Jacoby | | ††† Frank Bowers McKean, * 1894. |
| James Rockwood Jenkins, S. T. B. | | Kenneth McKenzie, A. M. 1893; Ph. |
| 1895. | | D. 1895. |
| Frederic Larrabee Jerris, LL. B. 1895. | | ††† Ambrose Watts MacLeod, A. B. |
| ††† Herbert Spencer Johnson, A. B. | | (Dalhousie Coll.) 1888; * 1893. |
| (Univ. of Oregon) 1887; Gr. | | ††† Frederic Joseph MacLeod, A. B. |
| (Rochester Theo. Sem.) 1893. | | (Dalhousie Coll.) 1890. |
| Jonathan Edward Johnson, B. D. 1894. | | ††† Fred William McNear, B. L. |
| Grahame Jones | | (Univ. of California) 1890. |
| William Preble Jones | | John Watkins Mariner |
| George Wheeler Keene | | †† Melville Asbury Marsh, A. M. |
| ††† Frederick Lincoln Kendall, A. B. | | 1892. |
| (Carleton Coll.) 1890; A. M. | | Glenn Clayton Mead |
| (idem) 1893. | | Edgar Mills, Jr. |
| | | Edward Calvin Moen, LL. B. (Columbia) 1894. |

† Joined the Class Sophomore Year.

†† Joined the Class Junior Year.

††† Joined the Class Senior.

- ††† Edward Clark Morey, A. M. (Syracuse Univ.) 1887; A. M. 1892; A. M. 1893; A. M. (Bucknell) 1891.
- Frederic Grinnell Morgan
Charles King Morrison
- ††† Lewis Kennedy Morse, LL. B. 1895.
- Galloupe Morton, LL. B. 1894.
- James Madison Morton, Jr., A. M. and LL. B.
- William Augustus Muller
- ††† Nettleton Neff
Murry Nelson, Jr.
Arthur Boylston Nichols, Jr.
- † Jesse Gilman Nichols, A. M. 1892.
- Harry Lovett Norton
Richard Winslow Nutter
Robert Lincoln O'Brien
John Oenslager, Jr., M. D. (Univ. of Penn.) 1894.
- Andrew Oliver, 2d, A. M. 1895.
- George Laurie Osgood
Louis Coues Page
John Bryant Paine
Edward Oliver Parker
James Alfred Parker
- ††† Wallace Asabel Parker, M. D. (Univ. of Mich.) 1892.
- Starr Parsons
Guy Patillo
Harry Hollister Pease
David Crowell Percival
Nathan Wyman Perkins
Thomas Nelson Perkins, LL. B. 1894.
- Warren Phinney
William Barnes Platt, * 1892.
Régis Henri Post
George Livermore Potter
Harry Austin Potter
Robert Burnside Potter
John Orville Powers
George Wesley Priest
Charles Russell Lowell Putnam, M. D. 1895.
- † John Parkhurst Putnam, A. M. 1894.
William Merwin Randol
Willard Reed
Philip Mercer Rhinelander
Harrison Norman Rice, LL. B. 1893.
John Wesley Rice, B. D. (Yale) 1895.
Henry Rich
- ††† John William Roberts, A. B. (Colgate Univ.) 1890, A. M.
Fred Norris Robinson, A. M. 1892; Ph. D. 1894.
- Francis Stetson Rogers
Logan Herbert Rootes
Victor Sydney Rothschild
Henry Arthur Rusch
- ††† Virgil Ryder, A. B. (Univ. of Wooster) 1890; A. M. (idem) 1893.
- George Hubbard Savage
Henry Martyn Saville
Sumner Carruth Saville, M. D. 1894.
Harris Eastman Sawyer, A. M. 1894; Ph. D. 1895.
- Francis Philip Sears, LL. B. 1895.
William Richards Sears, A. M. and LL. B. 1894.
- Frank Webber Sever
Quincy Adams Shaw, Jr.
† Justice Pearl Sheffield
† Arthur Beaman Simonds
Minot Osgood Simons, A. M., D. B. 1894.
- Charles Lewis Slattery
††† Fritz Hubert Small, A. M. 1892.
††† James Brady Smiley, A. B. (Oberlin Coll.) 1889; A. M. 1894.
- Crapo Cornell Smith
Frank Avery Smith
Thomas Jefferson Stead
Charles Ephraim Stearns, LL. B. (Boston Univ.) 1894.
William Charles Sterne
Joseph Austin Stetson, LL. B. 1894.
Weston Stickney, LL. B. 1894.
Lawrence Mason Stockton

† Joined the Class Sophomore Year.

††† Joined the Class Senior Year.

†††† Members of the Graduate Department who took the degree of A. B. with the Class.

Isaac Newton Phelps Stokes	Arthur Wisswald Weyse, A. M. 1892;
John Dunbar Stults, *1893.	Ph. D. 1894.
Alfred Sutro, LL. B. (Univ. of Cal.)	Robert Treat Whitehouse, LL. B.
Charles Louis Swan	1893.
Hugh Tallant, A. M. 1891.	Charles Allen Whiting
Albert Ernst Taussig	Mortimer Oliver Wilcox
Leo Boone Thomas, Gr. (Newton	Maurice Hilger Wildes
Theol.)	Harold Sanford Wilkinson
Roger Edmund Tileston	Charles Wesley Willard
††† John Tunis, D. B. 1882; A. B.	Allen Hamilton Williams
(Coll. City, N. Y.) 1878.	Ernest Paulinus Williams
Wallace Manahan Turner	Gibson Tenney Williams
George Tyson	†† Leroy Blanchard Williams
Paul Barbeau Vallé	Moses Williams, Jr.
Robert Wainwright	Charles Fenno Winslow
Arthur Stuart Walcott, LL. B. 1895.	Frederic Winthrop
Henry Bradford Washburn, B. D. 1894.	Grenville Bayard Winthrop, A. M. and
†† Jesse Meyer Weissman	LL. B. (Columbia).
Alfred Rodman Weld	William Russell Witherle
Alfred Winsor Weld	Robert William Wood, Jr.
Samuel Wells, Jr.	Arthur Vernon Woodworth, B. D.
Jacob Wendell, Jr.	1894.
††† Lewis Gardner Westgate, A. B.	George Bentz Woomer
(Wesleyan Univ.) 1890; A. M.	Charles Henry Conrad Wright, A. B.
1892.	(Oxford, Eng.) 1895.
Harry White, A. M. 1894.

295 — 7 = 288

This list includes Special Students, Temporary members, and all those who did not receive the degree of A. B. with '91.

An asterisk () is used to denote deceased members.*

Cyrus Willis Alger	E. B. Corbin, *1889.
Frank Cole Babbitt, A. M. 1892; Ph. D.	John Thomas Grant Coyle
1895.	Francis Boardman Croninshield
Edward Larrabee Baker, Jr.	W. W. Cryder
Henry Wakefield Bates	Frank Augustus Cummings
George Reynolds Beal	Frederic Haines Curtiss
Ansel Earle Beckwith	Charles Rochester Eastman, Ph. D.
Samuel Robinson Bell	1894.
Kenneth Brown	John Beck Embick
John Torrey Burnett	Frederick Reid Estes
Rufus Shackford Chase	Otis Everett
Robert Jones Clark	William John Fick
Alfred Alonzo Clatur, Jr.	Marshall Field, Jr.
Francis Gordon Coffey, A. M. 1892.	Harold Brooks Fiske

†† Joined the Class Junior Year.

††† Joined the Class Senior Year.

- William Hahn Foley, A. M. (Kenyon)
1894.
- John White Geary
- Herbert Joseph George
- James Philip Goray, M. D. 1891.
- John Frederick Gray
- Charles Burton Gulick, A. M. 1891;
Ph. D. 1891.
- Karleton Spalding Hackett
- Aldis Owen Hall
- Earl Lander Hambleton, LL. B. (Northwestern) 1890.
- Edward Crowninshield Hammond
- John Walker Hawkins
- John Joseph Higgins, LL. B., 1890.
- Arthur Dehon Hill, LL. B., 1894.
- Otis Shepard Hill
- James Eads How, Diploma (Meadville).
- Carl Bailey Hurst, M. A. and Ph. D.
(U. of Tübingen, Ger.) 1895.
- Barton Pickering Jenks
- Edgar Jonas Knapp
- Matthew Laffin, 2d, *1890.
- Joseph Granville Leach, M. D. (Univ. of Penn.) 1892.
- Wilmon Whilldin Leach
- Charles Frothingham Leland
- George Henry Leonard
- Albert Goodell Liscomb
- Arthur Malbon Little
- Joseph Longstreth
- Sidney Archer Lord, M. D. 1894.
- Henry Stephens McPherson
- Robert Foster Maddox
- Lucius Elliot Marple
- Henry Stanton Marquardt, *1892.
- John Jerome Mastin
- William Gregory Meadows, LL. B.
(Buffalo) 1892.
- Charles Louis Mix, A. M. 1891; M. D.
1894.
- Albert Randell Moore, LL. B. (Minn.)
1891; LL. M. (idem) 1894.
- Josiah Beard Moore
- Milo True Morrill
- Frederic Brooks Noyes, Gr. (Andover Theo. Sem.) 1889.
- James Beaumont Noyes
- Curtis Hidden Page, A. M. and Ph. D.
- Lewis Gray Parke
- Frederic Henry Parker
- Samuel Dunn Parker
- Henry Arnold Peckham, LL. B.
(Union).
- Henry Maule Richards, S. D. 1895.
- John Cole Hayden Richardson
- Henry Phipps Ross
- Walter Fairbanks Sawyer, M. D. 1893.
- Richard Sears
- Herbert Small
- Charles Henry Stone
- George Henry Stone
- Ralph Stockman Tarr
- Edmund Sanford Thompson, M. D.
(Coll. P. and S. N. Y.) 1892.
- Frederick Tudor, Jr.
- Stephen Van Rensselaer
- James Henry Walker
- Raymond Leslie Weeks, A. M.
- Harry Wood
- John William Young, *1891.

CLASS OF '91.

SEABURY WELLS ALLEN.

"Almost immediately after leaving Cambridge I went into business in Boston in the employ of the New England Telephone Company. After remaining with them for a year I entered a Marine Insurance office where I spent another year. Then, not caring for a business life, I decided to do what I had always fancied, i. e., study medicine. So, in the autumn of '93 I entered the Harvard Medical School.

"Otherwise my life since graduation has been uneventful."

WILLIAM HOWARD ALLEN.

"My wife received A. B. at Boston University in '91. Just after graduation from Cambridge I was elected on the School Board of my town and suffered re-election last spring at the close of first term of service. I have been in the practice of medicine here for one year and now am about to resume the study of medicine for one year in Europe, sailing Aug. 7."

WILLIAM AMORY, 2D.

"I am single and not engaged, and have been working down town since graduation, with occasional vacations."

GUSTAV BERNHARD ANDERSON.

(See p. 89.)

ROBERT WHITMAN ATKINSON.

"Immediately after graduation, I embarked for Europe, where I remained until September, 1894, returning to my native shore for a visit, in the summer of 1892. Most of the time I was abroad, I was studying music in the Conservatory at Munich ; in the summers, however, I did considerable travelling, and also in the spring vacations. Since returning, I have accepted no position of a permanent nature, and am still somewhat of a free lance."

ALFRED S. AUSTRIAN.

Is still in the Windy City.

JOHN ALTON AVERY.

"The four years since graduation have been entirely devoted to my chosen work, — teaching. The first two years I spent in Hartford, Conn., where I taught mathematics and physics in a boys' preparatory school, by name, the Collins Street Classical School. Though the school was of high grade, yet I felt satisfied that two years in any private school would be sufficient training in commanding discipline at least. From there, I went to the State Normal School, Plymouth, N. H., under the charge of Dr. C. C. Rounds, this year President of the National Council of Education. My work in the Normal School has given me careful training along another side of my profession, — the methods of teaching and criticism.

"This past spring I accepted a new position for the next year, that of Teacher of Mathematics in the English High School, Somerville, Mass., — an entirely new building and a teaching force of nineteen.

"My work I find very enjoyable and can see no reason now for leaving it for other fields."

FRANK COLE BABBITT.

"Since graduation I have been teaching in Miss C. L. Rideoute's school, in Boston, and at the same time I have kept on with my work in the Graduate School at Harvard. This June I received the degree of Ph. D. (in classical philology), and soon after I was appointed to one of the new fellowships which have just been established in the American School of Classical Studies, at Athens, where I am now."

EDWARD LARRABEE BAKER.

"The year I left college, I married Frances L. Pratt, of Chicago, and started immediately upon a journey around the world. Travelling Westward, we visited Japan, China, Ceylon, India, and Egypt, and returned home by way of Europe, spending a very profitable year, as I believe. I learned much more by observation at that time than by a year's application to books. The countries that I found the most interesting, in their being different from our own civilization, were Japan and India.

"In the years following I have become interested in architecture, and have spent a summer in the country near Paris and one near Florence to enable my wife to study painting.

"I hope to make my home in California, as I have become interested in fruit raising there. I have invested a small amount, and if I find that it is profitable, I intend to go into it more extensively. We hope to go West the first of next year to remain permanently, and shall probably build near Pasadena, having found there the most delightful climate in the world."

HARVEY HUMPHREY BAKER.

"I entered the Harvard Law School the autumn after we graduated and took my LL. B. in 1894. Immediately after graduating from the Law School I began practice in the office of Messrs. Hayes & Williams, 28 State Street, Room 47, Boston, and am now a member of the firm."

HERMAN TROST BALDWIN.

"Have been through the Harvard Medical School, and July, 1894, entered Boston City Hospital for an eighteen months' service as House Officer. Am still there."

FRANCIS REGINALD BANGS.

"The autumn after graduation I entered the Harvard Law School where I stayed my full three years and graduated with my class in June, 1894. Early in September of the same year I went as a student into the office of R. M. Saltonstall and C. H.

Tyler, Esqrs., and stayed there until the first of July, 1895, when I set up for myself at 22 Pemberton Square, Boston, in which place I may always be found, during business hours, by those who need my services or desire my company."

THOMAS BARRON.

"The winter after leaving college, I went to Reading, Pa., where I remained ten months, till the fall of 1892, in the employ of the Carpenter Steel Works. Afterwards acted as sales-agent of the Steel Company in New York City. In the fall of 1894, joined Frothingham & Timpson in the real estate business at 51 Liberty Street, and have remained with them since that time.

"Spent two to three months each year from 1891 to 1893 on a cattle ranch in Southern New Mexico, most of the time taken up in hunting trips, during which I had the luck to kill two bears, also deer, wild turkeys, etc.

"In August, 1893, installed the exhibit of the Carpenter Steel Company in the Manufacturers' Building, at the World's Fair, and remained there in charge of it until the middle of September.

"Spent a pleasant week last spring in Brooklyn, with Company K, Seventh Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., during the trolley strike.

"Belong to the Harvard, Seawanhaka Yacht, Narrows Island Shooting, and Seventh Regiment Veteran Clubs."

ROBERT SHAW BARLOW.

"After graduating I spent three years in the Law School, and took my degree there. I then came to New York and have settled here. I was admitted to the bar last winter and am now Junior Assistant to the counsel to the Corporation of the City of New York."

JOSEPH HENRY BARNES, JR.

"Am member (Republican) of Common Council of City of Boston from Ward 1 (East Boston). Am practising law at 27 School Street, Room 51, Boston; office by myself."

MORGAN BARNES.

“Spent the year after graduation in study and travel abroad, mainly in Italy and Germany. In September, 1892, accepted an instructorship in English and Latin in Grove City College, and has since been advanced to the chair of Latin which he now occupies. Is neither married nor in the gospel ministry, reports to the contrary, notwithstanding. Devotes his leisure time to amateur photography and fishing.”

JOHN FOSTER BASS.

Took the regular course at the Harvard Law School. Was a member of the Pow Wow and Phi Delta Phi. Travelled in Egypt in winter of 1891-92, and in England and France in summer of 1894. Was clerk in the office of Sherman Evarts, 52 Wall Street, New York, during the winter of 1894-95. Expects to practice law in New York City. May his clients multiply in the land of Gotham!

WALTER GREENWOOD BEACH.

“I was Instructor in History at Oberlin for the year 1892-1893, and since then have been Professor of History and Philosophy in the woman's department of Marietta College.”

CHARLES HARRISON BEAN.

“I can find little that would prove of great interest. At present I am in business but do not regard myself as settled. In fact, I have nothing sensational to report about myself. You might say that I would go on record as saying that '91 is undoubtedly the best of all Harvard classes of recent years.”

ANSEL EARLE BECKWITH.

“The first year after leaving college was spent in Boston, where I was connected with a comic weekly, owned by John O. Patten, entitled ‘The Bostonian.’ I then returned to my old home in Norwich, and for a short time engaged in the grain business with my father. This not being suited to my tastes, I again entered journalistic work, and for a year and a half edited a comic society paper, entitled 'Snap Shots.' This venture being quite successful, it was sold to the Norwich Printing and Binding Company, and upon the first of December last I became secretary of this concern. The name of the paper was changed to the Norwich Post, and from a monthly publication, it became a weekly. Since its start it has been successful, and only last week the paper was enlarged.

"Concerning myself, there is not much to write that would be of interest to my classmates. My time has been pretty fully occupied with my home and business duties. My advertising work necessitates considerable travelling, and I have had the pleasure of meeting a good many of the members of '91, many of whom I did not know until after leaving college. I was unable to be present at the last triennial dinner, but trust that I may be at the next."

ADOLF AUGUSTUS BERLE.

"Was a graduate of Oberlin, Ohio. After two years in pastorate at St. Paul, came to Harvard and took A. B. and A. M. with '91. Studied parts of three years at Berlin, London, and Paris, and was called as pastor of the Brighton Congregational Church, Boston, in May, 1891. Settled there in fall of same year. Was married to Mary Augusta Wright, daughter of Professor G. Frederick Wright, of Oberlin College. Have two children, Lina Wright, eldest, and Adolf Augustus, Jr., younger. Have been associate editor of the Bibliotheca Sacra, since 1892, giving special attention to a department of Semitic history and archæology. Received the degree of D. D. from Yankton College, in 1894, and was appointed one hundred and thirteenth Municipal Orator of Boston, July 4, 1895. The subject of the oration was 'The Constitution and the Citizen.' Wife was A. B. of class of 1889, Oberlin College, graduating at head of class.

EDWARD SIDNEY BERRY.

"Admitted to bar, April, 1895. Office 71 Kilby Street, Boston (with the liability claims' department for United States branch of Employers' Liability Assurance Corporation, limited)."

SAMUEL LAWRENCE BIGELOW.

"For two years after graduation was in business. Then gave this up to study chemistry. Spent the next two years studying chemistry in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At the end of this time received their degree. Am now in Germany on the point of entering the university at Leipzig, to continue my studies. Shall probably be in Germany for the next two years or more. My foreign address is care of Brown, Shipley & Co. (bankers), London, England."

HEBER REGINALD BISHOP, JR.

"I have very little to tell about myself except that I have been living out here in Chicago since the August after we graduated, engaged in business. Nothing very exciting has happened to me worth relating. I hope to get on for the next triennial and see '91 again."

JAMES CUNNINGHAM BISHOP.

Is with the Merchants Loan and Trust Company, of Chicago, Ill.

MORRIS LOVEMAN BLACK.

Is travelling in Europe — will be back about the middle of September.

CHARLES ARTHUR BLAKE.

"In September, 1891, I became a teacher in the High School at Omaha, Neb., with work mainly in history, political economy, and geometry.

"Just before the close of the school year in June, 1893, a throat trouble and cough of some months' duration culminated in severe hemorrhages of the lungs, recurring during ten days, and completely exhausting my strength. The advice of physicians indicated that I must spend from two to five years in active out-door life in the Rocky Mountain region, if I desired to recover.

"After slowly recuperating during the summer I went to New Mexico and spent the winter upon a fruit ranch near Silver City.

The mild, dry climate and altitude worked a marked improvement, but a more northerly latitude seemed preferable for summer.

“In May, 1894, I went to Montana with a party of engineers to work upon the extension of the B. & M. R. (C. B. & Q.) R. R. to Billings. We encamped for the summer upon the banks of the Little Horn River near its junction with the Big Horn at Fort Custer. The work was all upon the Crow Indian Reservation, so that I had exchanged the bronzed Mexican and his adobe civilization only for the darker hued Indian and his tepee. Ten miles above us was the Crow Agency and upon a hill just beyond there stands the monument, marking the spot where Gen. Custer and his men made their last stand against the Sioux in 1876.

“In the valley between this hill and the Little Horn we found about four hundred tepees pitched on the morning of July 4. There the best part of the Crow tribe was assembled and with them many Sioux who had come from Pine Ridge in South Dakota and the Rosebud Agency in Montana, for their annual visit to the Crows and for the great war dance. More than two hundred of the best warriors among the Sioux and Crow tribes took part in this dance lasting all day long. All were attired in the most approved costume of paint and feathers. As one gazed upon their hideous garb and thought of the events so near there but a few years before, he could not help thinking that the Indian has changed but little in all his contact with civilization. Had it not been for the presence of the regimental band from Fort Custer with the United States army officers in the stand at one side of the arena, the affair would have lost much of its appearance as a celebration of our great national holiday.

“September found our work ended, and myself so benefited that I was glad to avail myself of further opportunities in the same line and went to Anaconda, Montana, with others. Then the Butte, Anaconda, and Pacific Railway, built by the Anaconda Mining Company to haul ore from its mines at Butte to its smelters at Anaconda, was making surveys for several hundred miles to the north and west. The lines ran over mountains and through trackless forests where bear, deer, and, in fact, all wild game abound. The work was hard, and after severe weather and a bad cold had weakened me, it seemed best at New Year's to quit.

"After a short stay at a cattle ranch near Salina, Utah, I reached Goshen, Utah, last April. Since then I have been engaged with a party of engineers upon an extensive irrigation work.

"As to the future, I have my desires, and while my health now seems of the best, I cannot say whether I shall be obliged to serve the maximum time indicated two years ago by my physicians.

"However much I may regret the cause leading to the wanderings of the past two years, I cannot but confess that I have had much pleasure out of my adventures, most of the time in strange regions and among strange men, though by no means the least of my pleasures has been an occasional meeting with some Harvard man."

JOHN ADAMS BLANCHARD.

"Immediately after our commencement started, with Matthew Luce, Jr., '91, on a trip around the world, visiting New Zealand, Australia, China, Japan, and India, and arriving home towards the end of November, 1892. Soon after my return I entered the Harvard Law School where I studied law for three years taking my degree of LL. B. in 1895. I shall begin my 'professional career' in the law office of John Lowell, Jr., Boston, in the autumn."

CHARLES CROSBY BLANEY.

"The size of this blank scares me into silence, which is unfortunate — or fortunate — for '91, as I never did have much to say when called upon to speak.

"I returned to Cambridge in the fall of 1891, and entered the Law School; but my health soon broke down, and I was obliged to leave and go abroad. The old place proved too attractive, however, and October, 1892, found me back again at Austin Hall. I imagined myself playing off a tie game with '92, and so managed to pull through and win and my LL. B. last June.

"If 'old Mace' will guarantee not to try to insure my life more than twice a day, I intend to settle down in Boston to the practice of law, — if I can get any one to practice on.

“With a health to '91, individually and collectively.”

BORDER BOWMAN.

“Answering your recent letter in the spirit requested, I regret to tell you that I am still unmarried, and consequently unable to tell you the Christian names of my wife and ‘children.’

“My ambitions and hopes are for the present closely bound to the firm of Bowman & Bowman, counsellors and attorneys at law. Being the youngest member of that firm, I have so far ‘gotten the worst of it,’ and sometimes think I have about as much chance of becoming a Chief Justice of the United States, as an illustrious classmate of ours used to put it, as a ‘snow-ball has of getting into’ — that lower region. However, to be serious, the advantages I have here are great; for I am able to get the chance and pleasure of trying cases when in the bottom of my heart I think the firm should pay the clients for my experience rather than the clients the firm.

SEWALL CARROLL BRACKETT.

“On graduating from college I entered Boston University Law School, graduating with the degree of LL. B. in 1893. In September of the same year I was admitted to the Suffolk (Mass.) Bar. I began practice with J. S. English, Esq., and am now engaged in practising my profession with the law firm of Gargan & Keating, at 16 Pemberton Square, Boston.”

LAWRENCE BROOKS.

“I think those who are on the path to distinction (or are married) ought to give an account of themselves for the poor stagnating devils to read.”

FREDERICK WIRES BROWN.

Is practising law in Boston.

KENNETH BROWN.

“Since our first Class report I have begun to turn farmer. When I shall have turned a little further I shall enlighten the world with ‘The Art of Becoming a Farmer.’ The preliminary chapter on ‘Faith,’ is already written. Farming has certain advantages over reporting, chiefly horses. It is more wearing and tearing on the nervous system, however, and subjects one to more advice from friends.”

WILLIAM GARROTT BROWN.

“I remained in Cambridge to study history, after graduating, having been awarded the Ozias Goodwin Fellowship. Most of my work was in the seminary in American history, my research topic being ‘The Genesis of the Southern Confederacy,’ on which I had the nerve to deliver several lectures when I visited my old home in Alabama, in the winter of 1892-93. Some of my audiences were sprinkled with ex-Confederates, but I escaped with no bones broken. I was, perhaps, encouraged in this, by my experience on the stump in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, in the campaign for Cleveland, having been honored (for my sins) with the office of president of the Democratic Campaign Club of Harvard University, organized in May, 1892, and disbanded by the terms of its constitution, as soon as the election was over, and its objects accomplished. This ‘practical’ political work was full of interest; the old Harvard men at the head of the party in Massachusetts were particularly cordial in welcoming us to the fray. Of course, there were a few Harvard men on the other side, too. Dr. Birkbeck Hill has some amusing comments on the political clubs, in his book about Harvard.

“In August, 1892, I threw up my Fellowship to accept a place in the College Library, where I still remain, in charge of the University archives and the other matter pertaining to the University, including Class reports and Class ‘Lives.’ Of course, I shall watch the growth of the '91 literature with especial interest.

“I have written a good deal for periodicals and an encyclopedia, but very little has appeared above my own signature.

My vacations are usually spent in the far South during the winter, but last summer I visited Virginia, spending a fortnight in the Warm Springs valley with Ingalls, '92. I am still grubbing away on Southern history."

ARTHUR LEWIS BUMPUS.

"I spent the three years immediately after graduation from college at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge. The first summer vacation thereat was spent at St. George's Church, New York City. The second, I travelled with another '91 man in Europe. The third, I entered on my work here at Natick where I have spent the past year. The church here is small, and there is a still smaller mission at South Framingham connected with it. I was ordained to the Diaconate, June 20, 1894, and to the Priesthood, June 8, 1895. This is my life up to date. Before closing, however, I want to say that some of my pleasantest times have been with old '91 men, and some of my best friends are numbered in that class. It is always very pleasant to meet one of the old class."

JAMES PERKINS BURLING.

"Called to Pastorate Green Street Congregational Church, Chicago, June, 1893; ordained Sept. 12, 1893; married to Miss Terese Temple, at Chicago, Feb. 21, 1895. Dedicated an addition to the church building, Oct. 14, 1894."

FREDERICK WRIGHT BURLINGHAM.

"After graduation from the Harvard Law School whose course needs no description, I entered the law office of Frank O. Sowden; from the fact that for the greater part of the year I have been Mr. Sowden's only assistant my experience has been varied, and so valuable to me that I contemplate remaining with him for the coming year.

"I have felt well satisfied with my choice of Chicago as the place for the practice of my profession, but with the well-known delicacy of a Chicago man in mentioning the merits of the city in the presence, it may be, of New Yorkers, I hesitate to call attention to its many admirable qualities ; I hope, however, that my address will not be overlooked by any classmate who is able to give the city a personal inspection, in order that in the privacy of my office as between friend and friend I may be able to give him the latest figures as to the population and the death rate and picture the delights of Chicago as a summer resort."

JOHN TORREY BURNETT.

"I left Cambridge at the end of our Junior Year to accept a position in the Old Colony Trust Company, of Boston. I was with the Trust Company from August, 1890, until July, 1893, when I left to accept the position of Assistant Postmaster of the city of Boston.

"My life since I left college has been one of hard work, and I assure you a government office is no 'snap.' I would be delighted to show any of the members of the glorious class of '91 the inside workings of the Boston Post Office, which is third in size of the offices in the country, and I am sure they would find it most interesting.

"I am not married. I am a member of the Country Club, the Union Club, and the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, and the Reform Club of New York.

"In politics I am a Cleveland Democrat."

ARTHUR ELLINGTON BURR.

"I have simply been pegging away at the law since 1891. In 1894 I obtained my degree at the Harvard Law School, and later in the same year was admitted to the Suffolk bar. Now I am practising law in the office of Long and Hemenway. C'est tout. Nothing eventful has happened to me out of the common course. I still have my hair on my head (I am not married) ; but the lack of hair on my lip causes my clients to doubt my ability, — in other words, my youth still besets me."

GEORGE DANIEL BUSSEY.

"Since graduation have been engaged in teaching, one year at Bulkeley School, New London, Conn., the remaining three at East Greenwich Academy, East Greenwich, R. I."

WILLIAM VAN ALLEN CATRON.

"My career has not been particularly exciting. After leaving Harvard I taught for two years in a military academy at Sweet Springs, Mo. I then returned to the University, and spent the next two years in its Graduate School, doing work in Classical Philology. I received the degree of A. M. in 1894. During the coming school year I expect to teach Greek and Latin in Mr. Garland's school at Concord, Mass."

DAVID ALLEN CENTER.

"I have been at the Woodbridge School, New York, since graduation, and am now Principal of the same. I am always pleased when any of our boys decide upon Harvard as his college."

THOMAS CHALMERS.

"After Commencement, I spent the summer abroad, returning to my church in Columbus, Ohio, — the Central Christian, — in September. In February, 1892, I became pastor of the Sterling Place Church of Christ, in Brooklyn, N. Y. In January, 1894, having made a change in my denominational affiliations, I assumed my present charge, pastor First Congregational Church, Port Huron, Mich. In conjunction with my church work, I shall also be Dean of the Michigan Military Academy, at Orchard Lake, during the present year. My work as Dean will be that of a periodical preacher to the cadets. I have also become an author to the extent of two diminutive volumes, one entitled 'Alexander Campbell in Scotland,' and the other entitled 'The Juvenile Revival.' I found my wife in Columbus, Ohio, where she took her A. B. from the Ohio State University, in June, 1894. I have learned many things since '91, and have many more yet to learn. My theological, sociological, and political worlds have undergone great changes. And, as for my domestic world, it is a complete revelation by daily instalments. Our boy is just five months old, and is beginning to make life interesting. I would be glad to give a complete account of all his natural obliquities and contrarinesses, but his mother objects.

All in all, I am peaceful and happy, bent on being better myself, and helping this world. I was not very generally acquainted with my class, but my love for old '91 is still warm."

THEODORE CHAMBERLIN.

"The summer after graduation I spent in Rhode Island, and early in the fall I went to Spokane, Washington; the winter I spent in San Francisco and Southern California, returning to Spokane in April, 1892. In September, 1892, I came to New York City, where I have spent three very pleasant years studying medicine, receiving the degree of M. D. in June.

"The four years since graduation have been rather uneventful, Part of one vacation was spent in Virginia, part of another was taken up with a driving trip through Colorado with L. W. Chamberlin, '90, and, further, I have made a short visit to the State of Washington."

WILLIS ARDEN CHAMBERLIN.

"I am pleased to have a place in the Class of '91 of Harvard, and always have a warm feeling in my heart for this class, though I have never been closely connected with my classmates. My association with them was for only the one year of 1890-91. After completing the college course at Denison University, I went to Harvard for special work in preparation for teaching, thus my associations were largely with the members of the graduate department. Teaching is my profession.

"Since graduation I have been at Denison University, first as Instructor of French and German, later as Assistant Professor in the same department.

"I am a member of the Ohio Modern Language Association, and presented at the last annual meeting a paper on 'Methods with Beginners in French and German.' I belong also to the Denison Scientific Association.

"I am one of the associate editors of the "Denison Quarterly," and have contributed, besides editorial matter, two articles, 'English a Universal Language' and 'The School and Church in the Settlement of the Western Reserve.'"

GEORGE HERBERT CHITTENDEN.

"For two years after graduating I was Preceptor of Derby Academy in Hingham, and since then I have been teaching in Mr. Hopkinson's Preparatory School, 29 Chestnut Street, Boston. I am a member of Company D, 1st Corps Cadets, and am spending a three months' furlough in travelling through Europe."

FREDERIC REDMAN CLOW.

"The year after graduation I spent in the graduate school studying Political Science. The next year I was in St. Paul, Minn., engaged in journalistic work. The next two, 1893-1895, I passed as Instructor in Economics at Harvard. I have now taken charge of the department of History in the State Normal School at Oshkosh, Wis. But my chief interest is still in Economics; and I hope to continue my studies in that direction.

"I met my wife while we were both students in Carleton College. In 1890-91 she was a student at Wellesley."

FREDERICK WILLIAM COBURN.

"Since graduation I have had three years of teaching and one year of study at the Art Students' League, New York. Until the summer of 1894 I held a position as Classical Teacher in the Friends' School, Washington, D. C. I had for a long time thought of studying art and I found at Washington very fair opportunities to carry out the design. Two years of work in such classes of the Washington League, as I could get to, gave me a very good preparation for the Art Students' League of New York, which I entered in the fall of 1894.

"The League is an interesting school to a Harvard man. It illustrates Prof. Norton's thoughts in the present condition of the arts. A man needs to work in a League life-class fully to appreciate Fine Arts 3. 'Art for art's sake,' the phrase which you everywhere hear, means with half the art students, 'art for money's sake'; with the other half, 'art for technique's sake.' However, there is no better place in the world to learn constructive drawing. I wonder that more college men are not found in Bohemian circles for, whatever the degradation of modern art, illustration and the making of bill posters offer a mighty good livelihood.

"I am engaged for next year to teach in the Workingman's School under the direction of the Society of Ethical Culture. I expect to keep up some work at the League and intend hereafter to devote summers to serious landscape study. Art, however, I hope to make a privilege rather than a means of subsistence.

"For the rest I have, since leaving college, enjoyed a good many upsets from my canoe, have used up tons of pigment in attempts to paint sunlight, and have contributed extensively to all the leading waste baskets."

MAURICE JEFFERSON CODY.

"Attended the Harvard Law School during the academic year 1891-92. Since then he has been in a law office in Boston. Mr. Cody was admitted to the Suffolk (Boston) Bar, June 25, 1895."

FRANCIS GORDON COFFEY.

"The first year after graduation was spent in the Graduate Department studying American history; was Assistant in History. 1892-93 and 1893-94 were spent in the Law School, and during these years was Assistant in Forensics. Was admitted to the bar in Alabama, Oct. 1, 1894, and located at Montgomery, where have been practising since."

WILLIAM BRYCE COHEN.

"I began as a reporter on the Boston Herald in July, 1891, and remained on that paper till November, 1893. Loafed and studied till June, 1894, when I went to work for the Oliver Ditson Company as advertising clerk, and have been there since."

HERBERT COPELAND.

"Has been on the editorial force of the 'Youth's Companion' since 1893, and is now a member of the book publishing firm of Copeland & Day, Boston."

HENRY WICK CORNING.

"Personally, I am sorry to say that I have nothing to write, as I have neither been married, nor have I had any other exciting experiences. Am in business."

FRANKLIN COUES.

"In 1892-93 I was a member of a dramatic company. Since that time, because of indisposition and the difficulty of securing employment, I have not been acting. I have, however, no intention of abandoning the profession."

STEPHEN VAN RENSSELAER CROSBY.

Is in business in Boston.

FRANCIS BOARDMAN CROWNINSHIELD.

Is with the Suffolk National Bank.

HARRY IRVING CUMMINGS.

Taught school in Pottstown, Pa. Is now practising law in Amesbury, Mass.

JOHN CUMMINGS.

"Since graduation I have been specializing in Economics, two years in the Harvard Graduate School, and one year as a Senior Fellow in Political Economy at the University of Chicago. Last year I received an appointment as Instructor in Economics at Harvard, and hold that appointment for the year 1895-96.

ARTHUR JAMES CUMNOCK.

"Since I left college I have made very little history.

"In the summer of 1891, S. D. Parker, R. L. Emerson, and myself went abroad; on returning I went into the cotton mills at Lowell to learn the business. I spent the winter running looms during the day and studying chemistry at night. In the fall I entered the 'Tech' for a special course. In the following spring I came to New York and entered the selling house of Clarence Whitman & Co., where I am to-day. My duties are to get up the produce for the mills.

"On Oct. 6, 1894, I was married at Pittsfield, Mass., to Mary Pomeroy Cutting. S. D. Parker was my best man. The ushers were nearly all '91 men,—J. A. Blanchard, R. L. Emerson, M. Luce, J. A. Lowell, Jim Lee, S. V. R. Crosby, A. B. Nichols, Arthur Amory, '90, and Edwin Butler, '92, and Howard Smith, '93.

"My small daughter was born July 11 under a Harvard flag. I had rather hoped for an end rush, but she will, no doubt, be able to play good foot-ball under the coming new rules."

THOMAS HATFIELD CURRIE.

"I am at present teaching physics and chemistry in Columbia Grammar School, New York, Fifty-first Street, near Madison Avenue."

FREDERIC HAINES CURTISS.

"I left college in the spring of 1889, being forced to give up my college course through an injury received during the Christmas holidays. In the following summer, through the advice of my physician, I went to Europe where I remained until the next year, travelling and studying. In 1890 I entered the Broadway National Bank of Boston, making my residence from that time on in the above city. In January, 1891, I was elected Assistant Cashier of the Broadway National Bank, which position I hold at this time."

FREDERICK LEWIS DABNEY.

"In the fall of 1891 I entered the Law School intending to take the full course and practise law in Boston. This plan, however, was soon broken up, as in the following April a trouble with one of my eyes compelled me to leave the school and give up all idea of re-entering. From April, 1892, until January, 1893, I did nothing, but on the latter date I entered the office of F. S. Mead & Co., stockbrokers, and have remained there ever since."

CHARLES BALFOUR DARLING.

“In the fall of 1891 I entered the Harvard Medical School and took the degree M. D. in three years. I was appointed House Surgeon to the Free Hospital for Women, Pond Avenue, Brookline, Mass., for the year beginning Oct. 1, 1894, and ending Aug. 1, 1895. That service completed, I have now been chosen by Dr. W. H. Baker, of Boston, to assist him at his private hospital.

“In conjunction with that work I am opening an office for private practice at 215 Huntington Avenue.

“Finally, I take pleasure in announcing my engagement to Miss Effie E. MacNaughton, of Salisbury, New Brunswick.”

HORACE ANDREW DAVIS.

“The first three years since our graduation I spent pegging away at the regular Law School course, preparing for a practise that has not yet fully materialized. The last year I spent in New York City in the office of Mr. R. Burnham Moffat, 60 and 62 Cotton Exchange Building, where I still am, preparing, as before, for the most part. During the college year 1891-92, I held the position of Assistant in Forensics, and in the last half of that year had charge of the Forensic Course at the Annex, also. The position fully justified its reputation of hard, dry work and small pay; but as it was partly the means of my getting appointed proctor, with a room in Hastings for three years, I was glad to accept it. While I was at the Law School I was a member of the Pow Wow, and an editor of the ‘Law Review’; and in the spring of 1894 I won the Sumner Prize for an essay on ‘The Light which Experience Throws upon Arbitration as a Substitute for War.’ I have done no other writing of any consequence, and belonged to no other clubs, except the New York Harvard Club, and the usual number of athletic clubs.

“After graduating from the Law School I spent the summer abroad — my first trip — and returned to enter this office. I was admitted to the New York bar last July.”

THOMPSON TRUEMAN DAVIS.

"Left Cambridge and went to the State of Washington in the summer of 1892. Taught in a school on Grey's Harbor for one year, and then moved to Portland, Ore. Have since held a position as Instructor in Mathematics in the Portland High School."

DUDLEY STUART DEAN.

"Came West to Chicago in fall, 1891. With A. T. S. F. General office, Chicago, 1891-92. To Missouri with A. T. S. F. in fall, 1892. With A. T. S. F. transportation department, New Mexico, since October, 1894. Fall 1892 to 1894, in Missouri.

"Harder work than playing football, this railroading."

FRANCIS PARKMAN DENNY.

Has held position of House Officer at Massachusetts General Hospital.

PHILIP YARDLEY DENORMANDIE.

"In September, 91, after a good long vacation, I went into the machine shop of the Wamsutta Mill in New Bedford, with the intention of learning the cotton business. My training in the shop helped me greatly in the other departments of the mill, in all of which I worked a longer or shorter time. My time in the weave shop was to me the most interesting. Then I took charge of the cotton mixing, examining every bale that came into the mill, and watching its working in the process. Hoping to get a better knowledge of cotton, its staple, etc., I made a trip through the cotton belt of the South, during picking time, which has been of great value to me. This spring I took charge of the Potomska Mills as Superintendent, and am trying to hustle them a little."

CHARLES REIGHLEY DETRICK.

Is in business. The last I heard of him he was running a line of steamers from San Francisco to Seattle and Tacoma.

HOWARD WILLIAMS DICKINSON.

"Since graduation in 1891, I have been at work teaching. In the year 1891-92, I was Assistant Principal of the High School at Carrollton, Ill. The next three years I was Instructor in Chemistry and Physics at the Springfield (Ill.) High School. I have just begun the school year as Principal of Smith Academy, at Hatfield, Mass.

"My life has been very uneventful, and I have not done anything special in the way of literary work, although I have two works which I hope to publish, sooner or later, both on school subjects."

JOHN LOCKWOOD DODGE.

"After graduating I spent three months travelling abroad with my father. We visited all the large European cities. I entered the Harvard Law School on my return, and spent two years more in Cambridge. The third year I spent in the law office of Root & Clarke, 32 Nassau Street, New York City. Have taken considerable interest in politics, and, as a Republican, have done some work speaking in Massachusetts and New York. Was elected an Inspector of Elections in twenty-first election district, New York City, but did not serve. Am not married, and don't expect to be. Have just been admitted to the New York Bar, and will probably start out alone as soon as I return to the city. Am a member of a Good Government Club, and much interested in their success."

PERLEY DOE.

"Just now in Boston giving some time to work for the Associated Charities and some to literary work."

WILLIAM EPHRAIM DANIEL DOWNES.

"From Sept. 1, 1891, to Jan. 20, 1892, I was a Teacher in the Ohio Military Academy at Portsmouth, Ohio.

"Since September, 1892, I have been a Teacher of Greek and Latin in the Taft School, first at Pelham Manor, N. Y., and for the last two years at Watertown, Conn."

AUGUSTUS WILLIAM DUDLEY.

“ In the fall following graduation entered the Harvard Medical School and graduated in June, 1895. In July, 1894, entered the Boston City Hospital to serve eighteen months as House Officer. My term of service will end in January, 1896. Have also served six months as House Officer in Boston Lunatic Hospital.”

JOHN DUFF.

“ In common with forty or fifty other '91 men, I entered the Law School in the fall of 1891. In 1894 I duly received my LL. B., which had been somewhat endangered by a three months' trip abroad in the latter part of 1892. In Paris I was entertained by Johnny Howells, then rooming in the Latin Quarter, and doubtless gathering the materials of his excellent article on 'Student Life at the Beaux Arts,' in 'Harper's Weekly.' I was also informed of Hugh Tallant's success at that institution, but did not have the pleasure of meeting Hugh himself. At the next dinner there should certainly be some one to respond to '91 at the Bal Bullier.'

“ In the summer of 1893 I encountered in the Lake region of western New York, a case of appendicitis which might well have added one to the '91 necrology; but I was spared for a worthier service, and in the spring of 1895 had the pleasure of assisting at the wedding of our Secretary.

“ Since my admission to the Bar in the fall of 1894, I have been in the office of Robert M. Morse, Esq., 57 Equitable Building, Boston; and here I expect to stay for the present, at least. In and about the Court House I occasionally see Bangs, Higgins, Perkins, Stockton, Lowell, Baker, and others. Fitzhugh has lately dazzled me with his descriptions of Idaho and gold; but Stetson says it comes in a more convenient form in New York City. My bachelor quarters, at No. 1 West Cedar Street, Boston, which I occupy in company with two 'genial gents' whose only fault is that they are not '91-ers, have often had the honor of sheltering our Secretary; Rafie spends there an occasional though too infrequent spare hour; and they have held Perkins. When I last saw Billy Randol, in 1891, his last words were, 'Wait for the Triennial!' We waited, but Billy did n't come. Perhaps he meant the next one; and if he turns up then, all will be forgiven, and '91 will be, as our Secretary puts it, 'pulled together.'

CHARLES ROCHESTER EASTMAN.

"Following my marriage, in 1892, I went abroad, and spent two years in Germany, engaged in scientific studies. We resided mostly in Munich, a son being born to us there, whom we have named Alvan Clark Eastman, after his grandfather. Returning in 1894, after taking my doctor's degree, I received an appointment as Instructor in Palæontology at Harvard. Am now serving in this capacity, and also as Assistant in the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy."

FRANK ELMER EDWARDS.

Head Master of St. Bartholomew's School, Morristown, N. J.

JOHN BECK EMBICK.

"Owing to an attack of appendicitis, at the close of my first year at the Harvard Law School, I was unable to complete my course there, and on my return home entered the law office of Henry C. Parsons, where I continued my studies, and was finally admitted to practice in the courts of this county in April, 1894. The last four years have been uneventful as far as the occurrence of anything that might interest the members of the class is concerned. Life in a small town, or one that is removed from the larger cities, is very much the same from year to year, and unless affairs are very stirring there is nothing to record. Still there are two or three things that have happened that were out of the ordinary. Shortly after my return home, I, in company with about thirty of my friends, enlisted in one of the companies of the National Guard of Pennsylvania stationed here. It was, perhaps, owing to my martial ardor that my friends joined me in what afterwards proved a very serious and dangerous action. Only a few months after we had enlisted, the troubles at Homestead began, and I will never forget my sensations on being wakened one morning by a fellow member of the company, who put before my eyes a morning paper (the head lines seemed a yard long) which read, 'Called Out; the Governor Orders the Entire Division to Homestead.' Then it went on to say that the troops from our town would leave at eight o'clock that morning, etc., ad lib.; all sorts of rumors were rife, — sympathizers of the strikers had derailed some of the troop trains already, killing a great many; others had put dynamite on the tracks to blow up the trains, and other stories of a cheerful kind. But we went, and for three weeks we guarded Carnegie's property, and put up with abuse of all kinds, and were about as uncomfortable physically as one could imagine. That has been my most exciting experience, with perhaps the exception of a flood last year. 'The rains descended and the floods came,' and the boating in front of my house was excellent for a couple of days; but we soon recovered from that, even in the face of the hard times, and I feel now as if I were competent to tackle almost anything. I have taken some interest in politics of a local character, but have never been a candidate for any office aside from the presidency of the Democratic Club of this city, which office I held for two terms. At present I am practising my profession, and hope to devote the rest of my life to it, but whether here or in some larger field remains to be seen. But no matter what changes may take place in the future there can never be any change in my love and veneration for Harvard, and in my loyalty to the glorious and memorable Class of '91."

EDWIN EMERSON, JR.

"After graduation I took the first steamer for France. It was 'La Touraine's' first trip, and among the passengers were a number of Yale men, and two or three Harvard men, besides myself. Of course we arranged for an athletic contest, embracing races around the deck, tumbling, wrestling, sparring, and rope climbing, and the result was a victory for Harvard, though by one point only. During my stay abroad the Boston Post, of which I had been made an editor, collapsed into a penny dreadful, and I was thrown upon my own resources. Upon my return to America I decided to stay in New York City, and soon secured an editorial position on the New York Evening Post and Nation, where I have remained ever since. As a writer for the Evening Post I have tried everything, from police-court trials, bicycle races, yacht races, book reviews, with dramatic and musical criticism, to political and ethical editorial articles. The work has almost always been suited to my tastes, and there have always been Harvard men on the staff, so that I have nothing to complain of. My health and consequent earning capacity also, have been such that I have every reason to feel grateful to the kind gods."

KENNETH B. EMERSON.

"My name did not appear in the first report. I left college in June, 1888, on account of my health. Spent a year in Brattleboro, then tried ranch life in Colorado a year and a half, and in California a year. Returned to Brattleboro in April, 1892, improved in health, and have since then been connected with my brother in a house-furnishing business. I am still enjoying single blessedness. I am an enthusiastic cyclist, and spend my vacation each year on a cycle tour."

RALPH LINCOLN EMERSON.

"After graduation I spent a year and a half wandering about Europe, and was present at the first and last meeting of the Harvard Club of Rome.

"Since my return I have been working at architecture in Boston, and nothing has happened to me of sufficient interest to chronicle here."

FREDERICK REID ESTES.

"Was twenty-seven years old Jan. 28, this year. At the close of the college year he entered an architect's office and was there employed for two years, when he left to take a position in his father's publishing business and is there permanently located."

TORREY EVERETT.

"On Commencement Day, 1891, I left Cambridge for Europe. Travelled until fall. Spent six months studying in Germany, and then travelled about eight months in Italy and France. October, 1892, entered Columbia Law School. Summer of 1892 explored the Rocky Mountains on horseback."

WILLIAM JOSLYN FARQUHAR.

"Have been with the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company for the past three years. As most of my time is taken up with my work for the company it would be far from interesting to give a detailed account of what I am doing, however entertaining the work may be to me personally. Shall be very glad to see any one who may come to New York, and look forward with much interest to learning what each of the '91 men is doing."

JAMES RALPH FINLAY.

"Upon leaving college in 1891 went to Marquette, Mich., where I was employed until 1893 as a 'land-looker' by a large land company. Leaving Michigan in the fall of 1893, I went to Boston for a few months, and in February, 1894, came to Northern Minnesota. I have held several positions with the Minnesota Iron Company, and at present am superintendent of a small mine called the 'Norman.' I shall probably leave Minnesota in a few months for Colorado, where my address will be Colorado Springs, Col.

"Since leaving college I have seen a good deal of woods, lakes, and mines, but very few of my classmates at college, and few will read with more interest the Secretary's report."

GEORGE STANLEY FISKE.

"Since my graduation, I have taken a vacation in the summers, generally spending it at the seashore, where I have, at different times, amused myself with sailing, tennis, bathing, and bicycling. One summer, that of 1892, I spent abroad, and went to England, France, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland.

"In the winters I have been at the Harvard Law School. My getting behind at the end of the second year there and thus having to be enrolled in the following year as a 'Second Year Student' for the second time, accounts for my graduating in 1895 instead of in 1894. The professors in the Law School are an able set of men and above the average of the college teachers; the building of the Law School, Austin Hall, is very handsome and in it is a splendid library. The classes remind one a little of school-days; they are not exactly like college. The men make abstracts of cases that have actually been decided in courts, and are called on by the professor—if they wish to be called on, but not unless—to state these abstracts. The professor then asks a few questions such, as the man's own opinion of the correctness of the decision, what principle the case stands for, etc., and the professor then makes his own comments. The fellows are encouraged to ask questions, and they do it very freely, especially in the first year.

“The Law School is good mental training, and, I think, tends to make you look at things in an unprejudiced way. But if one is at all inclined to be lazy, as I am, it has the disadvantage that no account is taken of attendance and the marks are made up principally, if not wholly, from the results of the examinations, which come but once a year. If one is really expecting to be a lawyer, that expectation will probably overcome any laziness; but if one goes to the Law School because he thinks the work will be useful in something else later, when he has n't decided what that something else is to be, then he won't work with the same enthusiasm as the man that knows he is going into an office the minute he graduates; at least I did not. I went into the Law School partly because some relatives urged me to go. But I am inclined to think there is much in the doctrine of choosing something you like, something you really want to go into.”

HAROLD BROOKS FISKE.

“I was connected with the class only a short time. Though admitted regularly, it was conditionally. I should have been glad to stay longer, and to have got free of my conditions, but things were not thus arranged for me, and my path led elsewhere. I was connected with the college as a special student for a few months of the academic year 1888-89. Since then I have turned my attention to a number of things, but have, as yet, had no nominal occupation. I have given some attention to the study of medicine, though not at any school."

EDWARD FULLER FITZHUGH.

Is a practical mining engineer. Has been West prospecting with Bob Wainwright, and is now making some heavy mining deals in New York.

FREDERICK GLEED FLEETWOOD.

"Since graduation I have studied law for three years, and was admitted to the Vermont Bar in October, 1894. In the spring of 1892, I was appointed town Superintendent of Schools, a position which I now hold. Was secretary of the State Board on the Revision of the Laws during 1893 and 1894; also secretary of the Legislative Committee on the Judiciary for the session of 1894. Was elected secretary of the Young Men's Republican Club of Vermont in 1894, and served in that capacity for one year. During the session of Congress, beginning December, 1894, I was in Washington, as secretary to Congressman Powers, of Vermont. Have been for two years past the treasurer of the Lamoille County Summer School for Teachers.

"Am now practising law and hope that clients may multiply faster in the future than they have during the last year."

WYMAN KNEELAND FLINT.

"The summer after graduation I spent in Alaska, returning to Cambridge in the fall and entering the Harvard Law School. The summer of 1892, I spent in Norway, Sweden, and Denmark, and returned to the Law School in October. While in the Law School I was Clerk of the Austin Law Club.

"In July, 1893, I entered into business with my father, J. G. Flint, here in Milwaukee, and have since then been his general superintendent."

WILLIAM FOLEY.

"During the years 1892, 1893, 1894, I was Instructor in French in Kenyon College. The school year 1894-95, I acted as tutor to the son of James Roosevelt, of New York, and also as his secretary. Within the last three months, I have come here, my original home, and entered into a business life. At present, my duties are largely clerical, although I am also in charge of several farms, attending to the improvements, renting, etc. I am in my father's establishment; his investments are chiefly in land and mortgages upon land.

"I have crossed the ocean four times since I left Cambridge; usually living in Paris while over, and travelling little."

ROBERT MAYNARD FRANKLIN.

"Since graduation I studied law at the Harvard Law School for three years, and took the degree of LL. B. in 1894. I then went to New York where I have resided since July, 1894, and in June, 1895, was admitted to the New York Bar. My address in New York is 117 West 43d Street."

ARTHUR J. GARCEAU.

"Two years with a National Bank in Boston and as many more with the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company now put me in a position to accept the presidency and management of any corporation, however extensive. I am ready for any and all offers, however emolumental, and the more emolumental the better. Next to my marriage the happiest thing that has occurred to me has been the taking of the office of Secretary of the class. My life is very eventful, for every time I go down on the street I meet some nintey-oner, and that in itself is a great event. I have not changed in the least, and am the same old fellow I was when I used to tap the Freshmen's beer-kegs on Bloody-Monday Nights. 'Semper Idem' is my motto, but I am afraid my employers sometimes take advantage of it and keep me 'Semper Idem' or guessing. However, I can still go about, thump myself on the chest and say, 'I am the Secretary of the only class that ever beat Yale.' I wish there were others."

CHARLES FERRIS GETTEMY.

"Joined the staff of the Boston Daily Advertiser and Evening Record upon graduation in 1891, serving since the fall of 1892, as political and legislative reporter ; was at the national capital during the last session of Congress, having, in December last, been made the Washington correspondent of these papers."

HENRY ROBERT GLEDHILL.

"Finished my course at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City last year and am now in practice here."

JAMES PHILIP GORAY.

"I entered the Class of '91 as a Freshman with the intention of receiving an A. B. at the end of four years.

"At the end of my first year, I changed to the medical department of Harvard, and received in 1891 the degree of M. D. instead of that of A. B.

"I regret that I do not possess both degrees, yet am very proud of the one I have and am pleased with my year's work towards the possession of the other. Prouder still am I that the degree I have is a Harvard one.

"Since graduation I have been in the active practice of my profession, in which I have made a good start, and, I am pleased to say, am doing very well.

"I do not regret the choice of my profession but consider it one full of fascination ; it has its hardships, it is true, but so have all the others."

BENJAMIN APTHORP GOULD, JR.

"I am in partnership with Frederick P. Delafield, at 29 Liberty Street, New York City, with a large and rapidly increasing practice. I am not married, and have no children. I still use tobacco and alcoholic stimulants in moderation. I am the handsomest man in New York. I am four years and some months older than when I graduated. I have no filling in any of my teeth. I have stopped publishing poetry, and that which I write for my friends is pessimistic with a slight tendency toward agnosticism. I still consider '91 the finest class that ever ornamented a university. I only employ ugly typewriters in my office. I can float in salt water. I have not been drunk for twenty months. I shall not get engaged until I find a girl who will accept me. I am dead broke, as usual, but have not applied to the Institution for the Amelioration of Respectable but Indigent Indians as yet for assistance. I consider the 'Rubaiyat' of Omar Khayyam the finest poem in the English language. I do not consider W. D. Howells a poet. I use Pears' soap. I measure forty-seven inches round the chest. I have to pay one dollar extra for trousers. I am a notary public, an attorney and counsellor at law, and an Independent Democrat. I have forgotten all the mathematics I ever knew. I will not lend Dr. "Chinning" ten dollars. I can digest cucumbers. I am a director of two prominent manufacturing corporations. I wear a bunch of whiskers on my chin. I have never been buncoed on Broadway. I am not in love. I have never been in State's Prison. I can see a joke if it is explained with suitable diagrams. I have not sowed any wild oats for a year. I am getting bald. I think Queen Liliuokalani will never be restored to the throne of Hawaii. I should like to borrow $1,000. Teddy Roosevelt is a condition not a theory."

JOHN FREDERICK GRAY.

"Am still alive."

LOUIS MORRIS GREER.

Recreation, — member Squadron "A," N. G. N. Y.

WILLIAM LAMSON GRIFFIN.

"After graduation I spent nearly two years on a ranch in Texas, but since then have been in New York City, where I am in the real estate business."

THOMAS EDMUND GUERIN.

"There is little in my personal or public life which will interest my classmates, I fear. In January, 1894, I was appointed assistant corporation counsel, which position I held until May, 1895, when I resigned to form a law partnership with John Mayo Palmer, then corporation counsel, son of Senator John M. Palmer. Naturally I meet most of the old Harvard men quite frequently, and may turn up a good story now and then. Three of us, Holland, '85, Locke Honoré, '88, and myself, were connected with the legal department of the last city administration, — the two former at different times as special assessment attorneys."

CHARLES BURTON GULICK.

"I held a Rogers Fellowship this year (1894-95), and have been abroad studying philology and archæology in Berlin, Munich, and in Greece. Recently I received appointment as Instructor in Greek in Harvard and Radcliffe."

KARLETON SPALDING HACKETT.

"After several years' study of the voice with Vannini in Florence, I settled in Chicago. I have been appointed member of the faculty of the American Conservatory of Chicago to lecture to the students on the song classics and give series of recitals.

"Also Vocal Director of the Music School of the Northwestern University of Evanston, which, much to my surprise, I find to rank third in point of numbers in the country, surpassing Harvard even.

"I edit the vocal department of 'Music,' of Chicago, and also a department of my own in 'Werner's Magazine,' of New York.

"I am more than ever convinced of the far-seeing wisdom of Horace Greeley. I followed his advice and hope more will do the same."

ROBERT BEVERLY HALE.

Died October 6, 1895.

"In the last three years I have been living at Roxbury, occupied in writing stories and poems for magazines. A considerable number of my stories have appeared in the 'New England Magazine,' a good many poems in the 'Youth's Companion.' Though not especially successful, I think I have improved in the last three years, and I am sure I meet with more appreciation than I did three years ago."

ROBERT SEVER HALE.

"After graduating I spent two years at Cornell, Ithaca, N. Y., studying engineering and taking the M. E. degree in June, 1893. In September, 1893, entered the service of the Edison Electrical Illuminating Company of Boston, and have been with them since that time engaged in testing and statistical work in connection with their steam plant. Have written one or two professional papers but have done nothing else of note. My office is at 3 Head Place, Boston."

ANGELO HALL.

"My college work was principally mathematics, preparatory to the intended pursuit of astronomy. But by the time I graduated, I had given up astronomy as a work already pretty thoroughly perfected. Intending to influence people as a writer, I sought independence by teaching school. Served three months as 'Master of Mathematics' in the Belmont School, near Cambridge. I proved to be a poor disciplinarian. I lived a month alone in Somerville, where I wrote a few verses and read the four Gospels. Went home to Washington, D. C., and again took up the study of astronomy, but soon threw it up again to enter the profession of a writer. In May, 1892, I published a little comedy, written the previous summer. The sudden loss of my mother in July and the drought of a Washington summer resulted in a month of typhoid fever, followed by a month of convalescence. I now visited the University of Virginia and the University of Michigan; took a trip to Wisconsin, Chicago, and Niagara Falls, and returned home to complete, in March, 1893, my first book. In April, I entered a newspaper office in Washington, and soon won the reputation of being a good all-round reporter. Journalism seemed unsatisfactory, however. I determined to leave off trying to reach people indirectly. Have spent the past two years at the Harvard Divinity School, preparing myself for a preacher. My work at the school thus far has consisted chiefly of Bible study."

JOHN OTIS HALL, JR.

“My interest in the items of class information appearing in the numbers of the ‘Graduates’ Magazine’ makes me look forward with a great deal of enthusiasm to the completion of this report, and makes me hasten to contribute what I have to offer about myself.

“When I left Harvard in 1891, I found a vacancy in the teaching force at Adams Academy here in my own city. Being a graduate of the school and having, consequently, a knowledge of it and an interest in its history, I was only too glad to accept the position when it was offered me. During two years I had, beside my teaching experience, experience in the management of the school dormitory, and I might tell interesting stories of many lively school-boy episodes. I have had a wide range of subjects to teach. Circumstances have combined to put me in the position of first assistant with double the salary with which I began the work. At present I teach the two upper classes in English and Ancient History, and the beginners’ classes in Latin, Greek, and Botany. Two years I have had small classes in Elementary German. I have kept up a lively interest in athletics, and played regularly on the school nine until I was retired in the middle of the present season with a broken hand.

“My friends will have guessed, without reading any more, that my life has been that of any teacher in a preparatory school. It might seem tame to some, but the longer I am at it the better I like it. My fondness for boys holds me in good stead, and I expect to make teaching my life work.

“My travels have not been extensive since I left college. In the summer of 1894 I spent a fortnight doing the St. Lawrence region from the Thousand Islands to Montreal. A trip of less extent but of great interest was one taken on foot from Plymouth to Provincetown in early April, 1893. Carroll Brackett, Bumpus, and Chittenden were my fellow-travellers.

“I am not yet married. I am glad to say that I have taken the preliminary step, and that I am engaged to a college girl (Wellesley and Radcliffe), who lives here in my own city.

“Last August I tried the examinations of the Boston School

Supervisors, and had the good fortune to secure a Highest Grade Certificate which is sure to be of advantage to me.

"In a small city like Quincy the chances for club life are not great. I claim membership in the Yacht Club and Golf Club, and am one of the vice presidents of the local Teachers' Association.

"I often meet members of the class, but not so often as I wish I might. I expect to be here, in Quincy, another year, and shall be delighted to receive, at my home or at the school, any classmate who may journey this way."

ALEXANDER BROWN HALLIDAY.

"The last four years have, to me, passed rapidly, and without the happening of any event of interest. In the fall of 1891, I entered the Columbia Law School, and in due course of time graduated with the degrees of M. A. and LL. B. Since then, except for intervals devoted to travel, I have been trying to become learned in the law, and in May last concluded to begin professional life on my own account. My friends will always be welcome at my office in the Trinity Building, 111 Broadway, New York."

EARL LANDER HAMBLETON.

"There is nothing about my career since I left Harvard that is very highly exciting or entertaining. The summer of 1889, I spent West travelling through the Yellowstone Park and the Pacific Coast States.

"In 1890 I spent four months in Europe. Last summer I took a hunting and fishing trip through the Big Horn Mountains and Basin in Wyoming, and have just come in from another trip to the same region.

"I have been in the real estate and loaning business at 95 Clark Street, Chicago, since October, 1890. I am a member of the Union League and Marquette Clubs, but seldom go to them as I prefer my home to any club in existence.

"I take enough interest in politics to always vote at regular and primary elections, and attend all meetings of the regular Republican organization of my ward of whose Executive Committee I am a member. I also give some little time to the work of the civic Federation of this city.

"I am sorry I have n't something more interesting to tell you about, but the course of my life so far has run along pretty smoothly without striking any serious snags. The only very exciting time I ever had was a little shooting fracas with a Wyoming cattle thief in the Big Horn Basin last summer."

EDWARD CROWNINSHIELD HAMMOND.

"Engaged in growing oranges and other fruits at Jaffery, Fla., since 1890. Frost in December, 1894, and February, 1895, killed nearly everything in that line to the ground."

HENRY HALE HARRIS.

"There is n't much to tell about me. I am not married; I have n't yet the cares of a family, and I have work that is agreeable, and gives an opportunity for energetic effort. I have the Varnum School district, one of the best in Lowell, under my charge. As it has some eleven hundred pupils in the secondary schools, it gives sufficient work to satisfy one ordinarily. I have n't yet done anything I am very proud of; I have n't yet done anything I am much ashamed of, consequently I feel that the stories of some of the other fellows will be much more interesting than this. I shall be glad to see any '91 man who may happen to come to Lowell."

ROBERT HENRY HARRIS.

With Tower, Giddings & Co., bankers and brokers.

WILLIAM FENWICK HARRIS.

Was assistant in Greek and Latin at Harvard, till the end of college year in 1895. Have lived at 96 Brattle Street, Cambridge; sailed on the 24th of August for England and the Continent; shall travel and study for several years.

JOHN WALKER HAWKINS.

"After leaving Harvard College I undertook the study of Art at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, Mass. I studied there for one year and a quarter, when it was decided that a commercial element must be added to my art education. Going to New York City, I took up lithography, making particular study of the art element in it. (I did not find much.) I had no sooner found myself fairly launched in the business, than my health gave out entirely, and I was forced to seek my home. My sickness was of the paralytic order, my left arm, hand, leg, and foot becoming partially useless. The cause of my disorder is a mystery, specialists being unable to determine it.

"While at home in my enforced idleness I came across a very valuable prescription of a snuff intended for the relief of cold in the head, catarrh, and hay fever. The prescription was the result of much careful investigation by a specialist of nasal disorders. I determined to place the snuff on the market, so in September, 1893, the first bottle was placed in a local drugstore. I chose for the name of the article that of Instant Cold Relief. Since September of 1893, I have been busy making it, and every indication now points to a life work in the same business."

ALFRED SAMUEL HAYES.

"Immediately after graduation went abroad, and spent six months in travel. On returning, entered the Law School at once. In January, 1894, was one of the Harvard team which defeated Yale in the joint debate in Sanders Theatre. Was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1894, and at once set up in practice on my own account at 23 Court Street, Boston."

ARTHUR EVERETT HEALEY.

Went to Law School, and graduated in 1893.

JOHN BROOKS HENDERSON, JR.

"Since graduation at Harvard, in 1891, I took up the study of law at the Columbian University of Washington, D. C., finishing the three years' course in June, 1894. Was admitted to the Bar of the District in October, 1894, and entered the office of Shellabarger and Wilson. I remained there until December, 1894, when I went to China and Japan with Hon. John W. Foster (as his private secretary), in the matter of the Chinese-Japanese Peace Commission, and returned to the United States July, 1895."

OMER FENIMORE HERSHEY.

"Practising law on a little oatmeal. Offices, 607 and 608 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, Md., firm of Crain & Hershey. Have done nothing to be proud of. Am taking life easy, and going in for happiness and contentment. Married life, 'a grand sweet song,' even though there are n't three babies."

JOHN JOSEPH HIGGINS.

"Is practising law with Mr. Richard Stone, '61, at 50 State Street, Room 70, Boston, Mass. Will be pleased to see any member of '91."

ARTHUR DEHON HILL.

"On graduating from the Law School I entered the office of John D. Bryant, Esq., in Boston, where I remained until June. I have now taken an office with T. N. Perkins and L. M. Stockton, and begun practice on my own account."

FRANK HENRY HITCHCOCK.

"Has been employed since 1891 in the departmental service at Washington, pursuing in the meantime a course in law at the Columbian University Law School of that city, where he received, in 1894, the degree of LL.B., and in 1895 that of LL. M. Admitted to the Washington Bar, June 30, 1894. Expects to return to Boston the coming year to practise law.

Was editor-in-chief of the "Columbiad," the Columbian University year book for 1895, and president of "The Players" of Columbian University, a dramatic and musical club of one hundred and fifty members, which gave two successful performances at the New National Theatre last winter for Washington charities. Vice president of the Potomac Valley Ornithological Club, member of the Washington Biological Society, the Nuttall Ornithological Club of Cambridge, and the American Ornithologists' Union, Fellow of the American Statistical Association."

ARTHUR CLARK HOLT.

"From 1891 to 1892 studied architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"Since 1892 have been interested in the building business.

"In April, 1895, was elected treasurer of the Norton Iron Company, office and works at East Everett, Mass.

"Our special line of business is Steel Structures and Architectural Iron work.

WILFORD LAWRENCE HOOPES.

"Ordained to the ministry of the P. E. Church June, 1894, and am now (July 24, 1895) just beginning my second year as assistant minister at Emmanuel Church, No. 15 Newbury Street, Boston."

CHARLES SIDNEY HOPKINSON.

"Spent two years in New York studying drawing and painting at the Art League. Went abroad with my wife in December, 1893 and have since continued the study of art in Paris. I have exhibited a picture in the Salon du Champ de Mars of 1895. I intend to spend next winter travelling in Europe."

JAMES EADS HOW.

"On leaving Harvard after being a 'special' for two years, the railroad business was entered and pursued for three years excepting during the period of a short summer trip through part of Europe (with the family) in 1890.

"But the railroad failed to satisfy, and theology was finally tried, the course at Meadville being finished this June; and so with anticipations of a little more study along religious and sociological lines the work looms up, for not only my, but I trust for many stronger and better, hands to do."

WILLIAM GUILD HOWARD.

"I devoted the first two years after graduation to work in the Graduate School, and in the summer of 1893 made a trip to Europe, spending most of my time there in Germany. In the fall of 1893 I entered upon the work of an Instructor in German at Princeton College, and still hold this position. In term time my address is 14 North Dod Hall, Princeton, N. J."

JOHN MEAD HOWELLS.

"After graduation I spent a winter in New York, sailing in March for Paris. I was received at the Ecole des Beaux Arts the same June, where I am now in the upper of the two divisions or classes in the Department of Architecture. Except for some travelling in Spain and elsewhere I have lived all the time in Paris."

DANIEL LAWRENCE HUNT.

"I have been back but comparatively few times to Cambridge since graduating in 1891. The fall after leaving I entered the Medical School and worked there for three years when I received the degree of M. D. The next fall, winter, and spring I spent in 'out-patient work' at the Boston City Hospital, and I am now getting ready to go abroad. I leave Boston for Europe on the 7th of September, and I hope to obtain additional medical knowledge from the hospitals of London, Berlin, Paris, and Vienna. I expect to spend most of the winter of 1895 in Vienna where I can perfect myself in 'chest-work,' as this is the branch of medicine which I hope to make my 'specialty.' Since leaving college I have never done a stroke of work during the summer months, but have spent them in travel. I have seen considerable of the western part of our own country, have travelled pretty well through Canada, and I shall expect to do considerable travelling while abroad. I shall visit Italy and Switzerland as well as France and Germany. The four years spent at college I look back upon with pleasure, but I have never once had the desire to live them over again. I hope that when I return from Europe, to settle as a practitioner in Boston, I may be of enough value in the world to be worthy of my membership in the Class of '91."

CARL BAILEY HURST.

"At University of Tübingen from March, 1889, to November, 1890; editorial department Harper Brothers, New York, January, 1891, to July, 1892 ; appointed United States Consul at Catania, Sicily, July, 1892 ; transferred to Crefeld, Germany, September, 1893 ; transferred to Prague, Bohemia, March, 1895."

JAMES ROCKWOOD JENKINS.

"After graduation I spent the following year teaching at 'Selwyn Hall,' Reading, Pa., a school for boys conducted on the military plan. I found the experience of that year to be most profitable, and would have continued in that profession if I had not decided to study for the ministry. In the fall of 1892, I entered the Episcopal Divinity School in Philadelphia, intending to study there for a year and then to return to Cambridge. This plan I carried out, and the next year joined the middle class of the Episcopal School in Cambridge. I was graduated from this school last June (1895), and was ordained to the Diaconate by Bishop Lawrence. The first of September I shall become assistant to the Rev. Julius W. Atwood, of Trinity Church, Columbus, Ohio. I expect that my work will be chiefly in connection with the two missions of the parish. Any members of '91 who are ever in Columbus will be heartily welcomed at my quarters in Trinity House, East Broad Street, close to the Capitol."

FREDERIC LARRABEE JERRIS.

"Immediately after graduation in 1891, I went abroad for a year, spending some months in the University of Berlin and the rest of the time in travel. Returning in June, 1892, I took the three-years course at the Harvard Law School, graduating this last June.

"This fall I am to be in an office in Boston, in the Adams Building, 23 Court Street, Room 409."

HERBERT SPENCER JOHNSON.

"To most of the Class of '91 my name will be unknown, as I entered Harvard in the Senior year, having already graduated from the University of Oregon in 1887. While at Harvard I lived at 40 Grays and sat under the clock in Memorial Hall. The men who sat at the table were for the most part students in the Law Department. It being generally understood that I was a sprig of divinity, these sons of Belial 'pulled my leg' for a whole year, so that I may be said to have entered into the college life even if in a limping sort of way.

"After graduating from Harvard with the Class of '91, I entered the Theological Seminary at Rochester (N. Y.), where I had already spent two years, and graduated with the Class of '93. In June of 1893, I became pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Pittsfield, Mass., and have lived here ever since. My church, which is composed of nearly a thousand communicants, besides their uncles and cousins and aunts, makes severe demands on my strength and time. By putting off the long coat-tails and white cravat and donning occasionally the bicycle suit, I have been able to keep up my health and strength, as well as a gentle clatter of tongues on the part of a few who think that piety consists in black coat-tails.

"My summers, since leaving Harvard, have for the most part been spent in travel. Last summer I visited England and Scotland. This summer I made a trip through the South and into Mexico and thence into the far West, following the boundary line of our country for about eleven thousand miles.

"Though I spent but a short time at Harvard, I wish to be regarded as a member of the Class of '91 in every respect. I am a loyal Harvard man and expect to induce my younger brother to enter Harvard next year."

JONATHAN EDWARD JOHNSON.

"After my graduation from college in June, 1891, I studied theology for the three following years at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass. In June, 1894, I was graduated from that school with my degree of B. D., and at the same time was ordained Deacon. The following year I spent in Fall River, Mass., as assistant minister at the Church of the Ascension. I worked in two missions in the city as well as in the large church, so that I had a very busy and large work there. I should like to say that this, my first year in the ministry, has been the happiest and richest year in my whole experience."

GRAHAME JONES.

“Two years in a law office and ten days of grinding procured for me the exemption from jury duty and from duty as clerk of election, and gave me the right to practise law. I place these different advantages in the order of their importance. In six months I had earned $52.08,—fifty dollars from collections, two dollars from quitting the use of cigars for two days in favor of a pipe, and eight cents for delivering in person sundry duns instead of sending them through the mail.

DR.

To percentages on collections	$50 00
To pennies saved on cigars, and therefore earned	2 00
To pennies saved on postage, and therefore earned	08
	<hr/>
	$52 08

CR.

By office rent	$300 00
By salary of office boy, at $17.50 per month	105 00
By sundry cooling beverages of a fizzy gin nature, to take down inflammation in mouth caused by smoking pipe; also beverages for a gentleman friend to take down an inflammatory throat with which he is sadly afflicted, 8 @ 15		1 20
By cash from a collection, absent-mindedly spent in a charitable fit to buy clothing for a needy young man. N. B.—Charity begins at home. P. S.—This sum I had to replace from my private funds,		40 00
		<hr/>
To deficit		$394 12
Balance	$446 20
		<hr/>
		$446 20

Jones was paying too much freight.

“For some time I had been on the verge of nervous prostration, and now I lost my head and fell in. My physician ordered me South. I obeyed, closed my office, and severed my connection with the law; and devoted my time to the effort of learning how to draw a straight line at the architectural department of the Boston School of Technology, and useless learning of various kinds. I never learned to draw that straight line, the gods be praised! If there is anything abominable in the world, it is a straight line, except as an intangible ideal of moral conduct.

“From Asheville, N. C., my travels in the South have extended to Shreveport, La., where we (this is not editorial, but conjugal ‘we’) hunted quail. It was dangerous sport though the game is small, for in a woman’s eyes who is just learning to shoot, the difference between a man and a quail is not so great as experience later (sometimes much too much later) teaches it to be. The next place of interest in my travels in Dixie, was Jackson, Miss. The place is the State capital, chiefly renowned for the bloody encounters which take place among the legislators, between votes. The procedure in voting is for the ayes to take whiskey, the noes pop. Whiskey is said to be often disastrous to the nose. The historic antiquity of the chicken served at the hotel is also of paramount interest to the traveller.

“From Shreveport to Cumberland Gap, Tenn., was the next jump I made. The surrounding country, including Middlesborough, Ky., and Harrowgate, Tenn., is the grave of twenty-eight millions of dollars of English capital, sunk in macadam roads, artesian wells, surveys of town lots, belt-line railways, and the fine Four Seasons Hotel at Harrowgate, where I spent four months, from March to July, 1894.

“Where Britishers do congregate there be always a pack of hounds and a cage of tame anise-seed bags. Every day some twenty-five or thirty of us had a paper-chase, drag, or fox hunt. The country is mountainous, with occasional stretches of broad valley, gridironed with snake fences, and dotted with boggy meadows. The hills are covered with loose shale or waterworn stones the size of an apple. I rather prided myself on my riding, after considerable experience in the Rockies with down timber, and with prairie dog holes on the plains; but, as Chimmy Fadden would say, ‘I was a farmer.’

“The quail sang their ‘Bob White’ in hundreds, even under the very windows of the hotel. If any of my friends in the class have leisure and a desire for sport, let them go to Cumberland Gap, Tenn. (for the Four Seasons Hotel has forever closed its doors), with a couple of good dogs. I can safely promise a fair shot, sixty to a hundred birds a day. The natives rarely shoot, themselves (though they frequently do shoot each other). It is advisable to offer any man down there one drink, but not many, for he will take you for a sucker ; and, moreover, he will get drunk, and then extraordinarily polite ; and, beyond that, combative to the point of embroidering upon your thorax a chaste openwork design with pistol bullets. Ten miles into the mountains a man comes face to face with his Saxon cousins of the fifteenth century, just as they were turned loose upon this continent from English prison ships. A good picture of the people of the Cumberland Mountains will be found in Scribner's for November or December, 1894, in the tale, 'A Cumberland Vendetta,' by John Fox, Jr., which is interesting and true to the life.

"From August to the first of November the Jones family, Jr., lived in a big tent in the Wisconsin woods, on the shores of a sandy-beached lake, whose waters, suddenly receding, left a broad avenue, on the water side of which a tall fringe of trees grew, some thirty feet from the original belt of timber. In this avenue was pitched our tent, known as No. 1 Chipmunk Avenue.

"On November first, in a flurry of snow, we paddled three miles across the lake, and made a quarter-mile carry to a lumber camp, then drove in a lumber wagon the rest of the twenty-three miles to the railroad, and took the train to Chicago.

"Once within the classic folds of the sooty atmosphere of the breezy city, inspired, no doubt, by the general æsthetic yearning of this recognized art centre, I discovered that my mission in life was not to hunt the timid deer and lure the sportive trout, but to pursue defenceless man with music. And so, since then, I have settled down to study the mysterious realm of parallel fifths, canon and fugue, thorough bass and symphony, over which wide harmonious domain preside the majestic ghosts of the musicians, led by the noble figure of Wagner, who have gone to join the ranks of the great dead.

"I have done my humble best to amuse such of my classmates who should care to read a history of my pilgrimages since the most illustrious Class of '91 was scattered to the four winds to test its manly qualities without the protection of the weather-beaten old buildings of the yard, in the balance of the work-a-day world. And so I close with the hope that he who reads may not run."

WILLIAM PREBLE JONES.

“Three and a half years of writing about other people makes it difficult for me to write about myself. During that time I have been plodding along in the newspaper profession or business, by whichever name the trade may be termed, and I am glad to say that I am still at it. After graduation, in 1891, I entered the Harvard Law School, and there pursued the first year's course for the greater part of the year, 1891-92. Financially I could not see my way clear to going through the school without interruption, and while looking about for a business or other opening which might be of a temporary nature, I was offered a chance in newspaper work. My college training was a help in this line, and now, at the end of three and one half years, I am satisfied to continue in the business. Since May 16, 1892, I have been connected with the Somerville Journal, one of the strongest and best of the purely local papers in the country. I have also done special work for some of the Boston dailies, for the sake of the experience, acquaintance, and extra cash which such work offers. Many times I have been asked why I did not look for a position on a metropolitan paper, but I am persuaded that the broader and more general experience obtainable on a smaller paper gives a better foundation for future development. A change may be desirable later.

“During the four years since graduation I have travelled considerably about the eastern half of the United States, and also in Canada and Cuba. This is the principal vice which I have contracted since leaving my alma mater. My life is a busy one, though nothing of particular importance or interest has yet happened. Will my classmates and friends pardon what may seem to be exposing a private matter? The most momentous event to me, and I think about the happiest and proudest time of my life, occurred the present summer, — just four years after graduation, — and that was when I liquidated all my indebtedness, and finally paid for my college education. I do not regret the hard work, and I would advise almost any young man who desires an education to go to college, and of course to Harvard, though it takes ten years, instead of three or four, for him to get firmly planted on his feet again. This may be a sermonizing account of one member of the good old Class of '91, but in the pudding the bread is just as essential as the plums. Some one else must furnish the raisins."

GEORGE WHEELER KEENE.

"In the fall of 1891 I became a clerk in the office of J. B. Moors & Co., Bankers, 111 Devonshire Street, Boston, which position I still hold."

HARRY McCORMICK KELLY.

"Assistant in Zoölogy, Harvard University, 1891-93, with Virginia Barrett Gibbs scholarship in 1893. Assigned a Thayer scholarship for 1893-94, but declined.

"Instructor in Biology, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., 1893-94. Prof. of Biology, Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Iowa, 1894."

FREDERICK LINCOLN KENDALL.

"I taught in Weeping Water Academy, Weeping Water, Neb., 1891-94; was elected a member of the Nebraska State Historical Society in January, 1894; had charge of the classes in botany and geology at Long Pine Chautauqua, Long Pine, Neb., during the seasons of 1893 and 1894, and began work in Ridgeville College, Ridgeville, Ind., September, 1894."

TARRANT PUTNAM KING.

"Proprietor Fort Hill Storage Warehouse and treasurer N. Ward Company."

GEORGE NICHOLS LAMB.

Business, woolen commissions.

WILMQN WHILLDEN LEACH.

"After leaving Harvard I matriculated in the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania and graduated in the Class of '92. After spending two years in the hospitals of this city I commenced active practice and have been busily engaged in the profession ever since."

JOSEPH LEITER.

"Since graduation I have been in my father's office in Chicago, and for the past four years (since Jan. 1, 1892) have had charge of his affairs.

"During this time I have had little opportunity for travel save for a month or six weeks in the fall on an annual shooting trip West after big game, until this summer when I have been abroad for three months having but now returned (Aug. 31).

"Of your request for a list of clubs I can append the latter of Chicago clubs which alone I fancy may interest former classmates.

"Chicago, Union, University, Washington Park, Argo, Athletic, Calumet, Chicago Golf, Saddle and Cycle, Skaters', and Harvard Clubs.

"Save for an interest in politics and some few charities there has been nothing outside of the ordinary routine of business and the social duties to disturb the tranquillity of a peaceful existence."

GEORGE HENRY LEONARD, Jr.

"Leaving America in the summer of 1891, by the first of September, I was located in Paris as one of the art students of the 'Quartier Latin'; three winters of hard work in the ateliers, surrounded by opportunities for work and study in all branches. The work is confining, and not all play. As recreation, there are the delightful river excursions, the famous spots adjacent to Paris which must be visited, the music, the theatres, the gayety of the Boulevards. As one of the officers of the American Art Association, I have met many of the younger Americans, students of all branches, who come to Paris for study. Several of our class have been among the number.

"Short trips have given me glimpses of Italy, Switzerland, England, Scotland, and the Mediterranean. For the past year my work in landscape has taken me away from cities, into the dunes of North Holland among the quaint Dutch people, the sheep, and windmills."

EDMUND FRANCIS LELAND.

"I am engaged in the wool business and am travelling for the concern of Brown & Adams, of Boston. Have been abroad several times on business and pleasure."

FREDERICK LIDDEKE.

"For the past three years have been Principal of the Etna High School, which post I shall fill the coming year.

"I was connected with the Class of '91 only during the Senior year, having come from another college. While at Harvard but one year I have always felt that in many ways Harvard did me more good than all my training elsewhere. I am therefore thoroughly loyal to the crimson in spite of my short stay and the fewness of my associations."

ARTHUR MALBON LITTLE.

"After leaving college in June, 1891, I sailed for Europe, travelling there until December. In February, 1892, I was elected treasurer of the E. Howard Watch and Clock Co., of Boston, and hold the position at the present time."

ALBERT GOODELL LISCOMB.

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. Liscomb on the "Down East Boat" a year ago this fall when we revived old acquaintances. He is in Worcester.

SIDNEY ARCHER LORD.

"In Harvard Medical School from 1890 to 1893. Service of sixteen months in Massachusetts General Hospital, surgical side, in 1893 and 1894.

"Left America in April, 1895, studied in London, June.

"Expect to study in Germany till end of 1896; am now in Berlin, August, 1895. Shall practise in Boston."

JAMES ARNOLD LOWELL.

"I am a lawyer and have been engaged in the practice of the patent law the greater part of the time since I graduated from the Law School. I am at present in the office of Clarke and Raymond, 18 Pemberton Square, Boston.

"I am a member of the Puritan and Union Clubs in Boston.

"I have not been outside of the United States since I left college nor have I travelled much in this country. In fact, I am a contented stay-at-home."

MATTHEW LUCE, JR.

"I got my A. B. with '91. Then J. A. Blanchard and self went globe trotting for a year and half. In December, 1892, came into my father's office, wool business. Was abroad last winter on business, have n't yet been married."

EDWIN SOLOMON MACK.

"Delivered the law oration at the Harvard Commencement Exercises, 1893. I am now practising law, having my office at Room 8, 102 Wisconsin Street, Milwaukee."

JOHN WATKINS MARINER.

Is settled in Milwaukee, and is married.

LUCIUS ELLIOT MARPLE.

"Am at present superintendent of the Montreal Park and Island (Electric) Railway Company, Montreal, Canada."

MELVILLE ASBURY MARSH.

"Since leaving Harvard I have been teaching English and mathematics in Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y."

JOHN FEROME MASTIN.

"Since leaving college I have done very little — not much more than I did there. For the past year, however, I have been interested in lead and zinc mines, at Galena, Kan., and in that uncertain business I have been far luckier than most men.

“In December, 1893, I went to Central America, having heard that in that tropical country there were magnificent coffee and banana plantations just waiting for somebody to come and claim them. I found the plantations all right, but I found they had owners, too. I was in Bluefields, Nicaragua, when our American newspapers were telling horrible tales of revolution and butchery, but I saw nothing but a few soldiers who were small and did not look dangerous. In Costa Rica they had five revolutions during the four months I was there, but there was never any blood shed except at the Sunday bull-fights.

“I hope none of you will go to those countries in search of fortune. There you are too near the sun, which has about the same effect upon the system as the opium pipe. All one wants is enough to eat and a place to sleep, which he can always get, and without De Quincey's drug he dreams De Quincey's dreams.

“At present I am in Glenwood Springs, Colo. They have here one of the finest hotels in the country, but that is about all. But it's a very good place to come when the home climate gets too hot.”

EDWARD DAVIDSON McCOLLOM.

“After graduating I spent the summer of 1891 tutoring and then returned to Harvard for a year in the Graduate School. In June, 1892, I took final honors in classics and the degree of Master of Arts. I spent this and the two following summers tutoring. During 1892-93 I was Principal of the Plattsburgh, (N. Y.) High School, the largest and best equipped high school in New York, north of Albany. In March, 1893, I was elected Principal of Schools in District 39 of Essex Co., N. J., for 1893-94. This position has since been increased to the principalship of the High School and the superintendency of all the schools in West Orange, N. J. Here they keep municipal government free from State and national politics, and school affairs free from both ; so that West Orange, N. J., is likely to be my permanent address.

"I have had little time to spend at any but my school duties, but in that little time have enjoyed my membership in the New England Society of the Oranges. I was one of the five original promoters of a now flourishing University Extension centre in Orange, was also one of the five who revived the Essex County Teachers' Association, am one of the County Board of Examiners for the granting of teachers' licenses, am beginning to take a more prominent part in Teachers' Institutes, and have identified myself somewhat with charitable, Church, and Sunday-school work.

"I was confirmed at St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church March 18, 1894, having been for twelve years previously a member of a church in Boston of a different denomination, with the doctrine and teaching of which I never was satisfied as I am now. I owe this change almost entirely to listening to the wholesome common-sense and sound reasoning that I heard a few Sundays toward the end of my college course, in St. John's Chapel, Cambridge."

ARTHUR NYE McGEOCH.

"I am engaged at present in the practice of law in the office of Winkler, Flanders, Smith, Bottum and Vilas, 800 Pabst Building, Milwaukee, and find the same most interesting, but least profitable."

CHARLES HADDON McINTYRE.

"Was admitted to the New Brunswick Bar in October, 1893, and in December, 1894, was admitted to the Suffolk Bar of Massachusetts.

"Spent the third year of Law School course in an office at St. John, New Brunswick, and returned for final examinations at Law School in June, 1894.

"After graduating entered the office of C. B. Southard, 209 Washington Street, Boston, and remained there until April, 1895, when I became associated with Hon. Chas. T. Gallagher, 209 Washington Street, where now engaged in practice. In February, 1895, was appointed a Commissioner for the Province of New Brunswick."

KENNETH MCKENZIE.

“After graduating I spent a year travelling in Europe and Africa, and then spent three years in the graduate school. I visited Europe again during the summer of 1894 and 1895. For the year 1895-96 I am Instructor in Modern Languages at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.”

GLENN CLAYTON MEAD.

“I spent the fall term of 1891 in the Harvard Post Graduate department ; since that time I have been teaching in the Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia.”

WILLIAM GREGORY MEADOWS.

Is a lawyer.

EDGAR MILLS.

“Having safely passed the trials of childhood, I was sent to school ; I might say to various schools, no doubt very good, but what I there learned, I regret to find, has escaped my memory. In my fifteenth year there began to be held many conferences in the family, the outcome of which was, that Phillips Exeter Academy, at Exeter, New Hampshire, was appointed as the scene of my future intellectual triumphs. Nearly four years saw me making ready for an assault upon the well fortified portals of Harvard University, which succumbed to a violent attack, after one of the most heroic defences in the annals of its existence, and admitted me in memorable year of 1887. For another four years the world rang with the exploits of '91 (was it literary or athletic ?) ; what honor to be a member, — and even now welive in Yalensian memory. Upon leaving the University I repaired to my father's town house in San Francisco. Two years later my father died and I found myself in possession of an ample fortune, but no experience. The world, however, has been very kind.

“My tale is done : do you not agree with me that it is the average account of a young man ? And averages are so commonplace and dull !”

CHARLES LOUIS MIX.

"An ambition to advance rapidly led me to abandon the Class of '91, much to my regret, at the beginning of my Junior year and to enroll as a Senior. I therefore graduated with the Class of '90, and when my old classmates received their degrees of A. B., I received one of A. M., having spent one year in the graduate department. In the fall of 1891 I entered the Medical School and graduated there in June, 1894. During my medical course I was one of the proctors of Grays Hall.

"After receiving my degree of M. D., I came to Chicago where I now live, and accepted a position of Teacher of Biology in one of the High schools of this city. I have charge of the department at my school and have an assistant to help me in the work. My wife is a graduate of the University of Michigan of the Class of '94.

"I shall teach here in this city one more year and then I expect to go to Europe for a year of special study in the department of medicine. Upon my return I shall settle down to hard work in my chosen calling."

EDWARD CALVIN MOEN.

"Regret to say I have no doings to record. The first three years after graduation I spent in the Columbia Law School, and when I had finished my time at the Law School I went into a law office in New York city."

ALBERT RANDELL MOORE.

"Since Law School days I have been practising law as junior member of the law firm of Stryker & Moore, with offices in the Globe Building, St. Paul, Minn.

"I won the Paige prize for the best Commencement Thesis at Law School and have since contributed to one of the law magazines. With good luck I hope to be on hand for the '97 dinner."

EDWARD CLARK MOREY.

"I hold the position of Latin Master in the Belmont School, California."

FREDERIC GRINNELL MORGAN.

"Has spent most of his summers abroad and especially in London. Has taken post-graduate courses in history at Harvard, and at the same time was Instructor in History at Miss Hersey's School in Boston."

MILO TRUE MORRILL.

"I have little to communicate except matters of a very personal nature. Since the last class report my residence has changed several times. Went to California in search of health, travelling there, along the Pacific Coast northward, through the Northern States eastward to New York. During the school year of 1893 and 1894 I taught, as Assistant Principal, at Starkey Seminary, Eddytown, N. Y., several science and language classes, at the close of the year refusing overtures to become Principal of that institution. My summer vacation was partly spent on Cape Cod, Mass., and partly in New Hampshire. Sept. 1, 1894, by invitation, I came to Woodstock, Vt., to assume charge of the Christian Church, being ordained to the ministry in October, receiving a call to become pastor in January, 1895. The church is a large one for a country village and has a nice property, but the parish is too large for one man to look after in detail."

LEWIS KENNEDY MORSE.

"During the year 1892-93 I gave up my law work to act as General Secretary of the Harvard Christian Association, being the third to hold this paid office. The work of the secretary had never been narrow in any sense, but now that the religious and charitable interests of the University are united in a Student Volunteer Committee, with a paid charity expert as director, the Christian Association has given up this office. While the aim of the General Secretary had been to make more effective the religious and philanthropic efforts of the professedly religious part of the student body, the larger aim of the director of the Student Volunteer Committee is to help any students of the University who wish training in attacking and working out charitable problems, be the solution economic, religious, or Christian.

"I have no personal history for the class report. I have not yet left academic life, so I can only thus write of the larger interests in which I have striven to take my part as a member of our University."

GALLOUPE MORTON.

While at the Law School was a member of the Williston Club. Was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in October, 1894. Last winter spent in New York, and is now, in company with his wife, in Europe for a year's visit.

JAMES MADISON MORTON, JR.

Is a lawyer.

NETTELTON NEFF.

"Ever since leaving Harvard I have been a civil engineer in the Maintenance of Way Department of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, one of the Pennsylvania Company's lines."

MURRY NELSON, JR.

"After graduating from college I went to Europe for three months, and upon my return to Chicago entered the law office of Gen. George W. Smith. In May, 1893, I was admitted to the Bar of Illinois, and since that time have practised law. I have been fairly successful in my profession, but like most young attorneys engaged in civil practice I have had no cases of great interest to any one not directly concerned in them.

"I belong to the Chicago Literary Club, University Club, and Wyandot Tennis Club."

ARTHUR BOYLSTON NICHOLS.

Is an architect in New York.

JESSE GILMAN NICHOLS.

"The year following our graduation I spent in the Harvard Divinity School, as a member of the Junior Class. I received an A. M. at the completion of the year's study. The following two years I spent in Andover Theological Seminary, graduating in June, 1894.

"During my Seminary Course I had charge at different times of two churches, one in Springfield, Me., and the other in Wentworth, N. H.

"In February, 1894, I began to preach at the First Congregational Church, Hamilton, Mass. Receiving a call from that society and church in May, I was ordained as a minister and installed as pastor, Sept. 13. I have served that church for one year and am about to enter upon the second.

"I had decided upon my profession before entering College and have not been disappointed in it. It is a hard one in many respects, but full of interesting and helpful experiences, rich with rewards for one who is anxious to meet men face to face, and to lead them to a higher life.

"I have visited Old Harvard many times since our graduation. The happy years spent there seem like a dream. Each time as I return, during term time or at Commencement, the place, the buildings, beloved teachers, classmates, and friends seem dearer."

HARRY LOVETT NORTON.

"In the fall of 1891 I entered the Medical School which I attended for two and a half years. I found the work there very interesting, especially the chemistry courses to which I devoted the greater part of my time. Had my health continued good I should have continued there, but in February, 1893, I was obliged to seek some 'sunnier clime' and went to Baltimore, Md., where I entered the employ of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. I found Baltimore colder and more disagreeable than the Boston I had left, but it lacked that 'combination of red pepper and icicles known as an east wind,' so I soon regained my health. In May, 1894, I returned to Boston where I remained until August, when I came to Detroit where the John Hancock had opened a branch office in the Industrial Department. I have been here now a little over a year, and like the city and its people very much. Detroiters are certainly very loyal to their city, and next to their city comes their island park. 'How do you like Detroit?' 'Is n't Belle Isle beautiful?' are their first remarks.

“The State University at Ann Arbor draws most of Detroit's young men, and the result is that there are but few graduates of Harvard here. However, if any member of '91 happens to get stranded here, if he will find his way to 32 Fort Street, West, he will find two members of that only class who will see that time does not hang heavily on his hands.”

FREDERICK BROOKS NOYES.

“For four years pastor of Second Congregational Church, West Newbury, Mass., and my present position.”

JAMES BEAUMONT NOYES.

“During the 51st Congress was private secretary to Congressman Elijah A. Morse, in Washington, D. C. Resigned and went into the Reportorial Department of the Boston Herald. For special work there I was assigned to the State Senate and State House in winter and attended to ‘Sports’ in summer, ‘covering’ tennis at nearly all the important tournaments in the East and at Chicago three successive summers, besides being stationed at New London during the two weeks preceding and including the days of the college boat races. Was also privileged to assist in ‘covering’ the international yacht races at New York in 1893. Interviews with (then) Ex-President Cleveland at Gray Gables, James G. Blaine, and James J. Corbett, and many others might be cited as interesting and somewhat contrasting experiences in newspaper work.

“Oct. 1, 1894, I resigned from the Herald to accept a position with the ‘Harvard Graduates’ Magazine.”

RICHARD WINSLOW NUTTER.

“Took a position with the State Street Safe Deposit and Trust Company in July of 1891. Resigned his position in September, 1893, on account of ill health. Later in the same year commenced the study of law in the office of District Attorney Robert O. Harris, Harvard, '77, at Brockton, Mass., and is still pursuing his studies. Chairman of the school committee of East Bridgewater since December, 1893; trustee of the East Bridgewater Savings Bank; secretary of the East Bridgewater Improvement Club."

ROBERT LINCOLN O'BRIEN.

"The story of my four years since commencement is quickly told. I began work as a reporter on the Boston Transcript the Monday after Commencement and remained with that excellent newspaper just one year, when I resigned to take a position as stenographer and personal secretary to Mr. Cleveland during the presidential campaign of 1892. After his inauguration I came to Washington to continue the same duties under the official title of Executive Clerk to the President, which place I still hold, although I hope at no distant day to return to newspaper work."

JOHN OENSLAGER, JR.

"After graduation I attended the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania for three years, and on graduation immediately took the State Medical Board examination for license to practice in the State of Pennsylvania and stood number three in the list of all the candidates examined,—about three hundred in number. By competitive examination I obtained a place as Resident Physician in the Methodist Episcopal Hospital. I served a term of over fourteen months as resident. Sept. 1 1895, I came to Harrisburg to locate permanently and have just been appointed surgeon to the police patrol. While in the hospital I held the position of reviewer on one of the leading medical journals of Philadelphia. My office address is 1017 North 3d Street, Harrisburg, Pa."

ANDREW OLIVER, 2D.

"Immediately after graduation I was appointed Instructor in Classics at the College of St. James, Maryland, an institution of character and reputation in the South. I remained there during an exceedingly pleasant year, at the end of which time I accepted a call to teach Greek and Latin at Selwyn Hall Military Academy, in Reading, Pa. At the latter place I remained two years when I was offered the classical tutorship at St.

Marks' School, Southborough, Mass. This offer, however, I declined, since I had decided to return to Harvard for the degree of A. M., which I took in 1895, after one year of study.

"My post-graduate work at Harvard has been mainly in the classical and in the pedagogical departments, and has therefore been chiefly of a professional character; and, as such, to me extremely fascinating.

"At the beginning of the next academic year I go to 'The Pomfret School,' Connecticut, to take charge of the Greek department, as well as that of ancient history.

"I may add that in the course of my life in Maryland and Pennsylvania I have improved many valuable opportunities, and have seen much of the life in those and in the neighboring States. To me one of the most interesting things in my profession is this constant opportunity to experience new aspects of nature and of man. The field should become an ever-broadening one, instead of its giving way, as it sometimes does, to warped and provincial ideas. As a trade, teaching may sometimes be the sorriest thing in the world; as a true profession, the noblest.

"It gives me pleasure to say, in conclusion, that the great majority of my pupils have found their way variously into Harvard, Yale, Princeton, the University of Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Hobart, Trinity, and the United States Military and Naval Academies; also into one or two foreign institutions. Such a diversity of interests as are here represented ought to be in itself a source of inspiration and enlightenment, not only to the teacher, but to every intelligent citizen."

GEORGE LAURIE OSGOOD, JR.

"Have worked in a wool commission house and several woolen mills and in the Philadelphia Textile School."

CURTIS HIDDEN PAGE.

"I spent the summer of 1891 in Europe, running through Belgium, France, Switzerland, Northern Italy, and Southern Germany.

"In 1891-92, I was Instructor in French at Western Reserve University (Adelbert College), Cleveland. The next year I returned to the Harvard Graduate School, where I took my Ph. D. in Germanic Languages, with English as the specialty. In 1893-94 I was Instructor in French at Harvard; and during the past year I have been a student at the University of Paris, spending the vacations in Italy and England. If any '91 men are thinking of going to Paris to study, I should be glad to help them in any way I can, by information about the University, or other matters, or by letters of introduction. For the coming year I am Lecturer on the Romance Languages and Literatures at Columbia, and my address is 52 E. 49th Street, New York City."

LOUIS COUES PAGE.

"Of course, the most important thing to me was my marriage on June 3, 1895, to Miss Kate Stearns, of Brookline, Mass., a sister, by the way, of W. B. Stearns of '90. We were married at the First Parish Church, Brookline, by the Rev. Howard N. Brown.

"The following September after graduation I went into business with the firm of Estes & Lauriat, publishers, Boston; and, after being with them less than a year, have been ever since with the Joseph Knight Company, publishers, Boston, of which company I am at present treasurer. In this connection I may touch a moment upon the much argued question; whether or no it is advisable for a man, who intends to make business and not a profession his future career, to spend four years at college. From my own experience I am convinced that four years at such a University as Harvard is the best possible preparation for a business career, as the breadth of character, general knowledge of men and things, and the hard-to-define but none the less practical advantages of old college sentiment, associations, and friendships, much more than compensate for the four years' handicap in start in actual business, the college man has to allow his competitor who goes straight from school to business."

JAMES ALFRED PARKER.

Is a lawyer in New York City.

SAMUEL DUNN PARKER.

Is in the real estate business in Boston, office, 50 State Street.

WALLACE ASABEL PARKER.

"Since graduation have practised a specialty — the eye and ear — one and one half years in North Adams, Mass., and one and one half years here."

STARR PARSONS.

"In 1892 I taught at St. Paul's, Concord, N. H., studying law in my leisure time. I was admitted to the Essex Bar in October, 1892, and associated myself with Walter H. Southwick, Harvard Law School, '90, under the firm name of Southwick and Parsons. He had already started in Lynn, Mass., and we continued at the same place. We have acquired a successful and lucrative practice, in which we employ two clerks and occupy three large rooms.

"I at present occupy the chair of Vice-Chancellor in Peter Woodland Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and am a member of the Prospect Club, a social organization of some sporting reputation."

HARRY HOLLISTER PEASE.

Has been with Williams and Peters, coal merchants, in New York. Have just received his wedding cards.

HENRY ARNOLD PECKHAM.

Is a lawyer.

DAVID CROWELL PERCIVAL, JR.

"My career so far has been very commonplace. A year at the Harvard Law School sort of broke the fall from college life to a business career, upon which I entered in September, 1892. In February last, I became a member of the firm of D. C. Percival & Co."

NATHAN WYMAN PERKINS.

"I am sorry to say nothing remarkable has happened to me since graduation. I have not been married, and so can have no births to record. I took no post-graduate degrees. In fact, I have done little but study medicine a little with a practising physician, and muse over my college days. I have been thinking over in these years since graduation what I should take up for a life work, but have not yet come to any conclusion. My occupation has been to solicit a little life insurance, in which, considering the amount of affection I have for it, I have had fair success. I enjoyed the Triennial dinner very much.

"I have seen but little of '91 members since graduation, but those whom I have seen, seem all in an enjoyable frame of mind, and well imbued with the necessity devolving upon them of giving a good account of themselves for Alma Mater's sake."

THOMAS NELSON PERKINS.

"I have spent three years in the Law School, one year in the office of Ropes, Gray & Loring, lawyers, in Boston, and am about to set up for myself as a lawyer at 1033 Exchange Building, Boston."

RÉGIS HENRI POST.

Occupation, growing flowers.

GEORGE LIVERMORE POTTER.

"In the fall of 1891 I made a trip abroad, remaining there during a part of the year 1892. In 1893 I entered the real estate business, opening an office at 31 Milk Street, and am still engaged in the business. I was elected a member of the Real Estate and Auction Board in the fall of 1893."

HARRY AUSTIN POTTER.

"Since graduation I have spent most of my time in Europe, at the universities of Leipzig, Rome, Paris, and Madrid; my studies, together with incidental travel, have occupied the greater part of my time. This year I am at St. Mark's, as master of Modern Languages. There is nothing else of interest."

ROBERT BURNSIDE POTTER.

"I came to Paris in the autumn of 1891 to study architecture, and, with the exception of two months spent in the south of France, Algeria, and Tunis, remained there until July, 1892, when I went to America for the vacation. I was admitted to the Ecole des Beaux Arts in February, 1893. In November I went to New York for ten days, and spent the winter travelling in Italy, Greece, Turkey, and Egypt. I was married in New York on April 3, 1894, and came back shortly after to Paris to continue my studies, where, with a few months spent in travelling in France, I have remained ever since. My Paris address is 3 Rue de Saint Simon."

JOHN ORVILLE POWERS.

"I am on the fence just now. This is how I got there: went to Europe for three months after graduation; went the regular rounds in the usual double-quick time,—Belgium, France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Holland, England; came back September, 1891, started in with Wickes, '92, in his father's refrigerator business; found out shortly that I was on the wrong track; got out; took a small position with Messrs. Rogers, Peet & Co., clothiers, in New York; that led immediately to a good position, which I kept and bettered until August, 1895. Then I gave up my position (partly because my health was not vigorous), and am now on my way to California. Shall stop there a month, then 'ranch it' (I guess) for a few months, and then go back to work.

"At Rogers, Peet & Co.'s my position was secretary to the managing partner. I conducted most of the correspondence, wrote all the advertising, and stuck my nose into affairs in general. That is the sort of work I expect to do; but, of course, like every young man in such a position, I want a business of my own."

GEORGE WESLEY PRIEST.

"Expert leather chemist. Took graduate work in Organic Chemistry at Technology, 1894-95."

CHARLES RUSSELL LOWELL PUTNAM.

Has been surgeon in the Massachusetts General Hospital.

JOHN PARKHURST PUTNAM.

“ My story is a short one. After graduating in 1891, I entered the Divinity School, spending three years there, and taking my A. M., as above indicated, in 1894. My purpose in entering the Theological Department at Harvard was to prepare for the Unitarian Ministry. This denomination is at present in a peculiar situation as regards candidates. There are very few eligible societies, and at the same time an ever-growing number of worthy and well equipped ministers. This excess of supply over demand is embarrassing for all who desire to candidate, but more especially for the younger and therefore less experienced men.

“ Consequently, I have found no desirable parish over which I would like to be settled. However, I preach on supply from time to time, and await a possibly more favorable opening later. I count myself as belonging to the Unitarian Ministry, though without a regular charge.”

WILLIAM MERWIN RANDOL.

“ After leaving college, I came to California in June, 1891, making the trip over the Canadian Pacific Railway, a route justly famed for its beautiful scenery. About the 1st of September I commenced business in San Francisco, and soon after obtained a position with the Standard Quicksilver Company, being elected vice president. The company's property, known as the Mirabel Mine, is situated in Lake County, California, about eighty-five miles north of San Francisco. In the summer of 1893, I was put in charge of the mine and reduction works as superintendent, which position I occupy at present.

“ Although I have given more attention to quicksilver mining than anything else, I am also interested in the management of several large fruit ranches.

“ When in San Francisco my headquarters are at the University Club, which was started in 1891, and now has a membership of four hundred and fifty, a good proportion of the members being Harvard men.

"In October, 1893, I made a flying trip to the World's Fair, and also spent a few days in New York, where I had the pleasure of meeting a few old graduates, among whom were Arthur Nichols and Jim Parker.

"In the latter part of August of last year, in company with Thornton Woodbury, '89, I went to examine some quicksilver deposits in the southern part of Texas near the Mexican border.

"It is only lack of space which prevents my recalling some of our hairbreadth experiences.

"We have a Harvard Club in San Francisco, numbering about one hundred and thirty members. For two years I held the distinguished position of treasurer."

WILLARD REED.

"For two years after graduation I was master of the High School at Sandwich, Mass., was president of the County Teachers' Association the second year. Since then have been studying at the Harvard Divinity School; have preached in Unitarian Mission churches at New Paynesville, Minn., through the summer of 1894; and at Newton Highlands, the past winter, once a month, sharing the work with three other members of the Divinity School. I shall continue my work next year, probably, by private studies in New York; do not intend to enter active work for two or three years yet. Have not travelled, except to the Harvard Exhibit and the other extraordinary things at Chicago, and as for clubs, am about on the basis of the old 'Lampoon' Freshman who had been elected to the Co-op. Am a member of the New England Free Trade League. Am not married, but have taken the 'Social Conference' (starred course, primarily for graduates), and have obtained the consent of the instructor to count the two courses as one."

JOHN WESLEY RICE.

"I devoted the year after graduation to travel and study in Europe, registering for the winter semester in the University of Berlin. While there I met my classmate, Morgan Barnes, and travelled with him for several months. In the fall of 1892 I entered Yale Divinity School, completing the regular course last May. Plans for next year not yet made."

HENRY RICH.

"Nothing of great importance has crossed my path as yet, and I am pursuing the same life as when I graduated a '91 man with the exception of growing a little more serious every year.

"Am still in the office of C. W. Whittier, real estate, Boston, where I entered on leaving college."

HERBERT MAULE RICHARDS.

"Will spend next year abroad, chiefly in Leipzig, studying."

JOHN WILLIAM ROBERTS.

Sent only name and address.

FRED NORRIS ROBINSON.

"From 1891-94, I was in the Graduate School studying early English. During the year just past I have been giving Dr. Garrett's courses in the same subject, and now, as I write this letter, I am on the way to Germany to take up the study of Celtic. I expect to spend the working part of the year in Freiburg, and between the University semesters I shall make a short visit to Italy and Greece. I hope no itinerant '91 men will cross my course without stopping to join me in at least a dinner. My address for the year will be care Brown, Shipley & Co., London."

FRANCIS STETSON ROGERS.

"The first few months after our graduation I busied myself looking about me in search of permanent occupation, and it was not until January, 1892, that I went to Brockton, Mass., to work in the office of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of that city. I soon sickened of my duties there, which consisted chiefly of book-keeping and bill collecting, and after more than a year of unproductive drudgery, I accepted the offer of a clerkship in the office of the assistant treasurer of the Chicago, Burlington

& Quincy Railroad in Boston. My daily occupation in this office was to write checks for other people's dividends and to count other people's coupons, and I soon began to tire of business life altogether.

"In our Junior year I had begun to take singing lessons with the idea that singing should always serve me as a pastime and a recreation, and with this idea I continued my study of it after I left college. But as time went on I found that music was becoming to me a greater and greater factor in my life, in proportion as my work in the office became more burdensome and distasteful to me; and so, in July, 1894, I gave up my clerkship and decided to devote myself to singing as a means of livelihood. During the following winter I studied at the New England Conservatory of Music under W. L. Whitney, and in June, 1895, came abroad to study under Sig. Vannuccini, of Florence, with a view to qualifying myself to sing in opera. How long I shall stay here or where my career will take me are questions which I cannot answer now."

VICTOR SYDNEY ROTHSCHILD.

"We are trying mighty hard to keep up that good old Harvard spirit here. We had two rattling good '91 dinners in 1892 and 1893; but the organizers of these seem to have got married, or met with some other direful fate. Sure it is, the last two years have not seen our New York delegation around the festive board, which is to be regretted.

"A manufacturer's life is pleasant in a way; but working for 'B's' and 'C's' is more safe and more pleasurable than the quest for '$'s; of this, I am quite positive.

"'Business' has most frequently called me to Boston (and Cambridge is near by), which has often been commented upon by our firm. Altogether, in the last four years I have had the bitter mixed with the sweet, with the sweet predominating. So I am not complaining; the world is treating me as I deserve to be treated. I mean the world is treating me well.

"I trust the other members of the class can say the same."

HENRY ARTHUR RUSCH.

“Shortly after graduating, I went into business in the importing house of Abegg & Rusch, New York, where I have been ever since, except during a stay in Europe of a little over one year in 1893 and 1894.”

VIRGIL RYDER.

“Since graduation from Harvard, in 1891, with the degree of A. B., I have been teaching Latin and Greek in Millersburg Female College, Kentucky.”

GEORGE HUBBARD SAVAGE.

Is not prepared to have any account published.

SUMNER CARRUTH SAVILLE.

“The next fall after graduating from college, I entered the Harvard Medical School and in 1894 received my degree. I then went to Vienna and spent the following winter studying at the Allgemeine Krankenhaus. In the spring of 1895 I took a short trip through Italy and then went up to Berlin for study. I am at present in London with the intention of returning to Berlin for the coming winter. There are many Harvard men at present at Vienna, our classmate, Chas. Swan, being there.”

HENRY MARTYN SAVILLE.

“I taught for a year after leaving college, at my alma mater, St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

“Then I entered the General Theological Seminary, Chelsea Square, New York, in the middle class, graduating in May, 1894. I was ordained deacon in New York, May 20, 1894, and advanced to the priesthood at New Bedford, May 30, 1895.

“I became assistant minister at St. Martin's Church, New Bedford, June 1, 1894, and hold the same position at this date.”

HARRIS EASTMAN SAWYER.

“In the fall of 1891, I was appointed assistant chemist to the Massachusetts Board of Health. In the following spring, I resigned and was appointed assistant to Prof. Hill in Chemistry 3. I have been with him during the last three years, have received my two higher degrees, and am now on the point of dropping college work and going into business."

WALTER FAIRBANKS SAWYER.

"Medical house pupil McLean Asylum, Somerville, Mass., 1891-92. House surgeon Boston City Hospital, 1892-93. Fellow Massachusetts Medical Society, 1891. M. D., Harvard Medical School, 1893. In practice at Fitchburg, Mass., since Dec. 1, 1893."

FRANCIS PHILIP SEARS.

"July 15, 1891, I sailed for Liverpool on the 'Majestic,' which broke the east-bound record on that trip. For some fifteen months thereafter I travelled in various parts of Europe and Africa, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, and Greece. I spent the winter in Egypt, sailing with my family up to Assonar and the First Cataract in a dahabeyeh. Returning to the States in October, 1892, on the 'Paris,' when we again broke the record, I entered the Harvard Law School, from which I graduated last June. About the same time I was admitted to the Suffolk Bar, and I am now about to go into the law office of Mr. Solomon Lincoln, at 53 State St., Boston. While in the Law School I have spent my summer vacations in various parts of the Eastern States, going to the Chicago Fair in 1893."

RICHARD SEARS.

"Since leaving college I have been doing a great many different things. I went abroad with my family for two years, travelling all over Europe and going up the Nile in a dahabeyeh for two months, a most interesting trip. I did a great deal of pigeon and pelican shooting. Since my return I have been in business, which is very quiet, and the more so for me because I am what they call in the play, the 'Silent Partner.' My office hours are short and so I have a great deal of time to myself for other things. Golf this year has taken up a great deal of my time, and although I don't make very fine scores I seem to do fairly well. I have not been married and I hope I will not for a long time. I am a member of the Boston Athletic Club, Republican, Currency Reform, and Country Club, of Narragansett Pier, R. I., where I go for half of the summer. My life in winter is just like a clock,—going down to business (real estate), arriving at 9.15 A. M., going away at 4 P. M. I go to a great many dances (of course, this is some change). From time to time I run across some of my classmates and we get together and have a jolly time."

WILLIAM RICHARDS SEARS.

"I am practising law in the office of Sherman L. Whipple, Room 61, 5 Tremont St., Boston, Mass."

QUINCY ADAMS SHAW, JR.

"Director of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company."

MINOT OSGOOD SIMONS.

Has a pastorate in Billerica, Mass.

FRITZ HUBERT SMALL.

"I spent the year following graduation at Harvard, studying mathematics chiefly, and received at its close an A. M. degree. I then accepted the position of Sub-Master in the Melrose High School, which position I have held up to this time and still hold. I have taught chiefly physics and chemistry."

JAMES BRADY SMILEY.

"The next two years after commencement I was superintendent of the Public Schools at McGregor, Iowa, well known through the Northwest as the 'Pocket City.' It received this title from its delightful situation, nestling, as it does, amid the bluffs of the Mississippi. The next year I returned to Harvard for a year's post-graduate work, receiving the degree of A. M. in June, 1894. I accepted the position of the head of the Greek department in the West High School at Cleveland, Ohio, which position I still occupy."

CHARLES EPHRAIM STEARNS.

"After graduation I attended the Harvard Law School for the years 1891, 1892. Owing to ill health I did not take my first year examinations at the Law School, and in the fall of 1892 I entered the Boston University Law School. I completed the three years' course in two years, getting my LL. B. in June, 1894. In July of 1894 I was admitted to the Suffolk County Bar. From November of 1893 to the present time I have been in the office of John Oscar Teele, Esq., at 42 Court Street, Boston. Here I am practising for myself."

WILLIAM CHARLES STERNE.

"I have devoted myself to a business life, being secretary of the Indianapolis Cabinet Works. I have, however, devoted much time to travel, spending the greater part of last year in Europe, going through Italy, Bavaria, Austria, Germany, France, and England. It had been my intention to attempt newspaper work, but illness prevented. While abroad I met many Harvard men whom I had known while at college, and these chance meetings were of the most pleasant happenings during my visit abroad. A chance to speak and hear of dear old Harvard is to me not a frequent occurrence.

"I shall look anxiously for news of my classmates in the 'Graduates' Magazine.'"

JOSEPH AUSTIN STETSON.

"Shortly after our graduation I started for the West, intending to settle somewhere beyond the Mississippi. At Superior, Wis., I fell in with our classmate, M. H. Wildes, and we went on together as far as Spokane, Wash., taking a pleasure trip through Yellowstone Park on the way. But aside from that we were bent on finding business openings, and that one of us at least was in earnest will appear from Wildes' report to the class. He is now located in Everett, Wash. As a Westerner I was a failure. I bought wheat three months for a Spokane flour mill, my territory being in the fertile Palouse country south of "the Falls." When the farmers had sold all their wheat I lost my job,—a reward for hustling as undeserved as it was welcome. My first thought was of law and the Harvard School; but I made the circuit through the Puget Sound country, California, Denver, and the rest, making feeble efforts after another opening, the wheat business being barred. I started the New Year (1892) in Boston, as deputy clerk of the United States Circuit Court, and the next October entered the second year class of the Harvard Law School, from which I graduated with the class of '94. In the summer of 1893 I went abroad with A. G. Barret, '89.

“For nearly a year I have been practising law in the office of Rowland Cox, Esq., 229 Broadway, New York City. Several business trips have relieved the tedium of office work, and enabled me to see many of my classmates in various cities. I mean to remain in New York, and shall probably stick to the specialty of trademarks, copyrights, and patents.”

WESTON STICKNEY.

“Nothing particularly interesting has happened to me. I am in the office of Parsons, Shepard & Ogden, in New York, but have not been admitted to the bar.”

ISAAC NEWTON PHELPS STOKES.

“After graduation I spent three months travelling in the West and then entered the banking house of J. Kennedy Tod & Co., Wall Street, N. Y., as clerk, remaining there until September, 1892, when I left to make a tour of the world. Returning to New York in August, 1893, I spent four months in my father's private office, and in January, 1894, entered the architectural department of the School of Mines, Columbia College, as a Special. In June of the same year I went to Italy with Professor Hamlin, as a member of the summer class for the study of Renaissance architecture. In October, 1894, I settled down in Paris, in the ‘Quartier Latin’ and began to prepare myself for the entrance examinations of the École des Beaux Arts. In May, 1895, I returned to America for the summer. I expect to return to Paris early in November.”

CHARLES HENRY STONE.

"Since leaving college I have been employed in United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, and in United States Geological Survey, and for the past year have been reading law. Am a member of the Chevy-Chase Club and the Loyal Legion. Have spent several seasons in the West and one in Louisiana, but just now am unsettled where I shall permanently locate. I am engaged and expect to be married in the fall."

GEORGE HENRY STONE.

Went to Europe in the summer of 1891, and has been there ever since travelling and studying. He made the trip from Holland to Naples on a bicycle.

For some time he has been living in London, studying medicine at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and has recently matriculated at London University.

ALFRED SUTRO.

Practising law in San Francisco, Crocker Building, rooms 97-103.

HUGH TALLANT.

"Immediately after graduation I began architectural work, first with Messrs. Rotch & Tilden, and afterwards with Messrs. Shepley, Rutan & Coolidge. In October, 1892, I came abroad, and have been engaged since that time in architectural studies, principally at the École des Beaux Arts, in Paris, where I have obtained six medals. I shall remain abroad until I obtain the diploma awarded by the École, which will probably require some eighteen months' more residence in Paris. I am naturally well acquainted with the ways and means of the 'Quartier Latin,' and shall be glad to be of what service I can to any members of the class desirous of establishing themselves there for any length of time."

RALPH STOCKMAN TARR.

"Assistant Professor of Dynamic Geology and Physical Geography, Cornell University, since January, 1892. Assistant Geologist United States Geological Survey, 1891-92.

"Have published, besides a number of short papers, 'Economic Geology of the United States,' Macmillan & Co., New York, five hundred and nine pages, January, 1894. Second edition (revised), March, 1895. 'Elementary Physical Geography,' Macmillan & Co., New York, August, 1895."

LEO BOONE THOMAS.

"After leaving Harvard, I studied three years at Newton Theological Institute. During my course there I became acquainted with Rev. Richard Montague, an eminent clergyman in the Baptist denomination, a graduate of good old Harvard, and at one time under appointment as one of her 'University Preachers' (at chapel service, etc.). Through Dr. Montague I received a call to this delightful western city, where he had labored for five or six years, building a most beautiful church, and giving it the leading position in the place. Here, with old Pike's Peak in my door-yard and with the 'Garden of the Gods' and its feasts of Jovine ambrosia and nectar near at hand, with all the glories of the old Rockies protecting, I nevertheless fell in love, and am now a married man, with cares and scares according.

"Uncle Sam has an amazing fine lot of land out here and a climate that can't be beat. Why! it makes dead men live. A regular specific for lung trouble. A fellow came out here with only a lung and a half, and will you believe me, at the end of one year, he had three lungs and a half. I ought to add that he married two of them. I meet many Harvard men out here. 'All things [and persons] come to him that waits' out at Colorado Springs, they say. My heart goes out to our alma mater in frequent thought. A brother of mine in Class of '96 keeps me in touch with the spirit of the good old days, and when any '91 men find their steps turning hitherward, let them expect a cordial welcome, and look up the pastor of the First Baptist Church, your humble servant."

EDMUND SANFORD THOMSON.

"Have practised here in New Haven for three years. Last year was appointed one of the city physicians."

ROGER EDMUND TILESTON.

"Has been in the paper business ever since graduation ; for two years in the mills of the Tileston & Hollingsworth Co. at Dorchester and Hyde Park, and for the last two years in the office of the same company in the John Hancock Building, Boston."

JOHN TUNIS.

Has charge of a church in New York.

WALLACE MANAHAN TURNER.

"In the summer of 1891 I was elected to teach Latin and English in the Classical High School, at Worcester. After teaching two years, I obtained leave of absence and entered the Graduate School, studying classical philology. Just before the end of the year, I was obliged to leave, owing to sickness. Such work as I missed I hope to be allowed to make up this year. At present I am teaching in my old position, and doing some outside work. Any '91 man who may have the inclination to hunt me up, will find a welcome at the Hancock Club."

FREDERIC TUDOR, F.R.

"I left college March 15, 1890, owing to the loss of my right foot under an electric car. Entered employ of the West End Street Railway Company of Boston, as private secretary to the president, Mr. H. M. Whitney, in October, 1890. Kept this place until March 1, 1893, when accepted position of cashier to Dominion Coal Company, limited, of which company Mr. Whitney was president. This position I held until July 1, 1895, when I was promoted to position as selling agent for New England. I enjoy bread winning a good deal more than I ever did grinding, and I imagine most of the class feel the same.

"With the aid of a rubber foot, I have found that the loss of the real article is not so serious a loss as one would suppose, although it is more or less unpleasant to realize at my age that one has already 'a foot in the grave.'"

GEORGE TYSON.

Is in the banking business with Brown Bros., 50 State Street, Boston.

STEPHEN VAN RENSSELAER.

"Since graduation I have spent some time travelling in the South, and have now returned to Cambridge, where I am studying for the ministry, at the Episcopal Theological Seminary."

ROBERT WAINWRIGHT.

"I passed the summer of 1891 working for the United States Geological Survey, in the carboniferous deposits of Rhode Island and Southern Massachusetts; in the autumn I went back to Harvard and took a post-graduate course in geology and engineering. During the Christmas holidays I took an extended trip with E. F. Fitzhugh, '91, and examined most of the important iron deposits of the South.

"Fitzhugh and myself passed the summer of 1892 together working as ordinary laborers, first in the Aurora mine at Ironwood, Michigan, one of the most important iron mines on the Gogebic range. Later, we went to the Copper Falls mine in the Lake Superior copper district. I left Fitzhugh with Finlay, '91, to go on a prospecting trip in Northern Michigan, and I came East in the autumn.

"I passed part of the winter of 1893 with Fitzhugh at his home in Geneseo. The rest of the time I was in Boston until in the early spring, Fitzhugh and myself went to Port Arthur, Ontario, on the northern shore of Lake Superior, and spent a good part of the summer on a prospecting trip.

"Early in 1894, I began work for the American Bell Telephone Company, which I worked for until January, 1895, when I took a position in the Metropolitan Telephone Company of New York."

ARTHUR STUART WALCOTT.

"Spent the year from July, 1891, to August, 1892, in a trip around the world, with my cousin, a Yale, '91, man, visiting Egypt, India, Burma, China, Japan, Java, Australia, Samoa, and the Hawaiian Islands. From September, 1892, to June, 1894, back at Cambridge in the Law School. September, 1894, entered the law office of Messrs. Daly, Hoyt & Mason, 13 William Street, New York City. Served a week in Brooklyn, L. I., in January, 1895, with Company K, Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y. S., during the trolley car strike. Passed examinations for admission to the New York State Bar, in April, 1895, and in June returned to Cambridge, to take my third year examinations for the Law School degree."

HENRY BRADFORD WASHBURN.

"After graduating from college I entered the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge, where I studied for three years. At the end of my course I received deacon's orders. During my Senior Year at the Theological School, I was one of the lay readers in charge of St. Anne's Church, Lincoln, Mass. I passed the summer of 1892 in travel and study, in England, France, and Germany. I left Cambridge in June, 1894. The summer of that year was spent in England and France, and the winter of 1894-95 in Berlin. I matriculated at the university there, and attended lectures on 'Church History,' by Dr. Adolf Harnack. From the close of the winter semester at Berlin, until the present time, I have been travelling in Germany, Austria, Greece, Italy, and Switzerland. My plans for the coming year are to study at Oxford, during the winter, and to return to America in the autumn of 1896."

RAYMOND LESLIE WEEKS.

"After taking my M. A. in the Graduate School, I taught romance languages two years at University of Michigan, with rank of instructor. I then received appointment as Parker Fellow to Harvard, and passed the years 1893-95 in Europe, remaining at Paris most of the time, but passing one semester at Berlin. My studies were in romance philology and phonetics. My laboratory for experimental phonetics was at the Sorbonne. Was left in sole charge of laboratory for a portion of my stay. While at Paris invented my third instrument for phonetic research, the spiograph. I may say that for Romance work, Paris is so far beyond anything in Germany, that no serious comparison can be made. Let him who doubts this correspond with me.

"I am contributor to the 'Romania,' and to several lesser foreign journals, and am preparing two articles for a new volume in the 'Séries de l'Ecole des Hautes Etudes,' at Paris. From time to time during the last two or three years have published poems and short stories, but in no very reputable magazines.

"I have been chosen full professor for the new chair in Romance Languages at the University of Missouri, where there are already four or five Harvard men.

"My son Hugh, four years old, speaks French as his mother-tongue, but understands, also, German and English. He is so large and strong, that I have to travel with a certificate of his birth, to avoid paying full fare. He is a 'rustler,' and is making straight for the honors of Captain Cumnock."

ALFRED RODMAN WELD.

In business in Boston.

ALFRED WINSOR WELD.

"On the 1st of November, 1891, I entered the office of F. S. Mead & Co., stock and bond brokers, where I have been ever since, being made a member of the firm on July 1, 1895. On the 25th of October, 1892, I was married in Worcester, to Theresa Davis, younger daughter of Edward L. Davis, of that city. We hired a small house on Mountfort Street, Longwood, where on August 21, 1893, a daughter was born, and on November 3, 1894, a son. We are now building in Suffolk Road, on Chestnut Hill, where we hope to move about the first of next year, 1896."

SAMUEL WELLS, JR.

"After graduating I went camping, hunting, and fishing in the lands along the border of Maine and Canada. In November, I entered the employ of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, as agent. I was connected with the Industrial branch. In May, 1892, I was sent to Lowell by the company, as a local inspector. In September, I was made an inspector of agencies, which position I continued to occupy, until July, 1894, when I accepted the position of superintendent of an agency of the Industrial branch, to be started in Detroit. I opened up this district in September, 1894, and I am still here. I am not married, nor engaged, nor have I taken any degrees, except the one we all got in June, 1891.

"There are few Harvard men in this city, and no University Club, and the consequence is that I am almost as far away from college news as though I was out in Fort Worth or some other woolley Western town. I hope that whenever any of the boys come through the town they will hunt me up. My address is easily found.

"The only club to which I belong in this town is the Detroit Boat Club. A delightful clubhouse they have out on the river, where one can recreate. The rest of the clubs here are too expensive."

JACOB WENDELL, JR.

"On leaving college, in June, 1891, I made the most of what I then thought would be my last summer vacation, and the ensuing winter I went into my father's office, not taking any part in the actual business, but being more in the capacity of private secretary to him. In March, 1892, I went abroad for six months, and travelled in France, Germany, and Italy. It was in Rome that I met Luce, Blanchard, and Emerson of our class (the former of whom, I believe, achieved some reputation as a pitcher while in college), B. C. Weld, '89, and R. H. Weld, Jr., '90; and we travelled together for some little time.

"I returned to America in August, 1892, and again took the position which I had before held under my father. In June, 1893, I again went abroad and travelled in Switzerland until August, when I returned to America and entered the employ of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company as a clerk in the office of Mr. J. F. Fairlamb, auditor of Passenger Accounts.

"I stayed there for a year or more, and, finally, in December, 1894, I formed a copartnership with R. L. MacDuffie, '90, under the firm name of Wendell & MacDuffie. The firm represents the Rochester Car Wheel Works, of Rochester, N. Y., the Taunton Locomotive Manufacturing Company, of Taunton, Mass., and a number of other concerns in the railroad line. Of late the development of trolley lines all over the country has made our interests lie more closely with street railways, and our business now bids fair to be very successful. Our office is in the Havemeyer Building, No. 26 Cortlandt Street, New York, where we shall always be glad to provide any of our friends who may call with real railroad cigars, gratis."

LEWIS GARDNER WESTGATE.

"I was a student in geology in the Harvard Graduate School during 1891-92; was instructor in geology in Wesleyan University, 1892-93; and since 1893, I have been Teacher of Natural Science in the Evanston High School. I was elected a Fellow of the Geological Society of America in 1894."

ARTHUR WISSWALD WEYSSE.

"From 1892 to 1894, while studying for the doctor's degree, I assisted in zoölogy at the 'Annex,' — Radcliffe College, — and also in botany at Harvard. In the summer of 1894 I came to Europe, and after a trip up the Rhine, through Southern Germany and Switzerland, went to Dresden, where I took some lessons in German for three weeks, and then went to stay in a German family in a little town in Saxon-Switzerland. In October I matriculated at Leipzig, where I studied with Prof. Lenckart, and joined a German student society, which afforded some interesting and novel experiences. In March, in the spring vacation, I tramped through a part of the 'Fränkische Schweiz,' with a number of German students, on a so-called 'Bummel,' and came back by way of Nuremberg, Carlsbad, and Teflitz in Bohemia, and through Saxon-Switzerland. In April I matriculated in Berlin, and studied with Prof. Hertwig until the middle of August. On July 1 I had the pleasure of announcing my engagement to Miss Jessie Logie, of Edinburgh, Scotland, now at Franklin College, Dresden. The winter of 1895-96 I expect to spend in Paris, and the spring of 1896 in Naples."

HARRY WHITE.

"I have spent three years teaching, two years at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and one at Ogontz, Pa. In 1893-94 I was in the Graduate School studying for my A. M. Last year I taught, at Cheltenham Academy, Greek and history, and this year I shall return to Cambridge to enter the Divinity School. While at Ogontz I was doing non-resident work in the Divinity School, beside my teaching."

ROBERT TREAT WHITEHOUSE.

"Admitted to Cumberland Bar, Portland, Me., April, 1893. Practising law at Portland. Junior member of firm of Drew & Whitehouse, Union Mutual Building, Portland, Me."

MORTIMER OLIVER WILCOX.

"I really have very little to report. I am located in Buffalo, and trying to make a living out of the law. Can't say as yet how successful the attempt will be, but am reasonably well interested in life. There are a good number of Harvard men in Buffalo, and they get together now and then; but I do not often meet a man of the Class of '91. I have not distinguished myself, nor, I trust, disgraced myself, and we will let it go at that."

MAURICE HILGER WILDES.

Has been in the wholesale grocery business in the Northwest.

HAROLD SANFORD WILKINSON.

"Took my degree that Wednesday morning in 1891 without any idea of what I was going to do in the world. On the evening of the same day I heard of a position I thought I should like, and two days afterward I secured it. It was as private secretary to Senator (then Representative) Lodge, of Massachusetts. Before I undertook the work I managed to get in a trip to Europe, almost all of which consisted of a jaunt about Northern Italy with Hackett, '91. From October, 1891, till the middle of 1893, I was busy with the work of correspondence, looking up pension claims and keeping mum. The experience of going through two State campaigns and an election for the Federal House and the Senate, too, was of course interesting and valuable. After two sessions of Congress I decided that I was getting in a rut and was likely to stay out the six years more of the Senator's term without any advancement in position or salary and with a comparatively small increase in experience. If I had known that the hard times were going to strike in so hard I might have hesitated longer. As it was, I went with a trade paper of the printing and photo-engraving crafts. That did n't pan out well and (after working in a semi-business trip to Chicago at the time of the Fair) I drifted into newspaper work in Boston. After a brief spell of that I came to New York in January, 1894, through an offer from Harry Bates, '91, who had just become editor of 'Godey's Magazine.' After seven or eight months in the business department of the magazine I undertook to do some editorial work, because the company had had to reduce the force in that direction. Somehow I have worked into this department and, by Bates's retirement a few days ago, I find myself the editor to-day. If I keep up my gait of changing I don't know what I shall be at when your report is published."

CHARLES WESLEY WILLARD.

"Immediately after graduation, I came to California to take a position in the Belmont School for boys at Belmont. I taught there for two years, and then began the study of law in a law office in San José. I spent a year there, and then went to San Francisco and entered the Hastings Law School. After another year of study there I took my examination before the Supreme Court, and was admitted to practise in California courts. That was a month ago and now I am waiting for clients."

ALLEN HAMILTON WILLIAMS.

"In September, 1892, I entered the Harvard Medical School where I am still studying.

ERNEST PAULINUS WILLIAMS.

"Since leaving college my career has been rather uneventful, immediately going into business with the Williams Table and Lumber Company as treasurer. My business has been so confining that I have been unable to travel for pleasure, merely taking short business trips, which would not be interesting to my classmates. The past week, Aug. 26 to 31, in which was held the Triennial Conclave of Knights Templars of the United States, has been particularly interesting and pleasant for me. As a member of De Molay Commandery, of Boston, I have assisted in entertaining, among others, several of the '91 boys,' who were members of the visiting commanderies.

"I extend to all interested classmates a cordial invitation to look me up when in town and inspect our plant, which I should be pleased to show them at any time."

LEROY BLANCHARD WILLIAMS.

"After graduation studied law with Hiscock, Doheny and Hiscock, at Syracuse, N. Y.; was admitted to the New York Bar in September, 1893, and May 1, 1894, began practice with Alexander H. Cowie, of Syracuse, N. Y., at the above address."

MOSES WILLIAMS, JR.

"Spent the year after graduation partly at the Law School, and partly as a clerk for a Member of Congress in Washington. The following year entered the law office of William Minot, Esq., in Boston, continuing the study of the law at the Boston University Law School. Was admitted to practice at the Suffolk Bar in December, 1894, and am still in Mr. Minot's office."

FREDERIC WINTHROP.

"Went to the Harvard Law School for one year after graduation, 1891-92. During the summer of 1892 did some big game shooting in the Rockies, and travelled extensively through Canada and the Western States. Returned in November, and went into business in the banking house of Robert Winthrop & Co., of New York.

"For convenience, has omitted the Bayard from his name, and now signs himself Frederic Winthrop, instead of Frederic Bayard Winthrop as formerly.

"Sailed for Europe in May, 1894, and travelled through England, Scotland, France, Belgium, and Holland; returned to New York the last of September, and was admitted as a partner in the firm of Robert Winthrop & Co., on October 1, 1894. During the end of October was taken sick with typhoid fever, was confined in bed till after Christmas. Left New York on February 21, for Vancouver, and sailed for Japan on March 4, 1895. Returned home June 2.

"Is a member of the Knickerbocker, Metropolitan, Raquet and New York Athletic Clubs of New York."

GRENVILLE BAYARD WINTHROP.

Business,—lawyer. Address, 19 Liberty Street, N. Y. City.

WILLIAM RUSSELL WITHERLE.

"In September, 1891, I entered the Third National Bank, Boston, and remained there until the spring of 1893. I then obtained the position of treasurer of the Beacon Trust Company of Boston, which opened its banking rooms in May, 1893. I still hold the position and enjoy the banking business. I am also organist and choir-master of a church at Winter Hill (Winter Hill Congregational Church), and so, altogether, do not have much time for loafing."

ROBERT WILLIAMS WOOD.

Immediately after his marriage in 1892, he went to Johns Hopkins for a few months. Also studied chemistry at Chicago University. In the fall of 1894 he went to Berlin with his family.

ARTHUR VERNON WOODWORTH.

"I have been at the University of Freiburg, in Baden, studying political economy and sociology, and expect to work next year in Berlin and London. My address while abroad is care of Brown, Shipley & Co., London."

GEORGE BENTZ WOOMER.

"After leaving college I read law with Capp & Schock, Esqs., of Lebanon, Pa., and on Nov. 27 was admitted to the Bar of Lebanon County (Nov. 27, 1893). About the first of January, 1894, I opened an office on my own account, and have since practised with fair success. In June, 1895, was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and argued an appeal there. In the campaigns of 1892 and 1894 I did considerable work on the stump for the Republican party in my own county, and in the factional contest of this summer in Pennsylvania was engaged on the part of Senator Quay."

CHARLES HENRY CONRAD WRIGHT.

"Went to Europe immediately after graduation. Has taken a four-years course at Trinity College, Oxford, with degree of B. A. in 1895. Spent the summers of 1891 and 1894 in Sussex; that of 1892 in the Harz Mountains (Germany); that of 1893 in the Lake Country; that of 1895 in Paris. Has also spent shorter vacations in Normandy, Channel Islands (Jersey), etc. During 1895-96 is to be Instructor in French at Harvard."

GUSTAV BERNHARD ANDERSON.

"After taking the degree A. M. at Harvard I went to Upsala, Sweden, intending to prepare myself for a professorship in the Scandinavian languages and literatures. I had long cherished the ambition to do this, as I was born in Sweden, and have spoken and read Swedish from childhood up. I spent one year at Upsala, studying Icelandic and the modern Scandinavian literatures. After making a hasty trip through Norway, Denmark, Germany, and France, I returned to Chicago, Ill. Here

I found that it was no easy matter to secure a position as teacher of Scandinavian literatures and languages. I then gave up these studies for a while and plunged into politics, and now hold a position as minute clerk of the Board of Commissioners of Cook County, Ill. At the same time I am studying law in the Kent College of Law, an evening school, and expect to be admitted to the Bar in June, 1896. I have thus three irons in the fire, — to become a teacher of Scandinavian literatures, a lawyer, or a politician. Perhaps I shall practise law after being admitted to the Bar, unless I find myself in the position of the ass who could not make up his mind which of the two stacks of hay to make for, and died from starvation. My daily history can be summed up in the one word, 'hustling.' I frequently think of the years I spent at Harvard and look upon as the happiest years of my life."

CLASS DINNERS.

It is very unfortunate that no record has been kept of our class dinners. In vain have I tried to gather material to make an interesting account of these enjoyable occasions, but "Ben" Gould writes, "Cannot find any poems"; Arthur Nichols writes, "Don't remember anything," and "Jack" Wendell said to me, "My dear fellow, they are ancient history; what we want now is another dinner." However, it may be interesting to some to give a record of these dinners, and I have drawn on my scrap-book, the "Harvard Graduates' Magazine," and my memory for the following data:—

On June 23, 1891, we held our Senior dinner at the Quincy House, Boston. Most of us were there, but I will give you a short account of what happened.

President, ARTHUR J. CUMNOCK.

Toast-master, JACOB WENDELL, JR.

Orator, ROBERT BEVERLY HALE.

Poet, B. A. GOULD, JR.

Chorister, R. W. ATKINSON.

For an account of the dinner I am indebted to J. B. Noyes, who kindly sent me his own report, printed in the Boston Herald of June 24, 1891.

HARVARD'S PRAISES SUNG.

LOYAL SONS FROM FAR AND NEAR CHEER THEIR ALMA MATER.

The edict had gone forth. No undergraduates could dine at Parker's or Young's, and until to-morrow noon the members of the Class of '91 will be undergraduates. College boys do not stop at a trifle, and never was there a gayer nor a finer set of fellows than those who gathered at '91's class dinner last evening at the Quincy House.

The large dining-room could not hold the two hundred and fifty students, who filled every seat, even the aisles, and then a part of the next room.

Mr. Arthur J. Cumnock, first marshal of the class, and captain of the foot-ball eleven, presided, and '91's array of musical, literary, and vocal talent was represented. On the presiding officer's right sat Mr. Jacob Wendell, Jr., the toast-master, and on either side were seated Messrs. "Dud" Dean, J. L. Dodge, Arthur Nichols, and the college men whose names are familiar to every friend of the University. The menus were tasty affairs, with their little bows of '91's color, green, and the dinner was excellent.

Scarcely had the soup been finished when the toast-master called on the chorister, Mr. R. W. Atkinson, and every one joined in "Domine Salvum Fac." Mr. Robert B. Hale gave a very witty history of the class, and its prospects for future success, feelingly alluding to the twenty-two men who will not receive their parchments to-morrow. Then there were cheers for Capt. Dean, the 'Varsity crew, and Cumnock. Mr. Bowman responded for '91's prowess in college base-ball. "Nick" Longworth preferred to let some other fellow respond to the toast of the "True Sport."

Every one joined in singing "Granger John." Mr. W. J. Farquhar responded for the "Crimson," and Mr. Fitzhugh for the crew. Members of the glee club of Freshman days sang the medley.

Mr. Benjamin A. Gould made a great hit in the poem, which brought in many a happy allusion to college men and customs. When "Jack" Wendell sang "O'Gradey's Good at That," the applause knew no bounds; the boys fairly screamed. He responded with an encore, and everybody sang the chorus. Mr. Arthur B. Nichols, the funny man, responded for the "Lampoon." Mr. J. Lowell and Mr. A. G. Liscomb were honored by the toast-master, and Mr. Austrian drew rounds of laughter in his response to the toast, "The Ladies."

Mr. J. L. Dodge, chairman of the Class Day committee, made a telling speech when called upon as a "hustler from the wild West." Mr. O'Brien received as hearty cheering as any speaker on a snapping speech about "The Harvard Man in Politics." There was a silence, and Mr. Cumnock introduced Mr. Lloyd McKim Garrison, as representative from the class of '88, dining at Parker's. Then the boys cheered '88, and Garrison and Dean, and the other favorites, and "Garry," as he is called, recited a poem which stirred every one to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. There was a rousing '91 cheer for "Jim" Lee, who made the touch-down at the Springfield game last fall. Mr. Bass was called upon for the foot-ball team, and Mr. Moen for the foot-ball and Mott-Haven teams. Mr. John Embick sang a song, and he was followed by Mr. Wendell, accompanied by Mr. Atkinson.

Mr. George N. Lamb spoke of the victories made by the Shooting Club. Mr. Burlingham told how he got the last bunch of flowers at the tree last Friday, and Mr. John Masten told how to grow up with the wild West.

Mr. Hammond, Mr. Garceau, and Mr. Blanchard were called upon in turn, and each sat amid deafening applause. Then the toastmaster sang again. Cheer upon cheer for Harvard, for the crew, for every one of prominence in a prominent class, and, with the good old song to "Johnny Harvard" and "Fair Harvard," the dinner of '91 was at an end.

Too much credit for its success cannot be given to M. O. Simonds and the favorite "Wilson" of college life, Jack Wendell. Over two hundred hearty, happy students dined in one room, and never has a more gentlemanly and manly set of fellows gathered in any hotel to sing the praises of Fair Harvard.

On June 3, 1892, we all received the following invitation:—

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., June 3, 1892.

MR.

Dear Sir,—There will be Subscription Dinner of the Class of 1891 on June 22. The place will be published in the "Crimson," and posted at Leavitt & Peirce's. If you can be present, send your name at once to M. O. Simons, 14 Holworthy, Cambridge, Mass.

CLASS COMMITTEE.

On Commencement Day, the class headquarters will be 15 Holworthy.

As I remember it we had a fine time. I draw from H. A. Davis's account in the "Harvard Graduates' Magazine":—

Following the example of recent classes, '91 held a subscription dinner a few days before Commencement. The attendance, though smaller than had been hoped for, was thoroughly representative. About thirty-five members met at Young's Hotel on June 25. A. J. Cumnock presided. There were no formal speeches, although B. A. Gould, Jr., made a hit with a short poem, and R. L. O'Brien with his response to the toast, "The Press." When it was announced that J. P. Lee had decided to return to the Law School next term, the class showed their satisfaction by enthusiastic cheers. After the dinner the class made a circuit of Boston and its suburbs in the "double decker," as the guests of '90.

I was unable to take in the excursion on the "double decker," as at that time I was toiling for a bank, and I had the combination of the safe in my inside pocket, but I understand they had a grand carousal, ending with a ball game at 4 A. M., on Holmes field. If there is ever another such affair, I want to be in it.

Our first triennial dinner was announced as follows:—

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., June 1, 1894.

MR.

The first triennial dinner of the Class of '91 will be held at the Quincy House, Boston, on the evening of June 26. We hope that you will make every effort to be present and thus show that the old class feeling which characterized '91 in college has survived the separation of three years.

The dinner will be held at 7 o'clock, and we would remind you that these triennial dinners are free. If you can be present, will you kindly send word as soon as possible to M. O. Simons, 8 Divinity Hall.

On Commencement Day the headquarters of the class will be in 27 Stoughton.

A. J. CUMNOCK,
J. P. LEE,
M. O. SIMONS,
Class Committee.

Those of you who were fortunate enough to be there will remember how the "good old class feeling" did come out, and what a jolly time we all had. I give the "menu," but only as food for reflection.

MENU.

Little Neck Clams.

SOUP.

Green Turtle.

Consommé à la Royal.

FISH.

Boiled Fresh Salmon, Potatoes Hollandaise.

Baked Bluefish, Port Wine Sauce.

Tomatoes.

Parisienne Potatoes.

Cucumbers.

REMOVES.

Larded Fillet of Beef à la Bordelaise.

Roast Young Turkey, Chestnut Dressing.

Green Goose with Spiced Gooseberries.

Delmonico Potatoes.

French Peas.

Asparagus.

ENTREES.

Patties of Sweetbreads aux Champignons.

Chicken Sauté à la Victoria.

Apricot Fritters aux Maraschino.

Lobster Salad.

RELEVE.

Ice Imperial.

Cigarettes.

GAME.

Red Head Duck.

Larded Grouse.

Julienne Potatoes.

Currant Jelly.

SWEETS.

Sultana Roll, Claret Sauce.

Brandy Jelly.

Strawberries and Cream.

DESSERT.

Oranges.

Bananas.

Pears.

Grapes.

Figs.

Raisins.

Jordan Almonds.

Confectionery.

Orange and Raspberry Sherbets.

Strawberry, Vanilla, Pistaschio Ice Creams.

Assorted Cake. Black Coffee.

I wrote a mild (?) letter to Jack Wendell, who was "toast-master" on this occasion, to help me with an account of the dinner. I give you his letter to me, somewhat expurgated.

Dear Turo,—!!!!?!x!!! and so forth. Your lurid lines arrived this morning. I will try to get some data about the toasts. I have them somewhere on a piece of Irish linen. M. O. Simons spoke on the Clergy of '91 (God save 'em!). Moses Williams spoke on the Class of '91 (God bless 'em!). John Dodge spoke of the Politicians of '91 (God help 'em!). I drooled aimlessly from time to time, being assisted by a box of wires, so did "Allie" Liscomb. Ben. Gould "poemed." Cumnock presided very gracefully. There were dances (on a confined place, on top of the piano), after the dinner was over, etc."

And that was all. I append newspaper cutting from the Record of the 27th.

"The Harvard Class of '91 held its first triennial reunion at the Quincy House last night, and Brattle Square echoed with the familiar and unique cheer of this class, which was handed down to '94, and by it this year transmitted to '97. A. J. Cumnock, the famous captain of the only foot-ball eleven that ever won a game over Yale, presided, and popular 'Jake' Wendell, author of so many college glees, officiated as toast-master and led the cheering and singing. A beautiful silver cup was presented to the class baby, Mary Cunningham Bishop, whose health was drunk from the gift itself, which, filled with champagne, was passed around the tables. About two hundred men were present and a long programme of toasts was responded to."

At this dinner, as at all the others, was sung the class medley.

'91 MEDLEY.

Come let us all go see the soldiers,
 See the soldiers,
 See the soldiers.

Come let us all go see the soldiers,
 See the soldiers play.

Mister Noodle plays the bugle, doodle, doodle, diddledy oodle.

Big bass drum goes bom, bom, bom, bompety, bompety, bom, bom, bom.

Ship goes sailing down the bay,
 Good-bye, my lover, good-bye ;
 We shall not meet for many a day,
 Good-bye, my lover, good-bye ;
 Good-bye, good-bye, I feel like a morning star, tra la la.

I feel, I feel, I feel,
 I feel like a morning star,
 I feel, I feel, I feel,
 I feel like a morning star.

O, Johnny get your gun,
 Johnny get your gun,
 Johnny get your hair cut,
 'Ninety-one.

Chickens in the yard,
 Rooster on the fence,
 Johnny get your hair cut,
 Fifteen cents.

Twinkling stars are laughing, love,
 Laughing on you and me,
 While those bright eyes look in mine
 Twinkling stars they seem to

B-E-N-J-A-Jay-M-I-N-Ben-jam-in —
 B-U-T-Benjamin But —
 L-E-R-Belva A. Lockwood,
 Victoria, Victoria, she will get there.

(Solo.)

Naughty, naughty Clara, etc., etc.,

I'll do just as you please —

(All together.)

For I want one kiss more, one kiss more,
 Give to me at once, or I shall say that you're a dunce,
 I want one kiss more, one kiss more,
 Never let the lady ask for one kiss more.

For who are we? We are the people.

Oh me, oh my, oh my, oh me,

Oh, MOMMAR!

OH, Mama,

Oh, Mama.

Lightly tripping across the floor,

Very fine dancers we.

Oh, so gay,

As they play, and sweet Louie's dancing with me.

Nothing can compare with this,

Whirling along so fast,

As we waltz through all the dance,

Perfect romance,

At last.

(Solo.)

Then swear to be good and true

To the maid whom you say you adore,

And tell her you love her as few

Have ever loved woman before.

Then swear to be good and true

To the maid whom you say you adore,

And tell her you love her as few

Have ever loved woman before.

As we go marching in the grand review,
Fair ladies kiss their hands to me and you.
The sun is shining and the sky is blue ;
Who would not be a soldier bold ?

As we go marching in the grand review,
Fair ladies kiss their hands to me and you.
The sun is shining and the sky is blue ;
Who would not be a soldier bold ?

Be bold. Be bold.

A soldier bold.

On the opposite page is a cut of the class cradle, presented to James Cunningham Bishop for his daughter, Mary Cunningham, who was born Feb. 4, 1893. Those who were at the Triennial will remember how gracefully it was received by H. R. Bishop, Jr., in his brother's behalf, and how we all responded in an appropriate manner.

It has the Harvard shield and motto on the side represented. The inscriptions on the other two sides are: "From the Class of 1891 of Harvard University" and "Mary Cunningham Bishop."

I call your special attention to the treasurer's report. It does seem as if there was a serious lack of class interest. I cannot understand why, at the end of five years, there should be any amounts due, outstanding. Let each man give the amount pledged and put the class "on its feet." It is simply a question whether we can keep on as we have been doing or give up our reunions for a time. It would be very much regretted to have it said that the Class of '91 was the only class of Harvard University that could not continue its class dinners and Commencement spreads. Do not let this happen!

CLASS FUND.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

SINCE the first Treasurer's report, $494 have been subscribed to the Fund, but in the same time subscriptions to the amount of $129 have been withdrawn by death or by some misunderstanding, making a net gain of $365.

We wish the class to take note of the fact that $2,823 is still unpaid. Some men who have subscribed have not returned a single instalment ; some others have returned one or two, and not half the class have closed their accounts. A large number in the class have taken no notice whatever of the Class Fund. Now we have on interest at present $5,744.14, but if these unpaid instalments are settled and more subscriptions sent in, we shall not have an income sufficient to cover the class expenses. If any one wonders why we need a Fund, and what the expenses can be that require an income from $8,000, at least, look at the Treasurer's report of expenses. In company with the other classes of Harvard, we have adopted a certain style of living ; but we cannot keep it up unless our present income is increased. So if any one is hesitating, through lack of information, the present report will satisfy him. With some, doubtless, it has not been possible to meet the subscription, but if these men will send word to the Treasurer that they have their subscriptions in mind to pay when convenient, they will save the Treasurer much bother and the Class Committee much uncertainty.

Investments appearing in the first report, together with the interest on the same of $337.25, have been reinvested as indicated in this report. So far, the Committee have felt it their duty to invest the class money very conservatively and have placed most of it in Savings Banks.

Communications in regard to the Fund may be addressed to
M. O. Simons, Billerica, Mass.

A. J. CUMNOCK,
J. P. LEE,
M. O. SIMONS,
Class Committee.

GENERAL ACCOUNT.

Subscriptions :
To April 20, 1892 . . .	$8,150 00	Instalments paid . . .	$5,692 00
Subscriptions :
Added to Oct. 1, 1895, . . .	365 00	Instalments unpaid . . .	2,823 00
Total subscription . . .	$8,515 00		$8,515 00

BALANCE SHEET.

DR.	CR.
Instalments	Expenses:
Interest drawn	To April 20, 1892 . . .
Class Day Com. bal.	Secretary's report . . .
'91 Foot-ball Team	" Harvard Graduates' . . .
'91 Base-ball Team	Magazine "
	Class Cradle
	'92 Commencement . . .
	'93 Commencement . . .
	'94 Commencement . . .
	'95 Commencement . . .
	Triennial Dinner . . .
	Secretary, 2d report . . . account
	Sundries
	Deposits:
	Seamans Savings Bank,
	N. Y.
	Greenwich Savings Bank,
	N. Y.
	Union Dime Savings
	Bank, N. Y.
	Cambridge Savings Bank, . . .
	Charles River National, . . .
	By J. P. Lee, trustee . . .
$8,081 34	$8,081 34

MINOT OSGOOD SIMONS,
Treasurer.

Necrology.

E. B. Corbin , at Chicago, Ill.	1889.
ROBERT HOWE DAVIS	1894.
ROBERT BEVERLY HALE, at Roxbury, Mass.	Oct. 6, 1895.
Matthew Laflin , 2d, at Chicago, Ill.	Sept. 17, 1890.
JOHN WATSON LAWRENCE, lost at sea	May 27, 1895.
Henry Stanton Marquardt , Des Moines, Ia.	June 19, 1892.
FRANK BOWERS MCKEAN	1894.
AMBROSE WATTS MCLEOD	1893.
WILLIAM BARNES PLATT, at Portland, Me.	July 16, 1892.
JOHN DUNBAR STULTS	1893.
John William Young , at Cambridge, Mass.	Feb. 17, 1891.

* * * * *

To those who are not familiar with John Lawrence's sad death, I will give the following information, most of it obtained from the New York Sun of June 2: John Watson Lawrence was twenty-six years old. Just after he was graduated he went into business with his father in New York, and worked indefatigably. He suffered from an attack of the grip last winter, and when he recovered sufficiently, he and his brother started for Europe for travel and rest. But rest did not come, and taking the advice of a specialist in Paris he started back to America to get the benefit of an ocean trip. The ship was "La Bourgogne," which sailed from Havre, May 25. When they were about seven hundred miles out, some of the steerage passengers saw a young man disappear over the deck rail. It was John Lawrence. They declared that the strong wind blowing had knocked off his hat. He snatched at it and in doing so toppled over the rail and fell into the sea. The curious feature of the story of the immigrants is that they said nothing about it until twenty minutes after. The instant that the first officer heard it he put the ship about and retraced his course. Everything was done to find him, but in vain, and after a three hours' search the ship went on. It was indeed a very sad ending. Those of you who knew "Jack" Lawrence intimately have doubtless already expressed your sympathy. The rest of us can here extend to his family the sincere sorrow we all feel at the untimely loss of a friend and class-mate.

* * * * *

I have received a letter from Mr. G. W. Marquardt, of Des Moines, Iowa, stating that his son, Henry Stanton Marquardt died Jan. 19, 1892, of typhoid fever. At the time of his death he was cashier of the Marquardt Savings Bank in Des Moines, was unmarried, and was one of the most popular young men in the city. His taking away in the prime of his youth is to be deeply mourned. The class extends to his family their sincere sympathy.

* * * * *

Among the former secretary's papers I discovered the following letter which explains itself. Most of us probably never knew E. B. Corbin, as he was but a short time connected with the class. However, his end was remarkably sad.

CLERMONT COUNTY, OHIO,
BATAVIA, JUNE 14, 1891.

MR. DAVIS:

Dear Sir,—Your letter addressed to Mr. E. B. Corbin is received by his father, who in answer says, with a sad and broken heart, "We do not know where the boy is," as he had lost his mind and was under private treatment at Chicago. Although he was watched with great care he escaped about two years ago, and we have never heard from him. We suppose that he has drowned in the lake. Everything was done to find him. So I write to you, "We think him dead." But, oh! if he had not studied so hard — too much for his mental strength.

Yours truly, S. CORBIN.

* * * * *

It is almost impossible to say anything that will express the sorrow we all feel about the death of Robert Beverly Hale. We all knew him; we all loved him and we shall always cherish his memory. Not a man in the class so held the affection of all as did "Robbie" Hale.

A man whose character was of the purest, whose interests and thoughts and actions were never of or for himself but for us all ; who loved every one, and who in return was loved and honored, has left us, — but not for ever, for we have that bright everlasting memory of one we shall always love.

As secretary of the class I sent a wreath of flowers for the funeral, and received from Rev. Edward E. Hale the following letter : —

SOUTH CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH,
BOSTON, Oct. 9, 1895.

DEAR MR. GARCEAU : At some fit time will you express to Robert's class-mates our thanks for their tender memorial of him. I was glad that so many of them could be with us. Nothing gave me so much courage and hope in that sacred time as the feeling that so many fine young men had at heart the interests most dear to him.

Always, dear sir, yours truly,

EDWARD E. HALE.

He died at his home in Roxbury, Oct. 6, 1895, after a short illness of typhoid fever.

MARRIAGES.

- Wm. H. Allen — Bertha Lincoln Briggs, Aug. 9, 1895, Mansfield, Mass.
- G. B. Anderson — Alma Christina Peterson, Örebro, Sweden, March 16, 1893.
- E. L. Baker* — Frances L. Pratt, Oct. 28, 1890, Chicago, Ill.
- W. G. Beach — Flora V. Warner, Dec. 28, 1893.
- A. E. Beckwith* — Olive Crawford Moorhead, June 28, 1892, Syracuse, N. Y.
- A. A. Berle — Mary Augusta Wright, Dec. 24, 1891, Oberlin, Ohio.
- S. L. Bigelow — Mary Crawford Barry, May 10, 1892, Philadelphia, Pa.
- J. C. Bishop — Abigail Adams Hancock, Dec. 14, 1891, Washington, D. C.
- F. W. Brown — Maud Hoxie, June 18, 1895, Roxbury, Mass.
- J. P. Burling — Terese Temple, Feb. 21, 1895, Chicago, Ill.
- G. D. Bussey — Isadora Belle Smith, June 27, 1891, Dixmont, Me.
- T. Chalmers — Maude Virginia Smith, June 20, 1894, Columbus, Ohio.
- W. A. Chamberlin — Frances Esther Warren, Dec. 29, 1890, Geneva, Ohio.
- F. R. Clow — Minnie A. Baldwin, Aug. 22, 1895, Northfield, Minn.
- S. V. R. Crosby — Henrietta Marion Grew, Sept. 18, 1895, Manchester, Mass.
- A. J. Cumnock — Mary Pomeroy Cutting, Oct. 6, 1894, Pittsfield, Mass.
- T. H. Currie — Annie Charlotte Teakles, Sept. 21, 1892, Sackville, N. B.
- F. H. Curtiss* — Helen Lawrence Squire, Oct. 14, 1891.
- H. A. Davis — Anna Norwood Hallowell, Nov. 28, 1895, West Medford, Mass.
- T. T. Davis — Sackville, N. B., 1886.
- W. E. D. Downes — Lena Mead Wills,* Sept. 12, 1893, Roxbury, Mass.
- C. R. Eastman* — 1892.

* Died Dec. 7, 1894.

- F. R. Estes* — Marion Edes Stearns, Oct. 25, 1892, Washington, D. C.
M. Field, Jr. — Chicago, 1891.
- A. J. Garceau, Marion Browning Curtis, May 16, 1895, Boston, Mass.
F. F. Gray — Evelyn Welch, Jan. 12, 1893, New York, N. Y.
- E. L. Hambleton* — Eleanor Louise Fargo, Dec. 31, 1891, Chicago, Ill.
 W. F. Harris — Alice M. Fogg, Sept. 19, 1894, Brookline, Mass.
- O. F. Hershey — Sylvia Rhodora Shaffer, June 1, 1892, Devoy Church, Pa.
- A. D. Hill* — Henriette Post McLean, June 20, 1895, Bellport, Long Island.
- S. C. Hopkinson — Angelica Talcott Rathbone, June 10, 1893, Albany, N. Y.
- C. B. Hurst* — Harriette Hamlin Strobridge, Aug. 1, 1892.
- G. Jones — Pauline Greene, Chicago, Ill., Jan. 31, 1894.
- H. McC. Kelly — Caroline May Vanderslice, Phoenixville, Pa., Dec. 27, 1894.
- A. G. Liscomb* — Caroline Allen Sumner, Shrewsbury, Sept. 16, 1891.
- A. M. Little* — Mary Howard Neale, St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 29, 1892.
- J. W. Mariner — Mary Fargo Antisdell, Chicago, Ill., Oct. 17, 1894.
- M. A. Marsh — Mary Elizabeth Kimball, New York, N. Y., May 1, 1894.
- E. D. McCollom — Estelle Kinney Bingham, Newark, N. J., July 10, 1895.
- C. L. Mix* — Jeanette E. Caldwell, Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 27, 1894.
- E. C. Morey — Ida Sawyer Alward, Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 22, 1892.
- G. Morton — Mary Preston Moore, New Brighton, S. I., N. J., July 30, 1895.
- M. Nelson, Jr. — Mary Kilbourne Brown, Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 11, 1894.
- A. B. Nichols — Gertrude Fuller, Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 25, 1895.
- J. G. Nichols — Sarah Isabel Chase, Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 5, 1894.
- F. B. Noyes* — Harriette J. Stevens, West Newbury, Mass., Nov. 17, 1892.
- J. B. Noyes* — Mary Doak Bartlett, Lynn, Mass., June 2, 1894.
- R. L. O'Brien — Emilie Ayers Young, Lisbon, N. H., Feb. 19, 1895.
- L. C. Page — Kate Stearns, Brookline, Mass., June 3, 1895.
- S. Parsons — Minnie C. Bickford, Lynn, Mass., June 26, 1894.
- H. H. Pease — Katherine Brown Nomis di Pollone, Stockbridge, Mass., Oct. 5, 1895.
- R. H. Post — Carolyn Beatrice Post, March 6, 1895.
- R. B. Potter — Elizabeth Stephens Clare Fish, New York, N. Y., April 3, 1894.

- G. H. Savage — Annie Willett Burbank, Lynnfield, Nov. 28, 1893.
- H. M. Saville — Emily Eldridge Holbrook, of Minneapolis, Minn., at Excelsior, Minn., Sept. 20, 1894.
- M. O. Simons — Helen Louise Savage, Boston, Mass., Dec. 18, 1894.
- J. B. Smiley — Susan Topping Fordham, Wyoming, Iowa, Dec. 26, 1894.
- I. N. P. Stokes — Edith Minturn, at Pointe à Pic, Quebec, Canada, Aug. 21, 1895.
- R. S. Tarr — Kate Storey, Gloucester, Mass., March 28, 1892.
- L. B. Thomas — Evelyn P. Dudley, Kentucky, July 15, 1895.
- E. S. Thomson — Gertrude White Coe, Middlefield, Conn., Sept. 4, 1895.
- John Tunis — Caroline G. Roberts, New York, N. Y., July 9, 1883.
- P. B. Vallé — Isabella Bodine, Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6, 1892.
- R. L. Weeks — Mary Arnoldia, Kansas City, Mo., March 3, 1885.
- A. W. Weld — Theresa Davis, Worcester, Mass., Oct. 25, 1892.
- J. Wendell, Jr. — Marian Fendall, Washington, D. C., April 16, 1895.
- L. G. Westgate — Martha Josephine Beach, Middletown, Conn., Sept. 5, 1893.
- R. T. Whitehouse — Florence Brooks, Augusta, Me., June 19, 1894.
- E. P. Williams — Florence Arnold Baker, Boston, Mass., June 14, 1893.
- H. Wood — Oct. 30, 1894.
- R. W. Wood — Gertrude Ames, San Francisco, Cal., April 19, 1892.

BIRTHS.

- A. E. Beckwith* — a son*, Aug. 4, 1893.
- A. A. Berle* — Lina Wright, Sept. 1, 1893; Adolf Augustus, Jr., Jan. 27, 1895.
- S. L. Bigelow* — John Lawrence, May 16, 1894.
- J. C. Bishop* — Class Baby, MARY CUNNINGHAM, Feb. 4, 1893.
- T. Chalmers* — Thomas Lewis, March 26, 1895.
- W. A. Chamberlin* — Grace Millicent, May 6, 1892.
- A. J. Cumnock* — Mary Cutting, July 11, 1895.
- T. H. Currie* — George Alexander, July 9, 1894.
- W. E. D. Downes* — Elizabeth Sargent, Nov. 30, 1894.
- C. R. Eastman* — Alvan Clark, Munich.
- F. R. Estes* — Frederick Marion, June 18, 1893.
- J. F. Gray* — John Frederick, Jr., Dec. 22, 1893.
- E. L. Hambleton* — Eleanor Ruth, May 10, 1893; Adeline Gladys May 16, 1894.
- O. F. Hershey*, Helen, May 9, 1894.
- C. B. Hurst* — Fletcher, June 5, 1893; Karl, Nov. 22, 1894.
- M. A. Marsh* — Dorothy Kimball, Feb. 10, 1895.
- E. C. Morey* — Ruth Edson, May 20, 1893.
- R. B. Potter* — Clare, Dec. 29, 1894.
- M. O. Simons* — Langdon Savage, Sept. 14, 1895.
- R. S. Tarr* — Russell Storey, April 25, 1893; Shaler Johnson, Aug. 28, 1894.
- John Tunis* — John Roberts, Dec. 9, 1889; Roberts, Oct. 7, 1891.
- R. L. Weeks* — Hugh, March 29, 1891.
- A. W. Weld* — Theresa, Aug. 21, 1893; Walter Winsor, Nov. 3, 1894.
- R. T. Whitehouse* — William Penn Whitehouse, 2d., Aug. 9, 1895.
- R. W. Wood* — Margaret, March 4, 1893; Robert Williams, Jr., June 22, 1894.

* Died Oct. 21, 1894.

 Died Aug. 15, 1895.

POST-GRADUATE DEGREES.

-
- Wm. H. Allen, M. D., Harvard University, 1894.
F. C. Babbitt, A. M., Harvard University, 1892 ; Ph. D., Harvard University, 1895.
H. H. Baker, A. M., Harvard University, 1894 ; LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
H. T. Baldwin, M. D., Harvard University, 1895.
F. R. Bangs, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
R. S. Barlow, A. M., Harvard University, 1894 ; LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
J. H. Barnes, Jr., LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
J. F. Bass, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
W. G. Beach, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
A. A. Berle, A. M., Harvard University, 1891 ; D. D., Yankton College (honorary), 1894.
E. S. Berry, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
S. L. Bigelow, S. B., Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1895.
J. A. Blanchard, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.
C. C. Blaney, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.
S. C. Brackett, LL. B., Boston University, 1893.
F. W. Brown, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
W. G. Brown, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
A. L. Bumpus, S. T. B., Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, 1894.
J. P. Burling, B. D., Chicago Theological Seminary, 1893.
F. W. Burlingham, A. M., LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
A. E. Burr, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
W. Van A. Catron, A. M., Harvard University, 1894.
T. Chalmers, Ph. D., Hiram College, 1892.
T. Chamberlin, M. D., College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, 1895.
W. A. Chamberlin, A. M., pro merito, Denison University, 1894.
F. R. Clow, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
F. G. Coffey, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
H. I. Cummings, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.

- J. Cummings, A. M., Harvard University, 1892 ; Ph. D., University of Chicago, 1894.
- T. H. Currie, A. M., Harvard University, 1893.
- C. B. Darling, M. D., Harvard University, 1894.
- H. A. Davis, A. M., LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- T. T. Davis, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- F. P. Denney, M. D., Harvard University, 1895.
- H. W. Dickinson, A. M., Marietta, 1892.
- A. W. Dudley, A. M., Harvard University, 1893 ; M. D., Harvard University, 1895.
- J. Duff, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- C. R. Eastman*, Ph. D., Harvard University, 1894.
- F. E. Edwards, B. D., Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge.
- T. Everett, LL. B., Columbia Law School, 1892.
- G. S. Fiske, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.
- W. Foley*, A. M., Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, 1894.
- R. M. Franklin, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- C. F. Gettemy, A. M., Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.
- H. R. Gledhill, M. D., Columbia, 1894.
- J. P. Goray*, M. D., Harvard University, 1891.
- B. A. Gould, Jr., A. M., LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- C. B. Gulick*, A. M., Ph. D., Harvard University, 1891.
- R. S. Hale, A. M., Harvard University, 1892 ; M. E., Sibley College, Cornell University, 1893.
- A. B. Halliday, A. M., Columbia, 1893 ; LL. B., Columbia, 1894.
- E. L. Hambleton*, LL. B., North Western University, 1890.
- H. H. Harris, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- W. F. Harris, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- A. S. Hayes, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- A. E. Healey, LL. B., Harvard University, 1893.
- O. F. Hershey, LL. B., University of Maryland, 1892.
- A. D. Hill*, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- J. J. Higgins*, LL. B., Harvard University, 1890.
- F. H. Hitchcock, LL. B., Columbian University, Washington, D. C., 1894 ; LL. M., Columbian University, Washington, D. C., 1895.
- W. L. Hoopes, B. D., Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., 1894.
- Œ. E. How*, Diploma, Meadville Theological School, Meadville, Pa.
- W. G. Howard, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- D. L. Hunt, M. D., Harvard University, 1894.
- C. B. Hurst*, A. M. and Ph. D., University of Tübingen, Germany, 1895.

- J. R. Jenkins, S. T. B., Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., 1895.
- F. L. Jerris, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.
- H. S. Johnson, *Graduated at Rochester Theological Seminary, 1893.
- J. E. Johnson, B. D., Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., 1894.
- H. McC. Kelly, A. M., Bucknell University, 1891; A. M., Harvard University, 1893.
- F. L. Kendall, A. M., Carleton College, 1893.
- W. W. Leach*, M. D., University of Pennsylvania, 1892.
- S. A. Lord*, M. D., Harvard University, 1894.
- J. A. Lowell, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- E. S. Mack, A. M., Harvard University, 1893; LL. B., Harvard University, 1893.
- M. A. Marsh, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- E. D. McCollom, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- A. N. McGeoch, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- C. H. McIntyre, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- K. McKenzie, A. M., Harvard University, 1893; Ph. D., Harvard University, 1895.
- W. G. Meadows*, LL. B., University of Buffalo, 1892.
- C. L. Mix*, A. M., Harvard University, 1891; M. D., Harvard University, 1894.
- E. C. Möen, LL. B., Columbia Law School, 1894.
- A. R. Moore*, LL. B., University of Minnesota, 1891; LL. M., University of Minnesota, 1892.
- E. C. Morey, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- L. K. Morse, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.
- G. Morton, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- J. M. Morton, A. M., Harvard University; LL. B., Harvard University.
- J. G. Nichols, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
- F. B. Noyes*, Graduate Andover Theological Seminary, 1889.
- J. Oenslager Jr., M. D., University of Pennsylvania, 1894.
- A. Oliver, 2d., A. M., Harvard University, 1895.
- C. H. Page*, A. M., Harvard University; Ph. D., Harvard University.
- W. A. Parker, M. D., University of Michigan, 1892.
- H. A. Peckham*, LL. B., Union University.
- T. N. Perkins, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
- C. R. L. Putnam, M. D., Harvard University, 1895.
- J. P. Putnam, A. M., Harvard University, 1894.

- H. N. Rice, LL. B., Harvard University, 1893.
 J. W. Rice, B. D., Yale University, 1895.
H. M. Richards, S. D., Harvard University, 1895.
 J. W. Roberts, A. M., Harvard University.
 F. N. Robinson, A. M., Harvard University, 1892 ; Ph. D., Harvard University, 1894.
 V. Ryder, A. B., Wooster University, 1890 ; A. M., Wooster University, 1893.
 S. C. Saville, M. D., Harvard University, 1894.
 H. E. Sawyer, A. M., Harvard University, 1894 ; Ph. D., Harvard University, 1895.
 W. F. Sawyer, M. D., Harvard University, 1893.
 F. P. Sears, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.
 W. R. Sears, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894 ; A. M., Harvard University, 1894.
 M. O. Simons, A. M., D. B., Harvard University, 1894.
 F. H. Small, A. M., Harvard University, 1892.
 J. B. Smiley, A. M., Harvard University, 1894.
 C. E. Stearns, LL. B., Boston University, 1894.
 J. A. Stetson, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
 W. Stickney, LL. B., Harvard University, 1894.
 A. Sutro, LL. B., University of California.
 H. Tallant, A. M., Harvard University, 1891.
 L. B. Thomas, Gr. Newton Theological School.
E. S. Thomson, M. D., College of Physicians and Surgeons, N. Y., 1892.
 J. Tunis, B. D., Harvard University, 1882 ; A. B., College of the City of New York, 1878.
 A. S. Walcott, LL. B., Harvard University, 1895.
 H. B. Washburn, B. D., Harvard University, 1894.
R. L. Weeks, A. M., Harvard University.
 L. G. Westgate, A. M., Harvard University, 1892 ; Fellow of the Geological Society of America, 1894.
 A. W. Weyse, A. M., Harvard University, 1892 ; Ph. D., Harvard University, 1894.
 H. White, A. M., Harvard University, 1894.
 R. T. Whitehouse, LL. B., Harvard University, 1893.
 G. B. Winthrop, A. M., Columbia ; LL. B., Columbia.
 A. V. Woodworth, B. D., Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., 1894.
 C. H. C. Wright, A. B., Oxford, England, 1895.

OCCUPATIONS.

- Law.—Anderson, Austrian, H. H. Baker, Bangs, Barlow, J. H. Barnes, Jr., Bass, E. S. Berry, J. A. Blanchard, Blaney, Bowman, Brackett, F. W. Brown, Burlingham, Burr, Cody, Coffey, H. I. Cummings, Dabney, H. A. Davis, Dodge, Duff, Embick, T. Everett, G. S. Fiske, Fleetwood, Franklin, Gould, Guerin, Halliday, Hayes, Healey, J. B. Henderson, Jr., Hershey, Higgins, A. D. Hill, Hitchcock, Jerris, Lowell, Mack, McGeoch, McIntyre Meadows, Moen, A. R. Moore, J. M. Morton, Jr., Nelson, Parsons, Peckham, T. N. Perkins, F. P. Sears, W. R. Sears, Stearns, Stetson, Stickney, Sutro, Walcott, Whitehouse, Wilcox, Willard, L. B. Williams, M. Williams, Jr., G. B. Winthrop, Woomer.
- Business.—Amory, T. Barron, Bean, Beckwith, H. R. Bishop, J. C. Bishop, Cohen, Copeland, Corning, Crosby, Crowninshield, Cumnock, Curtiss, Dean, De Normandie, Detrick, K. B. Emerson, Estes, Farquhar, Flint, Foley, Garceau, Greer, Griffin, Hambleton, R. H. Harris, Hawkins, Keene, King, Lamb, Leiter, E. F. Leland, Little, Luce, Marple, Mastin, Norton, L. C. Page, S. D. Parker, Pease, Percival, G. L. Potter, Powers, Priest, Randol, Rich, Rothschild, Rusch, H. E. Sawyer, R. Sears, Shaw, Tileston, Tudor, Tyson, Wainwright, A. R. Weld, A. W. Weld, Wells, Wendall, Wildes, E. P. Williams, F. Winthrop, Witherle.
- Teaching.—Avery, M. Barnes, Beach, Bussey, Catron, Center, W. A. Chamberlin, Chittenden, Clow, Coburn, J. Cummings, Currie, T. T. Davis, Dickinson, Downes, Eastman, Edwards, Gulick, J. O. Hall, Jr., H. H. Harris, Howard, Kelly, Kendall, Liddeke, Marsh, McCollom, McKenzie, Mead, Mix. Morey, Oliver, C. H. Page, H. A. Potter, Ryder, F. H. Small, Smiley, Tarr, Turner, Weeks, Westgate, Wright.
- Medicine.—S. W. Allen, W. H. Allen, H. T. Baldwin, Chalmers, T. Chamberlin, Darling, Deny, Dudley, Gledhill, Goray, Hunt, W. W. Leach, Lord, Oenslager, W. A. Parker, C. R. L. Putnam, W. F. Sawyer, Thomson.

- Theology. — Berle, Bumpus, J. P. Burling, Hoopes, How, Jenkins, H. S. Johnson, J. E. Johnson, Morrill, J. G. Nichols, F. B. Noyes, J. P. Putnam, Reed, J. W. Rice, H. M. Saville, Simons, Thomas, Tunis, Van Rensselaer, Washburn.
- Studying. — Bigelow, A. Hall, Hopkinson, Howells, Leonard, Nutter, Osgood, R. B. Potter, Richards, Robinson, S. C. Saville, Stokes, G. H. Stone, Weysse, White, A. H. Williams.
- Fellowships. — Babbitt, Tallant, Woodworth.
- Architects. — R. L. Emerson, Holt, A. B. Nichols.
- Travelling. — M. L. Black, W. F. Harris, Morgan, G. Morton, Sterne, Wood.
- Journalism. — E. Emerson, Jr., Gettemy, W. P. Jones, F. B. Noyes, Wilkinson.
- Literature. — Doe.
- Mining. — Finlay, Fitzhugh.
- Engineering. — C. A. Blake, R. S. Hale, Neff.
- Fruit Raising. — E. L. Baker, Hammond.
- Flower Raising. — Post.
- Farming. — K. Brown.
- Acting. — Coues.
- Music. — Atkinson, Hackett, G. Jones, Rogers.
- Librarian. — W. G. Brown.
- Secretary. — Morse.
- U. S. Government. — Burnett, Hurst, O'Brien, C. H. Stone.

None, or not given, L. Brooks, H. B. Fiske, Gray, Liscomb, Mariner, Mills, N. W. Perkins, Roberts, Savage.

RECAPITULATION.

Law	64	Engineering	3
Business	63	Fruit Raising	2
Teaching	41	Flower Raising	1
Medicine	18	Farming	1
Theology	20	Acting	1
Studying	16	Music	4
Fellowships	3	Librarian	1
Architects	3	Secretary	1
Travelling	6	U. S. Government	4
Journalism	5	None, or not given	9
Literature	1
Mining	2
			269

ADDRESSES.

-
- Alger, Cyrus Willis, 1 Autumn Street, Boston Highlands.
Allen, Seabury Wells, 509 Beacon Street, Boston.
Allen, William Howard, M. D., Box 22, Mansfield, Mass.
Amory, William, 2d, 50 State Street, Boston.
Anderson, Gustav Bernhard, 3953 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Atkinson, Robert Whitman, Heath Hill, Brookline, Mass.
Austrian, Alfred S., 1808 Indiana Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Avery, John Alton, 22 Dartmouth Street, Somerville, Mass.
Babbitt, Frank Cole, Care of Mr. E. H. Babbitt, Tarrytown, N. Y.
Bailey, Edward Albon, 81 Central Street, Somerville, Mass.
Baker, Edward Larrabee, Corner Main and 10th Streets, Racine, Wis.
Baker, Harvey Humphrey, Newton Street, Brookline, Mass.
Baldwin, Herman Trost, Chestnut Hill Avenue, Boston.
Baldwin, James Dixon Roman, Newport, R. I.
Bangs, Francis Reginald, 240 Beacon Street, Boston.
Barlow, Robert Shaw, 39 East 31st Street, New York, N. Y.
Barnes, Joseph Henry, Jr., 27 School Street, Room 51, Boston.
Barnes, Morgan, Grove City, Pa.
Barron, Thomas, Co. K, 7th Regt. Armory, 66th St., New York, N. Y.
Bass, John Foster, Harvard Club, New York, N. Y.
Bates, Henry Wakefield, 54 Lafayette Place, New York, N. Y.
Beach, Walter Greenwood, Marietta, Ohio.
Beal, George Raynolds, 454 Main Street, Waltham, Mass.
Bean, Charles Harrison, 33 Centre Street, Brookline, Mass.
Beckwith, Ansel Earle, 19 Lincoln Ave., Norwich, Conn.
Bell, Samuel Robinson, 178 Commonwealth Ave., Boston.
Berle, Adolf Augustus, D.D., 697 Cambridge St., Brighton District, Boston.
Berry, Edward Sidney, 22 Gray Street, Cambridge, Mass.
Berry, Henry Franklin, Dawson, Ill.
Bigelow, Samuel Lawrence, 229 Franklin Street, Boston.
Bishop, Heber Reginald, Jr., 1407 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill., or Care H. R. Bishop, Mills Building, Broad St., New York, N. Y.
Bishop, James Cunningham, Merchants' Loan and Trust Co., Chicago, Ill.

- Black, Morris Loveman, 868 Case Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
Black, Otis Fisher, 10 Avon Street, Cambridge, Mass.
Blake, Charles Arthur, Chariton, Iowa.
Blanchard, George Wesley, 113 Lowell Street, Lewiston, Me.
Blanchard, John Adams, 8 Gloucester Street, Boston.
Blaney, Charles Crosby, 469 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.
Bowman, Border, Springfield, Ohio.
Brackett, Sewall Carroll, 54 Eliot Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
Brewster, Schuyler Colfax, Iola, Kansas.
Brooks, Arthur Hendricks, 5 Ash Street, Cambridge, Mass.
Brooks, Lawrence, West Medford, Mass.
Brown, Carroll Neid , Cambridge, Mass.
Brown, Frederick Wires, 55 Kilby Street, Room 44, Boston, or 1 Maple Street, Roxbury, Mass.
Brown, Kenneth, Charlottesville, Va.
Brown, William Garrott, Harvard College Library (or 24 Read's Block), Cambridge, Mass.
Bumpus, Rev. Arthur Lewis, Natick, Mass.
Burke, Charles Bell, Dyersburg, Tenn.
Burkitt, Robert James, P. O. Box 5, Cambridge, Mass.
Burling, Edward Burnham, Eldora, Ia.
Burling, James Perkins, Eldora, Ia.
Burlingham, Frederick Wright, 184 La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.
Burnett, John Torrey, Boston Post Office, Boston, or Southboro, Mass.
Burr, Arthur Ellington, 5 Tremont Street, Boston.
Bussey, George Daniel, East Greenwich, R. I.
Caffey, Francis Gordon, 16 Court Sq., Montgomery, Ala.
Cannon, William Morgan, Norfolk, Mass.
Catron, William Van Allen, Lexington, Lafayette Co., Mo.
Center, David Allen, Woodbridge School, 417 Madison Ave., New York City.
Chalmers, Rev. Thomas, Port Huron, Mich.
Chamberlin, Theodore, Harvard Club, 27 W. 44th Street, New York City, N. Y.
Chamberlin, Willis Arden, Granville, Licking Co., Ohio.
Chester, Frank Dyer, Hotel Bristol, Copley Sq., Boston.
Chittenden, George Herbert, 110 Cushing Ave., Dorchester, Mass.
Clark, Robert Jones, 40 State Street, Boston.
Clatur, Alfred Alonzo, Jr., 135 W. Chester Park, Boston.
Clow, Frederic Redman, 251 Jackson Street, Oshkosh, Wis.
Coburn, Frederick William, 47 Methuen Street, Lowell, Mass.
Codman, Ernest Amory, 40 Kilby Street, Boston.

- Cody, Maurice Jefferson, Box 241, Lexington, Mass.
Coffey, Francis Gordon, 16 Court Square, Montgomery, Ala.
Cohen, William Bryce, care of Oliver Ditson Company, 453 to 463
Washington Street, Boston.
Coombs, Jerome Wahrath, 635 Portland Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Copeland, Herbert, 69 Cornhill, Boston.
Corning, Henry Wick, 869 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.
Coues, Franklin, Cambridge, Mass.
Cox, Edmund Otis, 374 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Crosby, Stephen Van Rensselaer, 35 Congress Street, Boston.
Crowninshield, Francis Boardman, 127 State Street, Boston.
Cryder, W. W., Bonners Ferry, Idaho.
Cummings, Frank Augustus, New Bedford, Mass.
Cummings, Harry Irving, Merrimac, Mass.
Cummings, John, No. 7 Thayer Hall, Cambridge, Mass.
Cumnock, Arthur James, 39 and 41 Leonard Street, New York City.
Currie, Thomas Hatfield, Fredericton, N. B.
Curtiss, Frederic Haines, 65 Bay State Road, Boston.
Cushing, Howard Gardiner, 168 Beacon Street, Boston.
Dabney, Frederick Lewis, 298 Beacon Street, Boston.
Darling, Chas. Balfour, M. D., 215 Huntington Avenue, Boston.
Davis, Horace Andrew, 62 Cotton Exchange Building, New York City.
Davis, Thompson Trueman, 421 Seventh Street, Portland, Or.
Dean, Dudley Stuart, East Las Vegas, N. M.
Denny, Francis Parkman, M. D., Brookline, Mass.
DeNormandie, Philip Yardley, New Bedford, Mass.
Detrick, Charles Reighley, care Reardon & Lyon, 401 California
Street, San Francisco, Cal.
Dickinson, Howard Williams, Hatfield, Mass.
Dodge, John Lockwood, Council Bluffs, Ia., or 56 Pine Street, New York City.
Doe, Perley, Salmon Falls, N. H.
Downes, William Ephraim Daniel, 3 Putnam Place, Roxbury, Mass.
Dudley, Augustus William, Presque Isle, Me.
Duff, John, 57 Equitable Building, Boston.
Eastman, Charles Rochester, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.
Eaton, William Colby, 754 Congress Street, Portland, Me.
Edwards, Rev. Frank Elmer, Morristown, N. J.
Embick, John Beck, Williamsport, Pa.
Emerson, Edwin, Jr., Editors' Rooms, Evening Post, New York.
Emerson, Kenneth B., Brattleboro, Vt.
Emerson, Ralph Lincoln, Milton, Mass.

- Estes, Frederick Reid, care Estes & Lauriat, 301 Washington Street, Boston.
- Everett, Otis, Third National Bank, 53 State Street, Boston.
- Everett, Torrey, Council Bluffs, Iowa.
- Farquhar, William Joslyn, 18 Cortlandt Street, Room 507, New York City.
- Fick, William John, Mauritius Strasse 22 IV, Breslau, Ger.
- Field, Marshall, Jr., Chicago, Ill.
- Finlay, James Ralph, Virginia, Minn.
- Fiske, George Stanley, 261 Clarendon Street, Boston.
- Fiske, Harold Brooks, Petersham, Mass., P. O. Box 1.
- Fitzhugh, Edward Fuller, Mt. Morris, N. Y.
- Fleetwood, Frederick Glead, Morrisville, Vt.
- Flint, Wyman Kneeland, 110 West Water Street, Milwaukee, Wis.
- Foley, William, Lincoln, Ill.
- Frame, James Everett, East Boston, Mass.
- Frank, Adolph Richard, 17 East 61st Street, New York, N. Y.
- Franklin, Robert Maynard, 78 Spring Street, Newport, R. I.
- Freeman, Richard Patrick, Jr., New London, Conn.
- Fulton, Edward, Lower Steroiacke, N. S.
- Garceau, Arthur J., 12 Ashburton Place, Boston, and 108 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston.
- Geary, John White, 1509 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
- George, Herbert Joseph, Mendon, Mass.
- Gerrodette, Frank Honoré, 235 Skillman Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
- Gettemy, Charles Ferris, Advertiser, Boston.
- Gledhill, Henry Robert, Jerseyville, Ill.
- Goldthwaite, George Tarleton, care Dr. Henry Goldthwaite, New York, N. Y.
- Goray, James Philip, M. D., 96 Main Street, Fitchburg, Mass.
- Gould, Benjamin Apthorp, Jr., 29 Liberty Street, New York, N. Y.
- Gray, John Frederick, 41 Wall Street, care Perkins & Welsh, New York, N. Y.
- Greer, Louis Morris, 47 W. 52d Street, New York City, N. Y.
- Griffin, William Lamson, Harvard Club, New York City.
- Guerin, Thomas Edmund, 710-12 Chicago Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.
- Gulick, Charles Burton, 11 Hollis Hall, Cambridge, Mass.
- Hackett, Karleton Spalding, 241 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
- Hale, Robert Sever, 31 Milk Street, Room 62, Boston, or Geo. S. Hale, 16 Tremont Streei.
- Hall, Aldis Owen, 657 Washington Street, Boston.

- Hall, Angelo, Harvard Divinity School, Cambridge, Mass.
 Hall, John Otis, Jr., 203 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.
 Halliday, Alexander Brown, Yonkers, New York, N. Y.
 Hambleton, Earl Lander, 99 Buena Ave., Chicago, Ill.
 Hammond, Edward Crowninshield, New London, Conn.
 Harris, Henry Hale, Varnum School, Lowell, Mass.
 Harris, Robert Henry, 105 Devonshire Street, Boston.
 Harris, William Fenwick, Baring Bros., London, or Mendelssohn & Co., Berlin.
 Harrison, Philip Julian, 919 Pine Street, San Francisco, Cal.
 Hastings, Horatius Bonar, 49 Cornhill, Boston.
 Hawkins, John Walker, Taunton, Mass.
 Hayes, Alfred Samuel, 23 Court Street, Boston.
 Healey, Arthur Everett, 9 Bassett Street, Lynn, Mass.
 Henderson, John Brooks, Jr., 16th Street and Florida Ave., Washington, D. C.
 Henderson, Wilbur Franklin, Chicago, Ill.
 Hershey, Omer Fenimore, Mt. Washington, Md.
 Higgins, John Joseph, 5 Sunnyside Avenue, Winter Hill, Somerville, Mass.
 Hill, Arthur Dehon, 1033 Exchange Building, 53 State Street, Boston.
 Hill, Otis Shepard, 8 High Street, Dorchester, Mass.
 Hill, William, Bloomingdale, Ind.
 Hitchcock, Frank Henry, 39 Cedar Street, Somerville, Mass.
 Holt, Arthur Clark, 197 Washington Street, Somerville, Mass.
 Hoopes, Rev. Wilford Lawrence, 1531 N. 16th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
 Hopkinson, Charles Sidney, 22 Craigie Street, Cambridge, Mass.
 How, James Eads, 2140 Lafayette Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.
 Howard, William Guild, 33 Holyoke House, Cambridge, Mass.
 Howells, John Mead, care of Drexel, Morgan & Cie., 31 Boulevard Haussmann, Paris.
 Hunt, Daniel Lawrence, 171 Walnut Avenue, Roxbury, Mass.
 Huntress, Fred Albion, 318 Elm Street, Somerville, Mass.
 Hurst, Carl Bailey, 1701 Massachusetts Avenue, Washington, D. C.
 Jacoby, James Ralph, 35 W. 52d Street, New York City, N. Y.
 Jenkins, James Rockwood, Trinity House, Columbus, Ohio.
 Jenks, Barton Pickering, 77 Westland Avenue, Boston.
 Jerris, Frederic Larrabee, 13 Sumner Street, Cambridge.
 Johnson, Herbert Spencer, 202 South Street, Pittsfield, Mass.
 Johnson, Rev. Jonathan Edward, Box 54, Nahant, Mass.
 Jones, Grahame, Calumet Club, Chicago, Ill.

- Jones, William Preble, 50 Vernon Street, Somerville, Mass., or Somerville Journal.
- Keene, George Wheeler, 17 Atlantic Street, Lynn, Mass.
- Kelly, Harry McCormick, Mount Vernon, Linn Co., Iowa.
- Kendall, Frederick Lincoln, Dunstable, Mass.; Ridgeville, Ind.
- Kettell, George Frederic, Cambridge, Mass.
- King, Tarrant Putnam, 419 Atlantic Avenue, Boston.
- Knapp, Edgar Jonas, Menomonie, Wis.
- Kohn, Alfred David, 3340 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
- Lamb, George Nichols, 159 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Mass.
- Leach, Joseph Granville, 2118 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
- Leach, Wilmon Whilden, 2118 Spruce Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
- Lee, Angelo, 76 Seymour Street, Hartford, Conn.
- Lee, James Parrish, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
- Lee, Thomas Sim, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
- Leiter, Joseph, Box L, P. O., Chicago, Ill.
- Leland, Charles Frothingham, 162 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
- Leland, Edmund Francis, 219 Federal Street, Boston.
- Leonard, George Henry, Jr., 207 Purchase Street, Boston.
- Lentz, Horace DeYoung, Mauch Chunk, Pa.
- Liddeke, Frederick, Etna Mills, Siskiyou Co., California.
- Little, Arthur Malbon, 383 Washington Street, Boston.
- Liscomb, Albert Goodell, Worcester, Mass.
- Longstreth, Joseph, Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa.
- Longworth, Nicholas, Cincinnati, Ohio.
- Lord, Sidney Archer, Puritan Club, Boston.
- Lowell, James Arnold, Chestnut Hill, Mass.
- Luce, Matthew, Jr., 138 Federal Street, Boston.
- Mack, Edwin Solomon, Marshall and Martin Streets, Milwaukee, Wis.
- MacLeod, Frederic Joseph, Charlottetown Royalty, P. E. I., Canada.
- MacPherson, Henry Stephens, 171 Trenton Street, East Boston.
- Maddox, Robert Foster, Maddox, Rucker & Co., Atlanta, Ga.
- Mariner, John Watkins, 561 Juneau Place, Milwaukee, Wis.
- Marple, Lucius Elliot, 17 Place d'Armes Hill, Montreal, Can.
- Marsh, Melville Asbury, 727 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y.
- Mason, Frank, 40 Equitable Building, Boston.
- Mastin, John Jerome, Kansas City, Mo.
- McAdams, James Philip, 13 Murray Street, Somerville, Mass.
- McCullom, Edward Davidson, West Orange, N. J.
- McCulloch, Hugh, Dornoch, Va.
- McDermid, Duncan, Grand Rapids, Mich.
- McGeoch, Arthur Nye, 245 Prospect Avenue, or Pabst Building, Milwaukee Wis.

- McIntyre, Charles Haddon, 209 Washington Street, Boston.
McKenzie, Kenneth, 12 Garden Street, Cambridge, Mass.
McNear, Fred William, 957 Linden Street, Oakland, Cal.
Mead, Glenn Clayton, Corry, Pa.
Meadows, William Gregory, 114 W. Chippewa Street, Buffalo, N. Y.
Mills, Edgar, Menlo Park, California.
Mix, Charles Louis, M. D., 361 Campbell Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
Möen, Edward Calvin, 308 West 77th Street, New York City, N. Y.
Moore, Albert Randell, 464 Holly Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.
Moore, Josiah Beard, 22 Lyman Street, Waltham, Mass.
Morey, Edward Clark, Belmont, San Mateo Co., Cal.
Morgan, Frederic Grinnell, Aurora, Cayuga Lake, N. Y.
Morrill, Rev. Milo True, Woodstock, Ver.
Morrison, Charles King, 691 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y.
Morse, Lewis Kennedy, 22 Alaska Street, Roxbury, Mass.
Morton, Galloupe, Swampscott, Mass.
Morton, James Madison, Jr., Fall River, Mass.
Muller, William Augustus, Arlington, Mass.
Neff, Nettleton, Oak and Reading Road, Mt. Auburn, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Nelson, Murry, Jr., 44 Borden Block, Chicago, Ill.
Nichols, Arthur Boylston, 46 West 25th Street, New York City, N. Y.
Nichols, Rev. Jesse Gilman, Hamilton, Essex Co., Mass.
Norton, Harry Lovett, 32 Fort Street, West Detroit, Mich.
Noyes, Rev. Frederick Brook, West Newbury, Mass.
Noyes, James Beaumont, 407 Marlboro Street, Boston.
Nutter, Richard Winslow, East Bridgewater, Mass.
O'Brien, Robert Lincoln, Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C.
Oenslager, John, Jr., M. D., 1017 No. 3d Street, Harrisburg, Pa.
Oliver, Andrew, 2d, 27 Brimmer Street, Boston, or Pomfret, Conn.
Osgood, George Laurie, Jr., Brookline, Mass.
Page, Curtis Hidden, Gilmanton, N. H.
Page, Louis Coues, 196 Summer Street, Boston.
Paine, John Bryant, Weston, Mass.
Parke, Lewis Gray, 24 Arlington Street, Cambridge, Mass.
Parker, Edward Oliver, East Holliston, Mass.
Parker, Frederic Henry, East Pepperell, Mass.
Parker, James Alfred, 152 West 49th Street, New York, N. Y.
Parker, Samuel Dunn, 33 Chestnut Street, Boston.
Parker, Wallace Asabel, M. D., 476 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.
Parsons, Starr, 3 Exchange Street, Lynn, Mass.
Pattillo, Guy, Gloucester, Mass.
Pease, Harry Hollister, Harvard Club, New York, N. Y.

- Peckham, Henry Arnold, 91 State Street, Albany, N. Y.
Percival, David Crowell, Jr., 392 Washington Street, Boston.
Perkins, Nathan Wyman, 14 Warren, Woburn, Mass.
Perkins, Thomas Nelson, 1033 Exchange Building, 53 State Street, Boston.
Phinney, Warren, West Medford, Mass.
Post, Régis Henri, 16 Exchange Place, New York, N. Y.
Potter, George Livermore, 40 Perrin Street, Boston.
Potter, Harry Austin, St. Mark's, Southborough, Mass.
Potter, Robert Burnside, care of Mrs. Robert B. Potter, care of Brown Bros. & Co., 61 Wall Street, New York City, N. Y.
Powers, John Orville, 255 West 70th Street, New York City, N. Y.
Priest, George Wesley, Watertown, Mass.
Putnam, Charles Russell Lowell, care Geo. Putnam, Esq., 50 State Street, Boston.
Putnam, John Parkhurst, 23 Fruit Street, Worcester, Mass.
Randol, William Merwin, University Club, San Francisco, Cal.
Reed, Willard, care Jas. J. Comer, Spear's Wharf, Baltimore, Md.
Rhineland, Philip Mercer, 289 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Rice, Harrison Norman, 35 William Street, Worcester, Mass.
Rice, Henry N., 53 State St., Boston, or 35 William St., Worcester.
Rice, John Wesley, Rockland, Mass.
Rich, Henry, Babcock Street, Brookline, Mass.
Richards, Herbert Maule, 7 Arnold Avenue, Newport, R. I.; care
Brown, Shipley & Co., Founders Court, Lothbury, London, E. C.
Richardson, John Cole Hayden, St. Joseph, Mo.
Roberts, John William, Ayer, Mass.
Robinson, Fred Norris, 33 Holyoke House, Cambridge, Mass.
Rogers, Francis Stetson, care Whitby & Co., Bankers, Florence, Italy.
Roots, Logan Herbert, Little Rock, Ark.
Ross, Henry Phipps, 5 Lawrence, Cambridge, Mass.
Rothschild, Victor Sydney, 43 Leonard Street, New York City.
Rusch, Henry Arthur, 92 Grand Street, New York City.
Ryder, Virgil, Lucas, Richland County, Ohio.
Savage, George Hubbard, Lynnfield Centre, Mass.
Saville, Sumner Carruth, 57 Shepard Street, Cambridge, Mass.
Saville, Rev. Henry Martyn, 191 County Street, New Bedford, Mass.
Sawyer, Harris Eastman, 37 Gates Street, Boston.
Sawyer, Walter Fairbanks, 18 Prichard Street, Fitchburg, Mass.
Sears, Francis Philip, 85 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston.
Sears, Richard, 85 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, and "Locust Hill," Waltham, Mass.
Sears, William Richards, 100 Pinckney Street, Boston.

- Shaw, Quincy Adams, Jr., 12 Ashburton Place, Boston.
Sheffield, Justus Pearl, 123 W. 39th Street, New York City.
Simonds, Arthur Beaman, 718 9th Street, Oakland, Cal.
Simons, Minot Osgood, Rev., Billerica, Mass.
Slattery, Charles Lewis, Brunswick, Me.
Small, Fritz Hubert, 90 West Emerson Street, Melrose, Mass.
Small, Herbert, Boston Herald, or 19 Hotel Nightingale, Boston.
Smiley, James Brady, 81 Clinton Street, Cleveland, Ohio.
Smith, Crapo Cornell, 789 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich.
Smith, Frank Avery, Canandaigua, N. Y.
Stead, Thomas Jefferson, Union League Club, New York, N. Y.
Stearns, Charles Ephraim, 15 Vernon Street, Waltham, Mass.
Sterne, William Charles, 75 East Michigan Street, Indianapolis, Ind.
Stetson, Joseph Austin, care Rowland Cox, Esq., 229 Broadway, New York City.
Stickney, Weston, 124 East 37th Street, New York City.
Stockton, Lawrence Mason, 390 Beacon Street, Boston.
Stokes, I. N. P., 229 Madison Avenue, New York City.
Stone, Charles Henry, 1721 De Sales St., N. W., Washington, D. C.
Stone, George Henry, care W. E. Stone, Greensboro, N. C.
Sutro, Alfred, 1935 Jackson Street, San Francisco, Cal.
Swan, Charles Louis, M. D., Stoughton, Mass.
Tallant, Hugh, 25 Rue de Vaugirard, Paris, France.
Tarr, Ralph Stockman, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.
Taussig, Albert Ernst, 2018 Rutger Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Thomas, Rev. Leo Boone, First Baptist Church, Kiowa Street, Colorado Springs, Colo.
Thomson, Edmund Sanford, M. D., 91 Park Street, New Haven, Conn.
Tileston, Roger Edmund, Mattapan, Mass.
Tudor, Frederic, Jr., 95 Milk Street, Boston.
Tunis, Rev. John, Grace Church, Millbrook, N. Y.
Turner, Wallace Manahan, 22 Sycamore Street, Worcester, Mass.
Tyson, George, 314 Dartmouth Street, Boston.
Vallé, Paul Barbeau, 58 West 57th Street, New York, N. Y.
Van Rensselaer, Stephen, Berkeley Springs, W. Va.
Wainwright, Robert, 40 State Street, Boston.
Walcott, Arthur Stuart, care Harvard Club, 27 West 44th Street, New York City, N. Y.
Walker, James Henry, Jr., care Jas. H. Walker & Co., Adams and Market Streets, Chicago, Ill.
Washburn, Henry Bradford, Worcester, Mass.
Weeks, Raymond Leslie, Columbia, Mo.

- Weissman, Jesse Meyer, 2 East 80th Street, New York, N. Y.
Weld, Alfred Rodman, Dedham, Mass.
Weld, Alfred Winsor, Room 2, 7 Exchange Place, Boston.
Wells, Samuel, Jr., 32 Fort Street, W., Room 2, Detroit, Mich., or care Bangs and Wells, 22 Pemberton Square, Boston.
Wendell, Jacob, Jr., 8 East 38th Street, New York City.
Westgate, Lewis Gardner, 1208 Chicago Avenue, Evanston, Ill.
Weysse, Arthur Wisswald, Park Street, West Roxbury, Mass.
White, Harry, Eatontown, N. J.
Whitehouse, Robert Treat, 42 Deering Street, Portland, Me.
Whiting, Charles Allen. (Cannot be found.)
Wilcox, Mortimer Oliver, Gasport, N. Y.
Wildes, Maurice Hilger, Everett, Wash.
Wilkinson, Harold Sanford, 52 Lafayette Place, New York N. Y.
Willard, Charles Wesley, Belmont, Cal.
Williams, Allen Hamilton, Box 444, Fort Wayne, Ind. Address for 1895-96, 51 Ware Hall, Cambridge.
Williams, Ernest Paulinus, 1 Hillside Avenue, Somerville, Mass.
Williams, Gibson Tenney, 1226 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.
Williams, Leroy Blanchard, 17 and 18 Syracuse Savings Bank Building, Syracuse, N. Y.
Williams, Moses, Jr., 433 Walnut Street, Brookline, Mass.
Winslow, Charles Fenno, 188 School Street, Roxbury, Mass.
Winthrop, Frederic, 3 Broad Street, N. Y.
Winthrop, Grenville Bayard, 170 West 59th Street, or 100 Broadway,
New York City.
Witherle, William Russell. Business address, 89 State Street, Boston. Boards at 149 Sycamore Street, Somerville.
Wood, Harry, Natick, Mass.
Wood, Robert Williams, Mendelssohn Co., Berlin, Germany.
Woodworth, Arthur Vernon, 204 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.
Woomer, George Bentz, 802 Cumberland Street, or 701 Chestnut Street, Lebanon, Pa.
Wright, Charles Henry Conrad, 16 Gray Street, Cambridge, Mass.

